COL. ROOSEVELT SCORES FARLEY 'SPOILS SYSTEM'

Merit Plan Junked, G. O. P. Told.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—Col. Theodore Roosevelt of New York today charged Postmaster General James A. Farley with building a "colossal Tammany" for the Roosevelt administration out of "spoils politics" in PWA, WPA, and other easy money spending agencies.

The son of the late President Theodore Roosevelt ripped into boondoggling as a symbol of a "hierarchy" of social workers at Washington, and accused Farley of making "political appointments" to postoffices, and the New Deal of trying to wreck civil service in building up a burocracy.

"For the first time in our history," he said, "we have seen an administration deliberately set out to buy the people's votes with the people's money."

Hailed as Campaign Opener.

Col. Roosevelt addressed the Hoosier Republicans, Inc., at a meeting this afternoon that filled the English theater to the lobby, and later spoke to an overflow gathering at the Columbia club. The speech was heralded by the Hoosier Republicans, Inc., as the opening gun of the 1936 campaign in Indiana.

"President Roosevelt likened himself to President Jackson," he said. "There is one similarity. Jackson believed in the spoils system. President Roosevelt has far outdistanced him. Jackson only disposed of a paltry 5,000 positions to his henchmen; President Roosevelt has disposed of hundreds of thousands."

The speaker rated Mr. Farley as No. 1 "brazen spoilsman," and said "but his position of preëminence is threatened by Ickes, et al."

"Last autumn we had an election in Kentucky. Ten days before election 42 million dollars of federal government funds were released in that state, or about $40 for every voter.

Hits Relief Roll Plea.

"In addition, unsigned letters were sent by some one in Washington to every voter on relief rolls saying, 'Won't you help President Roosevelt and yourself by voting for Chandler on the Democratic ticket?'

"In Poughkeepsie, principal town of President Roosevelt's home county, shortly before election $454,000 was turned loose by the federal government. In Chelsea, Mass., on the eve of election 1,500 jobs were handed out."

Col. Roosevelt then turned to Mr. Farley's activities in the postoffice.

"Mr. Farley," he said, "announced the merit system would apply as far as presidential appointments were concerned. The facts are that in no previous administration have there been so many changes and dismissals of postmasters for purely partisan reasons. Mr. Farley to date has made between nine and ten thousand political appointments of presidential postmasters.

Public Subsidizes Henchmen.

"There are about 15,000 presidential postmasters. With these under control of Mr. Farley, it means that the people are subsidizing his political adherents in salaries to the extent of about 30 millions a year.

"The merit system has been built up laboriously through years. The records of all Presidents until 1933 showed they backed the civil service and extended it. President Roosevelt has been the first one to permit a direct and systematic assault on it."

Col. Roosevelt said the increase in federal employés has been so great that Secretary Ickes is planning to take over buildings in Baltimore to house them.

A Mad Hatter's Tea Party.

"Under Mr. Hopkins there has been established a veritable hierarchy of social workers, for where eurythmic dancing is taught there must be people to teach it; where young Americans are instructed in boondoggling there must be experienced boondoggers to instruct.

"The outpatients in bedlam have found positions and scope for their abilities.

"President Roosevelt quoted from 'Alice in Wonderland' in his campaign. There is a strong similarity between his administration and the Mad Hat-

JEWRY LEADERS TO AID EXODUS FROM GERMANY

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Leaders of world Jewry today announced plans for a race exodus from Hitlerized Germany.

Sir Herbert Samuel, former British high commissioner to Palestine, said a definite method would be formulated within a few days to provide for the gradual emigration of at least 100,000 of the German reich's estimated 430,000 Jewish population.

The undertaking, strikingly parallel to the saga of the 40 year trek of Moses and his Biblical band, will be financed by a fund of approximately $15,000,000 raised jointly by the contributions of sympathetic English and American Jews.

Denies Trade with Germans.

Sir Herbert, here to attend the national council of Jewish federations and welfare funds, denied published reports that the project would be financed by the purchase of German manufactured goods given emigrating Jews by the Nazis in lieu of their property. A Nazi decree prohibits the export of money from Germany.

"That is not and never has been our plan," said Sir Herbert. "We have never considered any proposal involving breaking the boycott on German goods."

Sir Herbert, bitter at Nazi bans against non-Aryans, declared the limiting edicts of Hitler had taken away means of livelihood from half the German Jewish population.

Help in Form of Loans.

"The young Jew in particular suffers," said the statesman. "He is banned from entering the professions and in most cases has no future to look forward to more pleasant than starvation of the body and degradation of the soul."

Sir Herbert, Felix Warburg, New York banker, and other leaders hope to raise $10,000,000 in America and $5,000,000 in England. They plan to lend emigrants enough to reach a new land and establish themselves, the money eventually to be repaid to the general refugee fund.

As many refugees as possible will seek haven in Palestine. Others, as immigration laws permit, will be taken to America, Canada, England and European countries free from anti-Semitic restrictions.

Hope to Assist Young.

"We cannot hope to take all Jews from Germany," said Sir Herbert. "Many of the older generation, most of whom are living on their savings, must die there.

"It is the young German Jew, helpless and hopeless now, whom we would aid. Our object is to set him up in another country as a self-dependent, self-reliant citizen—not to make him a name on a relief list."

The general council adopted a resolution, presented by Judge M. C. Sloss of San Francisco, pledging American Jews to assist in the rehabilitation of the refugees and in raising the "largest possible sum" to help finance the exodus.

Wealthy Already Moving.

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Jan. 26.—An exodus of the wealthier part of the Jewish population of Germany with a certain proportion of its capital already is in progress, according to information that has reached the New York Times here.

The exodus is being carried out to the great advantage of German industry, with an increase of German exports in prospect, if not actually existent. The original crude system whereby Jews emigrating to Palestine under a "fugitive tax" of 25 per cent of their wealth could take out half of the rest in double the amount of German goods, which they sold abroad as best they could, but actually at dumping prices, has been elaborated and improved.

Must Wait 10 to 13 Years.

That system started the emigrating Jew in his new country with about one-fifth of the resources he had enjoyed in Germany. The new system, promoted by the reich ministry of economics and the Reichsbank, gives him more cash and enables him in fact to emerge with perhaps 65 per cent of his fortune if he is willing to wait from perhaps ten to thirteen years to collect it in instalments.

Fifty persons were injured late last night when two of the three cars of a southbound Jackson Park elevated train ran off the rails, curving toward the Indiana avenue station, at a point near 40th street and Wabash avenue.

The condition of three women among the injured was regarded as serious. Twenty-three others were treated in a hospital and about twenty-five others suffered bruises and cuts that were not regarded as dangerous and went to their homes.

At the time of the accident the train, an express, was running in the center one of the three tracks of the north-south line. It was moving at a fair rate of speed when the front trucks of the first car leaped from the rails and began bumping on the ties. The second car followed.

Trucks Torn Off Car.

This bumping continued for about a car length before the front trucks were torn from the body of the car. There was then a sudden stop that hurled the passengers of the three cars forward violently. The train stopped on the curve shortly before it reached the tracks of the Stockyards line, which run east and west at the place where the accident occurred.

As the halt was made both the first and second cars careened over to the right until they hung at about a 45 degree angle. The already heavily jolted passengers were hurtled against the right or west side of the cars and many were cut by window glass or bruised against the sills.

One Car Holds to Rails.

Passengers on the third car, which held to the rails, were jolted, but few of them were severely hurt.

As soon as elevated officials heard of the accident they shut off the power in the third rails nearby. Firemen, summoned to the scene, placed ladders on the west side of the elevated structure and climbed up to rescue those who were in the leaning cars and unable to get out.

They took Mrs. Margaret Coyle, 44 years old, 6349 Evans avenue, and Mrs. Lena Spears, 44 years old, 926 West 52d street, to the Mercy hospital for treatment. Mrs. Coyle apparently was paralyzed in both legs. Mrs. Agnes Rosskamm, 47 years old, 6455 Ellis avenue, was taken to the Woodlawn hospital. These three were the most severely hurt.

Motorman Tells Story.

Albert J. Totte, 47 years old, 6323 Magnolia avenue, was motorman of the train. His story of the wreck was told the police.

"The train was on time," he said. "It was due at Indiana avenue at 11:42 p. m. I was driving it at the normal rate of speed, about 15 miles an hour on this curve. The brakes were all right and I know of no defect in the equipment. Signal lights at the curve were properly set.

"As I started around the curve the trucks left the tracks. I don't know why. They sheared the inner rail of the outer track and stopped on a tilt. There was no danger that any of the Expect Little Relief Before Thursday.

Chicagoans who think they are getting more than their share of winter may glean a bit of comfort by reading this list of below zero temperatures in other cities:

Under the bite of a record breaking cold wave, Chicago and most of the nation looked vainly last night for relief from the worst siege of subzero weather in twenty-four years.

Every indication, according to Forecaster J. R. Lloyd, points to continuation of cold which will send the mercury to zero or below every day at least until Wednesday, and probably Thursday. Today all the country east of the Rocky mountains, except southern Florida, will feel the widespread cold.

"This is the most extensive cold wave since 1912," Mr. Lloyd said. "In January of that year there were ten successive days when the minimum temperature was below zero.

Relief Entirely Out of Sight.

"Starting last Wednesday morning, our present cold has brought five such days in a row. All omens point to three more of these days at least, before warmer air moves in. There is none in sight now anywhere.

"One reinforcement of cold air after another keeps moving in from the frozen MacKenzie river basin of western Canada. This means we will undoubtedly have readings below zero here until at least Wednesday afternoon, with the mercury seldom if ever rising to zero or above."

Faced with this prediction, several country grade schools announced last night that they would remain closed today, among them those in District 148 [Dolton and Riverdale] and three grade schools in Arlington Heights. According to Superintendent William J. Bogan, however, Chicago public schools will stay open.

Mercury Stays Down in Bulb.

Forecaster Lloyd said last night that the mercury would reach a mimimum of 12 below in the city and 15 below in the western and northern suburbs during the morning hours today.

In the last five days there have been only two brief respites from the zero wave. One was on Friday and the second on Saturday when the thermometer went to 11 above, the highest temperature recorded in this period.

The mercury remained above zero until 3 a. m. yesterday when it dipped to 1 below. By 8:45 a. m. the minimum of 9 below was reached. Thereafter the temperature rose a few degrees—the warmest was 1 below—until afternoon when it again started dropping. At 8 p. m. it was 6 below, at midnight 4 below [unofficial].

Suburbs Colder Than City.

Suburban readings, as usual, ranged several degrees below Chicago. The following were reported during the day: Libertyville, —18; Waukegan, —15; Niles Center, —14; Morton Grove, —12; Kenilworth, Wilmette, and Evanston, —10.

Throughout the east, south, and some parts of the central west, temperatures rose several degrees yesterday, but toward nightfall the silvery column started downward, as northwest winds blew afresh, and more cold air spread over the region.

The "cold front" pushed down into the Texas coast and the Rio Grande valley. It moved through southern Illinois, Indiana, eastern Ohio, and Tennessee to the Appalachian mountains. Natives shivered under freezing winds in the deep south—central Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, and Georgia.

Freeze in Texas, Swim at Miami.

Brownsville, Tex., second southernmost point in the country, was freezing at midnight But beaches at Miami, Fla., the nation's winter playground, were crowded yesterday. The temperature there was 76 in the shade.

In the east, the cold air mass,

Carol's Friend Tries to Regain Girlish Figure

VIENNA, Jan. 26.—(AP)—The always mysterious movements of Mme. Magda Lupescu, the woman reputed to be able to influence a king and to run Rumania pretty much to her liking, caused a new buzz of speculation today.

Vienna friends of the red haired beauty, however, said they doubted apparently reliable reports that she was aboard the special train which carried King Carol of Rumania to London for the funeral of King George V.

The reports said that Mme. Lupescu planned to leave the train at Paris. Her Vienna friends, while conceding she usually makes an annual visit to the French capital for beauty treatments, said she was too circumspect to travel on the funeral train.

Gaining Weight; Has Freckles.

Strict censorship clouds the movements of Mme. Lupescu in Rumania, and her name never appears in that country's newspapers. Mere mention of her by the man on the street is sufficient to warant arrest.

It is known, however, that King Carol's intimate friend, who is head of the royal camarilla in Bucharest and the wealthiest woman of the Balkans, is having her troubles with weight and freckles.

She will be 36 years old this year, and recently she became rather plump. Friends convinced her she must regain the slender figure she possessed when she was known as a European beauty.

Due to the peculiar situation in which Mme. Lupescu finds herself—she lives closely guarded in seclusion—long walks through the capital or horseback riding are out of the question.

Uses American Reducing Devices.

So she ordered a variety of American made reducing machines which have been installed in her palatial home in Bucharest, and it is said that she now is spending several hours daily to get back the girlish figure which first won the admiration of King Carol.

Like most red haired women she also has freckles and some of the best beauty specialists of Bucharest and Paris so far have failed to remove them.

There are, however, more important worries for Mme. Lupescu. Her political enemies never cease their activity. Renewed efforts are being made by the leaders of the National Peasant party, to whom the king promised leadership of the state, to induce her to leave the country.

WOMAN AVERTS PANIC IN MOVIE THEATER BLAZE

An incipient panic among 450 patrons of the Alvin theater at 1612 West Chicago avenue, which arose last night when films in the projecting booth caught fire, was quelled by the quick action of Miss Viola Larsen, 1506 West Erie street.

There was a rush for the exits at the rear of the theater when the flames burst out of the booth. Miss Larsen, realizing that some one might be hurt if the disorder continued, climbed on her chair and called for quiet.

"Take your time," she cried. "There's plenty of time. And there are plenty of exits. Nobody will be hurt if we all go slowly." Some of the showgoers near her applauded and the rush immediately slowed down. Ushers opened the side exits and the danger of a crush was done away with. Firemen found that the damage to the booth was small.

Miss Larsen, who is chairman of the law enforcement committee of the Illinois Citizens' Animal Welfare league, recently was awarded a special decoration for outstanding work in the rescue of stray dogs.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 26.—Max L. Quin, an American citizen, was kidnaped by a group of bandits Friday from mine "El Cubo" about 18 miles from Guanajuato City. The bandits demand 10,000 pesos [about $2,700] ransom. Quin has been manager of he El Cubo Mining company for more than 20 years. Federal troops pursued the bandits and encountered them entrenched in a hill. Three rebels were killed in the battle. The rest fled with Quin.

European Ballet and a Child Piano Prodigy

Beauty Killed by Poison on a Toothbrush

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Jan. 26.—(AP)—A weird mystery of sudden death with beautiful "Miss Rumania" as the victim and a toothbrush as the suspected lethal weapon left Bucharest police up against a dead end tonight.

They denied reports circulated abroad yesterday that an engineer had confessed mixing poison with the toothpaste of Tita Cristescu, the toast of the capital, whose strange death now is believed to have been caused by a subtle and deadly venom.

Police Are Stumped.

Authorities said there was no solution to the case. They have questioned many men who were infatuated with the spirited actress.

Not long before her death Tita had been adjudged "Miss Rumania," the prettiest girl in the land, in a nation-wide poll.

The original theory of suicide was discarded after a chemist found traces of a rare poison in the girl's blood stream and after police had established she could have had no ready access to such a deadly agent.

Find Poison on Lipstick.

Then it was discovered the actress' toilet articles had been dipped in the poison. Investigators found traces of it on her toothbrush, lipstick, eyebrow tweezers and even on the metal springs with which she set her curls before appearing at the Queen Marie theater.

Detectives expressed the belief that the toothbrush was the implement of death. They said a slight abrasion on the gums would have been sufficient to permit introduction of a fatal amount of the poison into the blood stream, particularly if the brush had been used several times.

GREAT FOR CARS, THIS WATER THAT NEVER FREEZES

"Out there the water ain't froze."

This opened an interesting field for scientific research in the mind of one of the machinist helpers. The next summer he rowed far out in the lake and filled several cans with water.

Came again the cold weather, and the thoughtful one grinned as his cronies bought anti-freeze mixtures for their cars. He had a better idea. He drained his radiator and poured in his "out there" lake water.

Now he's saving money for a new cylinder head.

Subzero cold also hampered the efforts of firemen fighting two blazes in Chicagoland. The fuel and timber were saved.

Iowa agronomists said the last week's heavy snowfall, which closed schools and blocked highways, may be considered a boon to farmers. It formed a protective covering for winter crops and stored up ample moisture for spring planting.

TRAIN LATE, 350 BURN PLATFORM TO WARM SELVES

New York, Jan. 27 [Monday].—[Special.]—About 1,500 winter sports enthusiasts spent more than twelve hours last night and early today trying to get back to New York after a freight train wreck between Haverstraw and West Haverstraw, N. Y., had marooned them upstate, leaving 350 of them on the unsheltered platform of the Bear Mountain station for four hours.

The passengers stranded at Bear Mountain in a temperature of 8 degrees above zero while icy blasts from the frozen Hudson river whipped snow about them, staged a near riot. Howling and shrieking, they tore up planks from the platform and twenty foot beams from the park docks near by, heaping up the fuel into a giant bonfire.

The bonfire was so large the interstate park police sent in a riot call for policemen to check the flames, fearing they would start a forest fire. An hour later when the flames were under control the squad carried five gallons of coffee from the inn, half a mile away, to the half frozen men and women huddled about the dying fire.

LEAPS FROM LINK BRIDGE; RIVER IS COLD; CALLS HELP

A man who said he is Jack Ward, 20 years old, 4322 Kenmore avenue, was pulled out of the chill water of the Chicago river last night after he leaped from the east rail of the Michigan avenue bridge at its south end.

Park Policeman Michael Gibbons and Percy Aylmer, on trafic duty at Michigan avenue and Wacker drive, were summoned by witnesses. Going down the steps to the river side, the policemen found Ward clinging to pilings and crying for help.

They pulled him out, put him in a cab and sent him to St. Luke's hospital, where he was treated for exposure. Physicians found that he had suffered no serious injury, although he struck ice blocks in the stream. Ward said he was an elevator operator in a loop store. He declined to tell why he had leaped.

JOE CALLS JEAN FOR $20.50; HAD NOTHING TO SAY

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—It cost Joe Duggan, 14 years old, $20.50 of some one else's money to try to talk by telephone to Jean Harlow at Hollywood. He had to be content to talk to her secretary, but asked that the actress call him. Even that took five minutes.

It was several hours later that the telephone rang in the home of Charles Gerofsky and the operator said Miss Harlow was on the wire. None of the Gerofskys had put in the call, and they thought of Joe, who runs errands for them after school. Yes, he said, he put in the call.

"What were you going to say to her?" he was asked.

"I don't know," he replied.

BRITONS FILE BY KING'S BIER ALL THROUGH NIGHT

Throng Totals Half Million in Three Days.

BULLETIN.

LONDON, Jan. 27 (Monday).—(AP)—Angry scenes occurred at Westminster hall, where King George's body lies in state, when the doors were closed early today to hundreds who stood in line waiting to pay their respects to the dead monarch. It had been announced previously by radio that the hall would remain open until 6 a. m. Police blocked the way of the crowd. A woman led a small procession to No. 10 Downing street, but the group was unable to see Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 26.—Throngs of Londoners about Westminster hall, where the body of King George V. lies in state, tonight had swelled to such proportions that authorities decided to keep the doors open until 6 o'clock in the morning.

At midnight it was estimated half a million persons had filed by the king's bier in three days.

The waiting line at times was three miles long and at midnight numbered 50,000 running for more than a mile down the banks of the Thames with more persons gathering for an all night vigil. Special police hurried them along. Ambulance crews treated 500 fainting cases. Trafic jams were frequent all over London. Even members of the royal family were delayed. Bus and subway lines were so taxed that authorities kept much extra equipment in service through the night.

Lauds King's Home Life.

While thousands walked through Westminster hall, more thousands of Britons filled the churches all day to offer prayers for the late king, the new King Edward VIII., and Mary, the queen mother.

The archbishop of Canterbury, conducting the principal service at Westminster abbey, pointed to the late ruler's home life in the course of an eloquent tribute and urged the nation to make marriage a more stable institution.

"While marriage is becoming to be regarded with so much recklessness and frivolity," he said, "remember the home life of King George and keep your homes pure and stable."

King Boris Arrives.

The queen mother, with the duke and duchess of Gloucester, the duke and duchess of Kent, the princess royal, her husband, the earl of Harewood, and their two sons attended a service in the private chapel of Buckingham palace. The king and queen of Norway, the latter King George's only surviving sister, also were present.

This evening the princess royal, accompanied by the earl of Harewood with their two sons, the Viscount Lascelles and Hon. Gerald Lascelles, together with Princess Louise and Princess Helene Victoria, aunts of King George, visited Westminster hall, and remained for twenty minutes at the bier.

King Boris III. of Bulgaria, who arrived in London today, visited the hall tonight and remained for 15 minutes. The Infanta Beatriz, daughter of ex-King Alfonso of Spain, was another visitor. Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin entered the hall tonight and stood for ten minutes before the bier in silent meditation. Prince Paul, regent of Jugo-Slavia, was another of the European royalty to arrive today. On the train with him were delegations from Turkey, Japan, and Italy.

Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinov of Russia, heading the soviet delegation, reached London tonight. On the same train were delegations from Spain, Afghanistan, Lithuania, Bolivia and Albania. Jean Chiappe, who was ousted as police prefect of Paris police following the riots of February, 1934, led the representatives of the Paris muncipality.

Trafic on continental airways to Croyden was exceptionally heavy, with passengers returning to London. Among them was Winston Churchill, the duke of Hesse and Hanover and Baron Mallenheim, representing the Finnish republic.

King Takes Rest.

King Edward at the funeral will wear the uniform of an admiral of the British fleet. Full dress uniforms may be worn by all visiting royalty who will walk in the funeral procession Tuesday, both in London and Windsor, regardless of the weather, it was stated tonight, in announcement of the funeral plans.

King Edward spent a quiet weekend at his country home, Fort Belvidere, at Sunningdale on the edge of Windsor forest, and will not return to London until tomorrow morning.

The funeral procession directed by radio will leave Westminster hall at 9:45 a. m. en route to St. George's chapel at Windsor. The train which is to bear the body to Windsor is expected to reach there at 12:35 p. m. and the funeral services at the chapel are scheduled to start at 1:15 p. m. [7:15 a. m. Chicago time].

They will be conducted by the archbishop of Canterbury, assisted by the archbishop of York and the bishop of Windsor. Two minutes of silence, at 1:30 p. m., will prevail over the entire United Kingdom.

The royal funeral train of nine coaches ran a rehersal from London to Windsor today. Five other special trains preceding the funeral train will carry about a thousand official mourners.

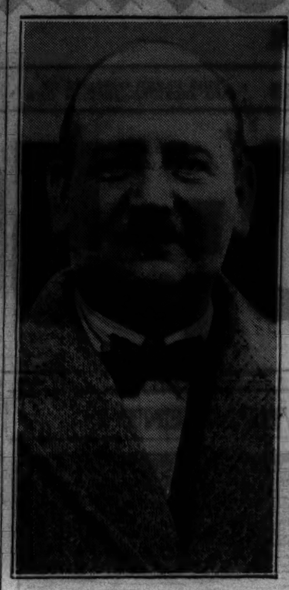
MAY ASK LOAN



France's new foreign minister, Pierre-Etienne Flandin, reported planning to ask London bankers for three billion franc advance to bolster the French treasury.

FRANCE TO SEEK BIG LOAN FROM LONDON BANKERS

New Foreign Chief Will Appeal for Aid.

PARIS, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Informed circles heard today that France's new foreign minister, Pierre-Etienne Flandin, would "sound out" London bankers on a 3,000,000,000 franc loan to bolster France's burdened treasury. [The franc on Saturday was quoted at 6.67 cents.]

Flandin will attend the state funeral of King George V. at Windsor Tuesday. Although Premier Albert Sarraut has announced there would be no "official conversations" between the French delegation and British leaders, diplomatic sources said the foreign minister hopes for an informal discussion of the Italo-Ethiopian conflict.

It long has been believed in Paris banking circles that London would be "more eager" to handle the loan for a cabinet with a stronger league of nations policy than that of Pierre Laval, who was overthrown last week.

Act to Defend Ethiopia.

Edouard Herriot, minister of state in the Laval cabinet and who was credited with counseling the selection of Flandin to succeed Laval at the Quai D'Orsay, called today for a "renewal" of a firm league policy by France in a speech at Lyons.

"France cannot impose anything on Ethiopia which she is unwilling to accept," Herriot said. "France is the godmother of Ethiopia at Geneva, and she cannot today stab her in the back.

"The honor of France and her interests obligate her to defend the integrity of all league members."

See Peace Still Far Off.

French diplomats feel that peace still is far off in the Italo-Ethiopian war, for no statesman is willing to "risk his skin" with a plan after what happened to Sir Samuel Hoare, former British foreign minister, and to Laval.

On the other hand, it is felt there is only one chance that an oil embargo against Italy will be revived and voted in subsequent league sessions. The smaller nations, like the Little Entente, which see the league covenant as their sole protection against future aggression, may ask passage of the measure to "forge an instrument" for future use.

There is an increasing belief in official and diplomatic circles that settlement of the Italo-Ethiopian war may have to assume the proportions of a thorough agreement by all European colonist nations in Africa.

BRITISH CORONATION WILL CREATE BOOM IN WEASEL TRAPPING

Tacoma, Wash., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Dire things are about to happen to the weasels of the northwest—all because England has a new king.

More than 150 ermine furs are required to make an ermine cape.

1,000 PAY HONOR TO KING GEORGE AT CEREMONIES

Mayor Kelly and officers of rank in the United States army and navy joined Chicagoans of British decent at memorial services for King George V. yesterday at St. James' Episcopal church, Wabash avenue and Huron street. More than 1,000 persons, including foreign consuls and members of 20 British-American fraternal organizations, attended.

The memorial procession was headed by the Canadian Highlanders band with a piper of the band sounding the Scottish lament "Flowers of the Forest."

Dr. Duncan H. Browne, rector of the church, eulogized the late sovereign as "embracing the homely virtues of honesty, fairness, frankness and consideration."

RIVER ICE JAM CHOKES NIAGARA FOR SECOND DAY

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Jan. 26.—(AP)—A small bucket could catch all the water going over the American falls tonight.

It was the second day in a row that the cataract's mighty roar was stilled because of an ice jammed river. Wind and ice often have stopped the flow of water here in the past, but there have been few times when persons could walk from the American shore to Goat Island in midstream on two straight days.

SEVEN ARRESTED AS BOGUS CHECK RING MEMBERS

Seven alleged members of a bogus check passing ring were arrested last night by Maxwell police. Two others, one of them believed to be the owner of the check writing machine which was used in check fraud operation throughout the city for several months, are still sought.

Those held are Marie Vogt, 33 years old, 2755 Warren boulevard; Mary Anderson, 24 years old, 208 South Whipple street; William Schoemaker, 49 years old, 1950 Humboldt boulevard; his wife, Margaret, 39 years old; his brother, Edward, 47 years old, 3346 West Monroe street; Matt Bitrich, 32 years old, 1931 West Madison street, and Henry Messenger, 36 years old, 3538 West Monroe street.

The Vogt woman was arrested Thursday in a Roosevelt road department store when she attempted to cash a $68 check after making a few purchases. She confessed, police said, and named the others.

SMITH'S ATTACK CONSIDERED AID TO REPUBLICANS

Democratic Ranks Schism Is Widened.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—Political Washington rumbled today with the repercussions of Al Smith's speech last night assailing the New Deal and sounding the call to conservative Democrats to revolt against the renomination and reelection of President Roosevelt.

Republican leaders viewed the developments with much satisfaction. They shared a common feeling that with Al Smith assuming the leadership of the rebellious Jeffersonians the much heralded bolt of the Democratic ticket will assume large proportions. Whether the conservative Democrats nominate their own candidate at the head of a third ticket, support the Republican candidate directly, or merely join the stay at home vote the Republicans are confident their cause will be potently aided in this quarter.

Doubts Are Dispelled.

Until Mr. Smith spoke out so frankly and militantly there was considerable doubt that the schism in the Democratic ranks would become formidable. The Huey Long forces in Louisiana and the Gov. Talmadge Democrats in Georgia were in a high state of revolt, but such leading anti-New Dealers as Senators Carter Glass and Harry Byrd of Virginia had proclaimed that they never had bolted and never would. Senator Glass is a candidate for reelection this year.

Al Smith has now come forward as the leader of the conservative revolt. If he is a delegate to the Democratic national convention he may be expected to carry the banner against the New Deal in the framing of the platform as David B. Hill fought the free silverites in the convention that nominated William J. Bryan the first time. He might even walk out of the convention with his followers like Senator Teller and the silver Republicans of 1896.

Conservatives Are Elated.

The conservative Democrats were no less elated than the Republicans at the turn of events. On the other hand the New Dealers professed to be undisturbed. Some of them pronounced the Smith speech weak and ineffective; others said that the broadcasting of the address amid the revelry of the "Liberty league millionaires" had undoubtedly made millions of votes for Roosevelt.

The President was said to have listened on the radio to the speech of the "Happy Warrior" whom he had twice placed in nomination in Democratic conventions but his reactions were a closely guarded secret. The White House declined comment and the Democratic national committee reminded inquirers that the official administration reply to Smith will be made on the air Tuesday night by Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, the majority leader of the senate, who was Smith's running mate in 1928.

Make Reply to Smith.

Donald R. Richberg and Melvin D. Hildreth issued an answer to Smith on behalf of the National Progressive league which organized liberal support of Roosevelt in 1932. They said they supported Smith in 1928.

"In 1928, Gov. Alfred E. Smith, as the Democratic candidate for President, invited and obtained the support of progressives because he advocated a program of agricultural relief, electric power development and protection of labor similar to that which President Roosevelt has put into effect," said the Richberg-Hildreth statement. "Now that the announced policies and principles of Gov. Smith's campaign of 1928 have been made effective under the progressive administration of Franklin D. Roosevelt, the opposition with which Gov. Smith has aligned himself is denouncing the Roosevelt administration as socialistic. It is, therefore, appropriate to answer Alfred E. Smith speaking in 1936 by Gov. Smith speaking in the 1928 campaign, when he said:

"'The cry of socialism has been patented by the powerful interests that desire to put a damper on progressive legislation. Failing to meet arguments fairly and squarely, special interest falls back on the old stock phrase of socialism. . . . To refer to the remedies for all these evils as state socialism is not constructive statesmanship, it is not leadership; and leadership is what this country is hungry for today.'

Stand in 1928 Recalled.

"If Gov. Smith was right in 1928, then by that same token and by his own once powerful arguments Alfred E. Smith must be wrong today, when he is giving aid and comfort to the opponents of progressive policies which he formerly espoused.

"In his presidential campaign, Mr. Smith said of agriculture:

"'Under the protective system of this country we have interfered with the laws of supply and demand for the protection of industry and labor. No part of that protection has been given to the farmer on his major cash crops. . . . The trouble with agriculture is basic and fundamental, and it cannot be cured by the application of remedies that do not go to the very root of the disease.

"'Gov. Lowden, Senator Norris and the leaders of agriculture generally throughout the country are of one mind—that the solution lies in a proper control of the exportable surplus with the cost imposed on the crop benefited. I have pledged myself to name a nonpartisan commission of farm leaders and students of the problem to work out these details.'

Put Into Effect, Is Claim.

"The principles and purposes of agricultural relief advocated by Gov. Smith in 1928 were put into effect by President Roosevelt in 1933. They have been supported by the farm leaders upon whom Gov. Smith promised to rely. They are opposed now as always by those Republican leaders, of whom Gov. Smith said in 1928, 'I charge that they violated their platform promises, that they deceived the farmer, that they did nothing whatever to contribute in the slightest degree to relieve the distress or promote the welfare of the farmers of this country.'"

19 BELOW AS FIRE RAGES.

Stromsburg, Neb., Jan. 26.—(AP)—One of the worst fires in Stromburg's history early today razzed the Erickson & Anderson hardware store here, causing damage estimated at $15,000. A temperature of 19 degrees below zero hampered the firemen as they battled the flames for more than four hours.

SENATE SLATED TO PASS BONUS OVER VETO TODAY

Economy League Wires Protest Message.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26.—(AP)—A senate enthusiastically bent upon enacting the 2 billion 491 million dollar baby bond bonus bill over President Roosevelt's veto was urged by the National Economy league today to "stand fast" against the "dangerously expensive" measure.

Despite the eleventh-hour appeal to the 40 senators who last year voted to sustain the President's disapproval of the Patman "new money" bonus bill, Democratic leaders adhered to previous forecasts that the cashable bond legislation would go on the statute books tomorrow with plenty of ballots to spare over the required two-thirds.

Even opponents of the bill, which will dispose of the 18 year old bonus question except for an appropriation later to carry out the authorization, believed it would pass by as decisive a margin as the house repudiation of the veto—324 to 61.

Cashable After June 15.

The bill, providing for payment of the 1945 maturity value of the bonus certificates in $50 bonds which could be cashed after June 15 or held for nine years to receive 3 per cent interest, originally passed the senate 74 to 16. Bonus leaders gave the opposition not more than 20 votes to sustain the executive, whereas 32 are needed to keep the bill from becoming law.

Even Senator Robinson, the majority leader, was expected by some to ignore the President's brief handpenned veto message by casting his vote for the bill. Senator Harrison [Dem., Miss.], has already announced he would vote to override. Harrison's name appears on the legislation with Senators Byrnes [Dem., S. C.], Steiwer [Rep., Ore.], and Clark [Dem., Mo.].

Message Sent Senators.

Henry H. Curran, National Economy league director, addressed a telegram to the 40 senators who last May voted to sustain the Roosevelt Patman bill veto, in which he said:

"You did a splendidly patriotic job last spring in voting to sustain the bonus bill veto. Do it again."

CORONER PLANS TO END PEACOCK QUIZ TOMORROW

Following the elimination of the once mysterious key bearing the number 428 as a tangible clew to the murder of Dr. Silber C. Peacock, specialist in children's diseases, who was found shot to death in his automobile Jan. 3, the coroner's office yesterday was planning to close the inquest at the county morgue tomorrow.

Deputy Coroner Edward Edelstein, whose father-in-law, Isadore L. Lidschin, 5200 Sheridan road, occupied the apartment which it was found the "mystery" key opened, is to be questioned again by his superior, Coroner Frank Walsh. The deputy told investigators Saturday that he had not seen the key until it was turned over to him by Capt. Martin McCormick of the Summerdale station.

Discovery of the key last Tuesday resulted in 40 detectives being sent on a thorough hunt through all north side apartments and hotels for the lock which it was expected the key would open. Deputy Edelstein, who lives in the apartment below that of his father-in-law, No. 328, is believed to have unwittingly placed the key with the slain physician's effects, although he says he is certain he did not do so. He was in charge of the inquest hearings.

HIT-RUN DRIVERS KILL TWO—CRASH TAKES THIRD LIFE

Three persons were killed early yesterday in automobile accidents. Two of the victims were struck by hit-and-run drivers who were being sought by the police.

Mrs. Elizabeth Pauz, 58 years old, 313 West 42d place, was fatally injured when she was run down at 43d treet and Princeton avenue. She died as she was being taken to Evangelical Deaconess hospital.

Charles E. Froehlig, 28 years old, 5035 West Huron street, was fatally injured when he lost control of his car and crashed into a tree and a water hydrant in front of 4914 West Van Buren street.

At 4 p. m. yesterday 75 persons had been killed in automobile accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1, according to figures from the coroner's office. During the same period, 1,044 were injured and 64 killed in trafic accidents within the city limits.

Michaeljohn Boland, 65 years old, 6824 Kennedy avenue, Hammond, was found dead yesterday on the roadside at 169th street and Magound avenue, Hammond. He apparently had been struck by a hit and run driver.

M'SWAIN VISIONS BUYING OF 4,000 FIGHTING PLANES

Predicts Congress Approval of 5 Year Plan.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26.—(AP)—A prediction that congress would approve the war department's recommendation for 4,000 new fighting planes in the next five years was made today by the house military affairs committee chairman, Representative John J. McSwain [Dem., S. C.].

At the same time McSwain disagreed with a suggestion of the air commerce bureau chief, Eugene L. Vidal, that it might be well for the United States to follow the lead of some foreign powers in seeking quantity rather than quality production of aircraft. Vidal advanced this idea while testifying last week before McSwain's committee.

Urge More Dirigibles.

This development in the air defense question came simultaneously with a report of an advisory committee of scientists, headed by William F. Durand, professor emeritus of mechanical engineering at Stanford university, recommending that the government resume its program of airship construction which was halted after the crash of the last of three navy dirigibles.

"I have no doubt," said McSwain, "that this congress will authorize construction of the planes over a five year period for delivery on a basis of 800 planes a year."

Vidal, in his appearance before the committee said—without naming the countries—that five leading foreign powers were engaged in a furious race for air supremacy, discarding quality in both planes and pilots for numbers.

Back Navy Program.

In a report to Secretary of the Navy Swanson the committee of scientists held that experience with lighter-than-air craft "has not as yet been sufficient to give ground for a wholly settled opinion as to the character and extent of their potential usefulness."

The committee also recommended "a positive, carefully considered program of airship construction" for the navy, including ships as large as previous craft, "to the point, at least, of furnishing ground for definite conclusions regarding the capacity for useful naval service."

A request for the study was made by Secretary Swanson shortly after the navy had lost the Macon in a Pacific coast crash.

At that time Swanson announced that the navy's future airship construction policy would be held in abeyance until the committee announced its findings. His only comment in making public the report today was that it would be studied by the navy department's high command.

Report Passenger Missing from Ship off Virginia

Norfolk Va., Jan. 26.—(AP)—The coast guard radio station here tonight picked up a message sent out by the Merchants and Miners' steamer Fairfax stating that a passenger was missing from that ship. The message gave its position as "six and a half miles, 197 degrees from Sapelo gas buoy. All ships in vicinity keep sharp lookout for this passenger." Whether the passenger was a man or woman was not stated in the message and no name was given or details of the disappearance were stated.

Body of Woman Found Crammed Into a Trunk

Spokane, Wash., Jan. 26.—(AP)—The body of a young woman, believed to be that of Mrs. Dolores Naccarato, 24 years old, was found today crammed into a steamer trunk in a hotel room here. Deputy Sheriff J. Pat Griffin said death might have been by strangulation. Linens, clothing and personal effects were placed on top of the body. The woman had been dead for weeks.

Dr. Hugh Cumming to Retire as Chief of Health Service

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Dr. Hugh S. Cumming, surgeon general of the United States Public Health service, said today he will retire on Feb. 1 "because of long service and health that isn't too good."

President Roosevelt is reported to be considering, as his successor, Dr. Thomas H. Parran Jr., New York state health commissioner. Dr. Parran is an assistant surgeon general of the public health service on leave of absence.

Perfects Quarantine System.

Dr. Cumming's administration is credited with completion of the quarantine system; inauguration of pre-immigration examinations at American consulates; establishment of a national leprosarium and national narcotic farms, and construction of eight marine hospitals.

His influence in control and treatment of bubonic plague and yellow fever has been world wide. He also was active in promoting international sanitation treaties. He was an organizer of the office of international d'hygiene publique, representing it on the league of nations committee. Three times he was elected director of the Pan-American sanitation bureau.

Honored by Many Nations.

The surgeon general was tendered the decoration of the legion of honor by France and the decoration of Poland, Resiituta by Poland. An act of congress authorized him to accept them. There is now a bill in congress which would permit him to accept the decoration of al merito, bestowed by Ecuador; the Order of Carlos Finlay of Cuba, and the Order of Sol de Peru from the Peruvian government.

Representative Maury Maverick last week assailed the bill in a minority opinion of the house military affairs committee, contending government officers should not wear foreign decorations.

FIFTY INJURED IN SOUTH SIDE ELEVATED WRECK

Three Car Train Jumps Rails at Curve.

cars would have fallen off the elevated structure even if we had been on the outside track. As it was, we were on the cente. one and even if the cars had overturned they could not have fallen to the ground."

Among those in the third car were Arthur Petermichel, 3837 Montrose avenue, and Paul Oberg, 3001 North Kostner avenue. Oberg suffered a knee injury, but both men made their way back to Pershing road.

"We were going pretty fast when we hit the curve, in my opinion," said Petermichel. "There was a terrific bump when we stopped and we were all tossed around. We were lucky, though; we didn't get it nearly as bad as those in the other cars."

There were at least eighty-five passengers on the train, it was said, and more than half of these were assisted to the ground by the firemen and police who hurried to the scene. The first report, a false one, stated that one of the cars had fallen off the structure.

List of the Injured.

Twenty-three persons, whose injuries were classified as slight, were treated at the Chicago hospital, 811 East 49th street. They are:

MRS. EDITH ANDERSON, 51, of 606 East 71st street.

MRS. IDA BROWN, 50, of 5455 Ingleside avenue.
FRANK BURKE, 44, 6101 Drexel avenue.
PETE COLMAN, 23, of 5830 Michigan avenue.
MICHAEL CONLON, 30, of 1431 Plaisance court.

CONSTANTINE J. NOMICIES, 50, 6101 Ingleside avenue.
WILLIAM THOMPSON, 34, colored, of 4436 Indiana avenue.
EDWARD REHAUT, 36, of 5455 Blackstone avenue.
MRS. CAROLYN REHAUT, his wife.
LORRAINE REHAUT, 6, daughter.
HAROLD RUHGE, 25 years old, 4620 North Claremont.
WILLIAM TAGALOKIS, 50, of 7221 Ridgeland avenue.
WALTER B. THOMPSON, 40, of 5400 Hyde Park boulevard.

The firemen had difficulty in removing the injured and carrying them down their ladders. All train movements on the Jackson park line were delayed two hours or more by the wreck.

FAIL TO LOCATE LOST CLIMBER ON MT. RAINIER

Longmire, Mt. Rainier National Park, Wash., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Glistening ice fields and threatening avalanches today turned back four searchers for Delmar Fadden, 23, of Seattle, after they had ascended to the 11,000 foot level on Mt. Rainier.

Failure of the party, headed by Ome Balber, veteran Seattle mountaineer, to reach the 14,408 foot summit was reported by observers at Yakima park who kept a powerful telescope trained on the quartet.

O. W. Carlson, assistant superintendent of the park, said virtually all hope for Fadden, "thrill climber" missing two weeks, would be abandoned if Dalber had not found some trace of him today.

'LID' IS CLAMPED ON MINNEAPOLIS WHOOPEE SPOTS

Police in Surprise Raid Serve Notice of 'Heat.'

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—The lid is on in Minneapolis. A tour early today of the whoopee spots which a month ago ran full blast into Sunday daylight, disclosed not one place where a drink could be obtained or where a tired Saturday-nighter might relax over his "Scotch and," while scantily clad young things whirled and kicked for his amusement.

All of the legally licensed clubs stopped serving promptly at 1 o'clock, the Saturday night closing hour, where before many had run on until 3 and some remained open until 5 or 6 in the morning.

Behind the peep-holes of the places previously operating outside the law there were no lights and ringing of their bells went unanswered.

Famed as a "Wide Open" Town.

Minneapolis long nas been known as a "wide open" town. This reputation dates back several decades, when the lumber industry was at its heighth in this state and northern Wisconsin and the city was a mecca for loggers on a spree.

It was this situation which last Friday led a county grand jury to indict the operators of seven liquor establishments for failure to reveal in their license applications crimes which under the law bar them from the liquor business.

Citizens Aroused by Slaying.

The grand jury's action came as a result of disclosures made by Walter W. Liggett, weekly newspaper publisher, prior to his murder on Dec. 9, and was taken at the insistence of citizens aroused by the circumstances of his slaying.

The grand jury investigation, however, was not the only cause for darkening of the whoopee dives last night. Early in the evening the police morals squad, led by its chief, Walter Hansford, swooped down unexpectedly on a gambling resort in the loop district and hauled 59 persons off to jail.

Tomorrow the trial of Isadore [Kid Cann] Blumenfeld, a member of the liquor ring here in the prohibition era, for the murder of Liggett will continue in District court, where it opened last Monday. Three seats remain vacant in the jury box and expectations are that they will not be filled until late tomorrow or Tuesday morning.

MINERS' UNION WILL MEET TO PASS ON WAGES

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26.—(AP)—The wage and hour policy of the United Mine Workers of America for the next two years will be determined in the union's biennial convention, starting here Tuesday.

Not only will the convention act on wage and hours demands tentatively outlined for presentation to Pennsylvania anthracite operators this winter but it also will instruct union officers how to proceed in dealing with bituminous producers when present contracts expire April 1, 1937.

The present anthracite agreement will expire April 1.

"Tell us, why does Lord & Thomas advertise?"

To the many who have asked us this question —and to all others interested —here is our reply

EVERY SO OFTEN, in the course of our current campaign, people ask, "Why do you advertise on such a large scale? What can an advertising agency expect to get out of advertising to the lay public?"

The objectives of our campaign are many. Some are immediate—others may not be attained for years. But they are clearly fixed in our minds.

Foremost, of course, is the objective of all good advertising—the desire to attract new business to our offices. This, we confidently expect the advertising program to do. But first let us set forth the reasons why we advertise to millions, whereas our prospective clients are very limited in number.

It Benefits Our Clients

Our advertising for ourselves adds impetus to our advertising for our present clients. If we give their employees, dealers and distributors an understanding of the basic principles of true salesmanship-in-print, they will understand these principles when they see them applied to their own products under the direction of Lord & Thomas.

They will know that Lord & Thomas advertising will create demand. Knowing this, they will push the products of our clients with greater enthusiasm. Thus, our widespread advertising yields benefit to our clients as well as to ourselves.

Other Aims and Purposes

We want our advertising to be read by young men who will take up advertising as their chosen work. We are devoting our lives to it; we want them to know the basic principles we believe in so deeply.

We want these principles to leave their imprint on those other hundreds of young men in other lines of business—the executives of tomorrow who will some day direct the placing of their own great appropriations.

Furthermore, we want the men and women in our own organization to have ever before them the principles which guide us. For only by such an awareness can an organization be welded into a compact and loyal unit.

Objectives—Based on Experience

We come now to our principal hope and expectation from the current Lord & Thomas campaign—new business.

Let us, for a moment, look at the past. Every so often, Lord & Thomas have gone through a period of great growth.

This period invariably has been followed by a comparatively long period in which we absorb our increased volume of business. Always, this period of absorption has been one in which we take on relatively few large accounts.

In the course of this determined concentration upon the business in hand, however, we develop enough surplus energy to take on still further new business.

Four times in the past 38 years, which mark the span during which our present management has been actively in command, we have gone through this cycle. Each time we have advertised. And each time it has produced the results desired.

Foundation Stones for the Future

This does not mean that we expect our advertising to do what advertising does for a cigarette, for example, or for an automobile. We have no notion that any large advertiser will come in, lay one of our advertisements down, and say, "I would like Lord & Thomas to handle my advertising."

But this we do know, and this we expect from the present campaign: that it will build a background for us among the limited number of men at whom it is primarily aimed.

Such a background as will influence advertisers when they are considering their appropriations, and cause some of them to invite us to submit our thinking about their problems, when the time is ripe.

Thus Lord & Thomas advertise to millions in order to spread the fundamental doctrines of salesmanship-in-print—and to build a background of approval among our clients, present and future.

LORD & THOMAS • advertising

There are Lord & Thomas offices in New York; Chicago; Los Angeles; San Francisco; Toronto; Paris; London
Each office is a complete advertising agency, self-contained; collaborating with other Lord & Thomas offices to the client's interest

ETHIOPIAN ARMY MOVES TO TRAP ENEMY IN SOUTH

Italians Are in Danger of Being Massacred.

ADDIS ABABA, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Official Ethiopian sources disclosed today the retreating southern armies of Ras Desta Demtu had fallen back to Wadara, 268 miles northwest of Dolo.

Military strategists, however, expressed doubt that the Italians would be able to defend their communication lines from Dolo as far as Wadara, and declared the invaders were in grave danger of being trapped and massacred either there or at Neghelli, which they have occupied.

Ethiopians Withdraw.

The official disclosure, first such admission of Desta's reverses, indicated the Ethiopians had permitted the Italians to take Neghelli without a struggle, withdrawing before the Fascists arrived.

Desta, Emperor Haile Selassie's son-in-law, was ordered by the emperor to make a stand in the mountain passes behind Wadara, which is the northern terminus of a motor road.

At the same time the Ethiopians will resort to night attacks on the Italian communication lines.

Celebrate "Victory" in North.

The official news from the south came in the midst of "victory" celebrations for alleged northern successes. A Saturday announcement claimed "two important Italian fronts" had been taken following a three day northern battle described as the biggest of the war.

The bulletin said Makale, key point of the northern Italian advance, was surrounded and cut off and contended thousands of the invaders had fallen, and that tanks, cannon, and machine guns had been captured.

Two Fascist columns attempting to rescue besieged troops of the Makale garrison were wiped out, the government said.

[Italy rejoiced over the same battle, the Fascist high command saying the Italians had crushed an Ethiopian plan to attack west of Makale; that the Ethiopians were "beaten everywhere," and that their casualties were 5,000, compared to 743 dead and wounded for Italy. Asmara dispatches also said a wild attack by 40,000 Ethiopians had been beaten off west of Makale last Thursday.]

Swedish Medical Unit Safe.

A fortnight's anxiety over the whereabouts of a Swedish Red Cross unit which was fleeing before Gen. Graziani's rapidly advancing column was relieved with the receipt of a telegram announcing the unit's safe arrival at Igra Alem, newly built capital of Sidamo province.

To reach Igra Alem the Swedes made a hazardous ten day mule trip 180 miles north of Wadara.

The unit fled the Dolo vicinity after the Italian bombing of last Dec. 30, in which a Swedish male nurse was killed and more than two score Ethiopian wounded lost their lives.

MOVES TO BLOCK NEUTRALITY LAW SPUR CONGRESS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Efforts of pro-Italian organizations in the United States to block enactment this session of new neutrality legislation today ran into a rising flood of congressional and administration sentiment for quick action.

House and senate authors of the neutrality legislation were adamant against delay, and President Roosevelt was quoted by Chairman McReynolds [Dem., Tenn.] as urging approval of the administration bill.

This measure not only would make permanent the present temporary act embargoing shipments of arms and munitions to belligerents but also would give the President power to curtail shipment of "materials of war" such as oil, cotton, iron, and steel.

Six Mechanics Killed by Blast on Jap Destroyer

SASEBO, Japan, Jan. 26.—(AP)—The explosion of a fuel oil tank aboard the destroyer Yayoi killed six civilian mechanics and seriously injured 12 others today. The workers had been called to repair the tank of the destroyer in dry dock. The destroyer was damaged, but the extent was not disclosed.

[The Yayoi was launched in 1925. She is a craft of 1,345 tons, carrying four 4.7 inch guns and six 21 inch tubes.]

17 Dead, 25 Missing as Fire Sweeps Japanese Coal Pit

FUKUOKA, Japan, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Seventeen miners were known to be dead and twenty-five were missing today after a fire in a colliery near Fukuoka. Forty-four persons were rescued, but the fire continued and further rescues were believed impossible.

TELEPHONE RATE BOOST OR CUT UP FOR STUDY TODAY

The Illinois Commerce commission will begin a series of hearings today on two opposing propositions: one to reduce telephone rates throughout the state; the other to increase them. The commission ordered the Illinois Bell Telephone company to show why its rates should not be reduced and the company filed a petition of its own asking that it be allowed to increase the rates to cover the 3 per cent public utility tax levied by the state.

Irvin Rooks, counsel for the commission, said the case is one of the most important undertaken by the state body. The last telephone rate litigation lasted more than eleven years resulting finally in an order by the United States Supreme court upholding a rate reduction and ordering a refunding of approximately $20,000,000 to phone subscribers.

PASTOR CHARGES NAZIS SEIZED FUNDS OF CHURCH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 26.—The Rev. Martin Niemoeller, leader of the Protestant Confessional synod, which objects to the restriction of the freedom of the church, announced from the pupilt of his church at Dahlem, a suburb of Berlin, today:

"The funds of the Dahlem parish were taken over forcibly by the finance committee of Hans Kerrl, the Nazi minister for church affairs."

The Rev. Mr. Niemoeller, who commanded a submarine in the world war, added that this was "a new case of interference with the private rights of a parish by representatives of the state."

In all Roman Catholic churches of Germany priests today read a pastoral letter written by German bishops at a conference in Fulda. The letter attacked the Nazi pagan campaign.

EGYPTIANS BALK BRITISH MOVE TO SETTLE DISPUTE

CAIRO, Egypt, Jan. 26.—(AP)—A deadlock on proposed Egyptian-British negotiations threatened today, just when events seemed moving smoothly toward an adjustment satisfactory to Great Britain.

Nahas Pasha, leader of the Wafd nationalist party, at first agreed to the immediate opening of negotiations with Great Britain and the formation of a neutral cabinet.

Later, however, Nahas said the Wafdists must have a majority representation in any cabinet or on any delegation formed to negotiate with the British. Other united front groups opposed this.

FACTOR SETTLES WITH HIS BRITISH VICTIMS FOR $1,800,000 CASH

Palm Springs, Cal., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—John Factor, former Chicago barber who collected millions of dollars from English investors in the boom years and is under indictment in London for his activities, said here today that he had settled all his civil liabilities in Great Britain.

A settlement of $1,800,000, he declared, was approved by the British courts on Wednesday. He had no comment to make on dispatches stating that the chancery court in London opened a hearing Friday on an application to dispose of $1,300,000 of the funds he passed over to investors.

Factor said the United States government had impounded $250,000 of his funds with an income tax claim, but that he expected this would be turned over to him within a month. He added that he believed the British crown would not make a further effort to have him extradited on charges of swindling.

Turkey Nabs 25 for Plot and Religious Sorcery

ANTI-JAP RIOTS SWEEP SHANGHAI; JAIL 19 STUDENTS

SHANGHAI, Jan. 27 [Monday].—(AP)—Student agitation against what they called Japanese aggression in North China led to an outbreak of rioting in which many persons were injured today. Martial law immediately was proclaimed in the Jessfield district where the rioting occurred.

Enraged at the arrest of 19 student orators addressing a crowd, a mob of a thousand students and others stormed a Chinese police station on the outskirts of the International Settlement. They kidnaped the commanding officer and severely manhandled others. The officer later was rescued.

Police reinforcements, including a detachment from the International Settlement, finally dispersed the rioters after a brisk battle in which stones, sticks, bricks and batons were freely used. Police said they attributed the uprising to communist agitators.

Jugo-Slav Farmer Killed During Battle in Church

SPLIT [Spalato], Yugo Slavia, Jan. 26.—(AP)—A farmer died under the altar of a village church at Srijan today when a knife battle broke up mass. The priest fled to call police, and when the officers arrived they found a free-for-all in and about the church. Authorities said 50 persons were injured, some seriously. A political quarrel was blamed for the trouble.

5 SPIES FOR JAPS TO FACE SOVIET FIRING SQUAD

Red Court Sends Sixteen More to Prison.

KHABAROVSK, U. S. S. R., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Five members of an alleged espionage ring, accused of seeking to prepare the way for military intervention in the soviet union from Manchukuo, were sentenced to death today by a far eastern military tribunal. The 16 others on trial were given varying prison terms.

Published reports of the trial said the espionage ring had received orders from "a foreign military mission in Manchukuo." This was generally interpreted as a reference to Japan.

One of those sentenced to death—which will be by shooting—was George Semena, a Russian, described as one of the leaders of a White Guard organization in Harbin, Manchukuo.

Tried Wrecking Railroad.

The others to be executed are Kim I. Seb and Pax Yen Ha, members of a group which was said to have been apprehended while allegedly trying to tear up part of the trans-Siberian railway Oct. 25; Lim Shen Do, convicted of spying in soviet military centers, and Tiu Hwa Sung, owner of the apartment in which the group charged with espionage was said to have met. Three spies were shot dead when the railway wreckers were caught.

Kim I. Seb and Pak Yen Ha were described as Coreans at the time of their capture. [The peninsula of Corea is owned by Japan.] The nationality of Lim Shen Do and Tiu Hwa Sung was not given.

Press reports said all the defendants confessed. Semena was said to have admitted the White Guards were cooperating in a program calling for "improvement of the soviet country, with the aid of foreign bayonets."

Sent Back Photographs.

The spies, some of whom also were accused as wreckers and agitators, were alleged to have made their headquarters in the Manchukuan town of Sanchakuo.

From there the spies reportedly made periodical trips into soviet territory, sending back photographs of defense works and information concerning military centers.

Semena was captured after he had crossed the border with his bodyguards, for the alleged purpose of directing wrecking work and creating a rebel nucleus in preparation for an uprising to coincide with the military intervention from without.

Yesterday afternoon he attended a committee conference sponsoring a national Negro congress to be held here at the 8th regiment armory Feb. 14, 15, 16, and 17. The committee conference, in charge of John P. Davis of Washington, was held at the Steuben club.

ter's tea party. I can imagine Mr. Hopkins, like the Cheshire cat, saying to Mr. Tugwell, 'We're all mad here. I'm mad, you're mad.'

"Do not think, however, this great army has been selected without plan or design. President Roosevelt is far too practical for that. His man Friday, Mr. Farley, is the man who does the hiring and the firing.

Building Tammany Machine.

"Mr. Farley, with your money and my money, the money of the American people, has built nationally and is extending daily a colossal political machine on Tammany lines to maintain in power Mr. Roosevelt and himself. They do not deny this, for they cannot. Mr. Farley has his contact men in all federal departments whose job it is to see that henchmen get positions."

Instances were cited by Col. Roosevelt of the application of "appoint no one but Democrats" to jobs. He took up boondoggling.

"I have spoken," he said, "of the colossal waste and extravagance of this administration. It is evident everywhere. The folly of much of the public works program under Mr. Ickes and the Works Progress administration under Mr. Hopkins has never before been equaled.

Cites Waste of Funds.

"I am going to give you a very few items to illustrate exactly what I mean, and in giving them I want further to add that if any member of the administration desires me to multiply the number, I can do so indefinitly, with names and dates attached.

"$4,368 to renovate books in Louisville, Ky.

"$46,690 to build two artificial islands in a lake in Ohio.

"$35,036 for a community service program in Tempe, Ariz., a town with a population of 2,500 people.

"$25,291 to assign colored housekeepers to Staten Island homes where parents are unable to take care of their children.

"The sheer unadulterated idiocy of these New Dealers is nowhere better illustrated than in a report on the milk industry prepared at our expense under the direction of Dr. Walter Hale Hamilton, a college professor, on the government pay roll.

"The Love Life of a Cow."

"The first part, 81 pages, deals with the 'love life of a cow.' It seems that this estimable professor has discovered that the cruel farmers have ruined the cow's love life by turning her into a milk factory.

"I could go on indefinitly. There are great amusement programs being conducted at large expense. The one in Chicago, for example, will cost $723,853. At these troupes of actors, jugglers, etc., perform. The federal theater project represents about 3 million dollars.

"The late lamented NRA completed, after its death, a report on the lumber code that occupies 22 feet of book shelf.

"So the story runs—but this is only a part of the picture, for there has been established by the federal government a colossal burocracy. A burocracy at best is bigoted, narrow, and costly. At worst it is corrupt and subversive. President Roosevelt has created between 40 and 50 new governmental agencies. He has placed hundreds of thousands of men and women on the government pay roll.

"A typical example is the NRA. The Supreme court declared it unconstitutional. Nevertheless, it is still with us, still maintaining a large staf, 2,000 people doing nothing and still costing the people millions a year.

"We have with us among other costly chimerical and damaging schemes Rexford Tugwell's rural settlement. To Oct. 31 this organization had spent $8,056,398. Of this amount 48 per cent went to overhead, which means in large measure the payment of salaries. There are more than 12,812 employés selected because they believe in the policies of the administration."

Tells of Propaganda Mill.

Col. Roosevelt dwelt upon "the most gigantic propaganda bureau America has known, organized by the New Deal with swarms of paid publicity agents."

"We pay for it all," he said, "nevertheless, poor Mr. Farley is worried. He says we are going to accuse the administration of playing politics. He trembles with alarm over thought of a gigantic slush fund the Republicans are going to use.

"Calm yourself, Mr. Farley. We couldn't cover your bet even if we would. The President and congress attended to that when they arranged that appropriation of 4 billion 800 million dollars to be spent as the President wished.

"You can out-Tammany Tammany in the coming elections, and you will. There are today 9,047,958 people receiving checks from the government, an increase of 7 million since March, 1933.

Gives U. S. Policies.

"It has been vestimated that government benefits are going to over 22 million people—more than half of those who voted in 1932. Who pays the bills? You and I and eventually the poor man."

A series of policies on national problems was suggested by Col. Roosevelt.

"There should be an immediate reduction of governmental expenditures by lopping off all political employés, ward politicians, and drones. Such organizations as the theoretically defunct NRA should be abolished. The follies as exemplified by WPA should be stopped.

"A proper budget system should be established to balance the federal budget.

Urges Cash Aid.

"Care of the unemployed through providing work which is no work and is no benefit should be stopped. Cash aid should be substituted, but the burden should be put on the communities as well with only aid from the federal government where necessary. The administration should be decentralized and local people should administer the funds.

"Unemployment and old age insurance should be established and controled under laws enacted by states with federal support and coordination. But these laws should not be enacted as to do away with all incentive for the individual to save, nor should they be of such a nature that they create an impossible burden, defeat their own purpose, and destroy the nation.

"We should stabilize our currency.

"We should revive the anti-trust laws and enforce them to prevent monopoly.

"We should decentralize in government wherever practical and rigidly respect the rights of the states.

"U. S. Should Quit Business."

"Government should withdraw from business and cease to compete with individuals and companies.

"The federal civil service should be reestablished and strengthened.

"Unfortunately, due to the follies of this administration, taxes must be increased.

"The American system of government of divided responsibilities with three branches of government must be preserved.

"The rights and liberties of the citizens under the constitution must be preserved.

"The Supreme court, as established by the constitution, must be preserved and not subordinated to the wish either of the executive or the congress."

CHAIRMAN FLETCHER FEELS G.O.P. TOO POOR TO STAGE A BANQUET

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Henry P. Fletcher, chairman of the Republican national committee, today said his party would not hold a banquet in the capital before the 1936 presidential election.

"Although the Democrats have had theirs," he said, referring to the recent $50 a plate Jackson day dinner, "and the Liberty Leaguers theirs, we won't."

"Why?," he was asked.

"Well," he said, "I guess we're not rich fellows."

Fletcher said he listened to Al Smith's speech without interruption, but declined to comment. He frequently has urged voters of all parties to join Republicans in their fight against the New Deal.

FIVE DAYS LEFT TO AVOID BACK TAX PENALTIES

A warning that home owners have only five days in which they can have their penalties remitted by paying delinquent taxes, was issued yesterday by County Treasurer Joseph L. Gill, Mayor Kelly, and other public officials who have designated this period as "Pay Your Taxes week." A recent statute authorizes the remission of all tax penalties on homes and one-half the penalties on business properties for the years of 1932 and before. The statute requires, however, that all taxes, including the 1933 levy, must be paid in full by Feb. 1 in order to obtain remission of the penalties on the 1932 and prior levies. Payment of delinquent taxes before Saturday will mean the saving in penalties ranging from 22 to 70 per cent of the total tax accumulation for the delinquent years, according to Mr. Gill.

TRAIN INSPECTOR KILLED.

Joseph Loera, 56 years old, 6440 South Albany avenue, a car inspector, was fatally injured yesterday in the yards of the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad at 53d street and Shields avenue, when an engine backed into a coach as he was inspecting a coupling.

KIN OF ARMOUR FAMILY TRIES TO END LIFE IN N. Y.

A. Ferguson, 44, Twice Wed, Swallows Poison.

New York, Jan. 26.—(AP)—A man whose effects indicated he is Armour Ferguson, 44 years old, a relative of the Armour packing family, but who denied the identification, swallowed poison in the lobby of a hotel today. Physicians gave him slight chance of recovery.

"I'm going to do it again if I don't succeed this time," police quoted him as saying after he admitted that he took four poison tablets. He clutched a bottle which originally contained 25 tablets but in which only five remained.

Asked if he is a grandnephew of Philip D. Armour, the man at first refused to answer, but later denied the relationship.

Will Found in Pocket.

In his pocket, however, was a paper police described as "an informal will" dated Dec. 26, 1912, directing that all his property at his death go to Juliana Armour Ferguson. Authorities did not establish the identification immediately but believed her to be his mother.

The name Armour Ferguson and the address 1 East Wall street, Norwalk, Conn., also was on an automobile driver's license in his pocket.

Heir to Trust Fund.

On the basis of available information, police identified Ferguson as a grandson of the late Herman O. Armour and beneficiary of a $1,000,000 trust fund.

The poison victim was taken to Bellevue hospital after his actions in the hotel lobby attracted the attention of the manager.

TWICE MARRIED.

Armour Ferguson, who was reported to have attempted suicide in New York last night, is a distant relative of the Armour family in Chicago. A. Watson Armour said Ferguson is a grandson of Herman O. Armour, who was a brother of Philip D. Armour, founder of Armour & Co., packers.

Ferguson and his first wife, Molly Tackaberry, were married in 1914 as the culmination of an art school romance and divorced in 1922, three days before his second marriage. She took the name of the wife of William Gibbs McAdoo Jr., son of the California senator.

Ferguson sued his second wife, Mrs. Ruth Wood Kelly Ferguson, for divorce at Norwalk, Conn., in 1932, charging infidelity. She filed a counter-suit denying the charge and accusing him of being overfriendly with several other women.

CALDWELL PUTS HIS NAME IN G.O.P. GOVERNOR RACE

Expect Indorsement Fight at Roundup Today.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Formal announcement of the governorship candidacy of H. Wallace Caldwell yesterday aroused in political minds a belief that an attempt may be made today to obtain an indorsement for the former Chicago school board president at the daily "harmony conference" of Republican ward committeemen at Henrici's restaurant this noon.

The program for the luncheon meeting calls for the appearance of a number of candidates for the governorship and the United States senatorship. A total of fifteen Cook county and downstate aspirants were invited by telegrams sent out on Saturday to appear today. At least half that number are expected this noon, among them Caldwell, who has been building an organization for seven months, but has not previously issued a signed declaration of his intentions.

Takes on Special Significance.

All of those committeemen who signed up with him are included in the conference group, but other elements are represented, many insisting they are not committed to Caldwell or any one else. Therefore Caldwell's long delayed announcement on the eve of the roundup of candidates was considered significant.

The essential parts of Caldwell's statement were as follows:

"The Republican party, in order to be successful in the election next November, must submit a platform of principles and a definite program of policy which can justify the confidence and gain the support of the people of the state. As a candidate for governor, I intend to make absolutely clear my position on all such matters and to outline suggestions for the conduct of the state government which I believe will restore prosperity to our people and put an end to the bewildering crisis with which we are now confronted.

Pledges New Deal Fight.

"I am irrevocably opposed to the New Deal and will wage a vigorous campaign against its extravagant and outrageous policies, which are rapidly leading this state and nation toward economic ruin and burocratic dictatorship.

"The affairs of the state must be conducted on a sound, businesslike basis. Efficiency and economy must be established throughout the various agencies of the state. Unemployment and relief must be removed from the field of politics and Russian autocracy supplanted by American justice.

"Government competition with private industry must be abolished and taxes must be greatly reduced to enable a recovery in all trades. Labor must be given employment in private industry and this can only be accomplished by encouraging business to expand.

A Word on Farm Aid.

"The governor of this state can likewise take a prominent part in solving the great problems of agriculture with the coöperation and advice of the farmers themselves.

"It is essential that we again realize that the government is the servant of the people and not the people the vassals of the government.

"While I am absolutely opposed to the uneconomic and disastrous fallacies of the New Deal, I am equally opposed to a system of special privilege conducted by government for the benefit of the few at the expense of the many."

Brooks to Be Active Today.

The name of Attorney Wayland Brooks, who has the indorsement of twenty-eight members of the county committee—exactly the total of those who have participated in the Henrici meetings—was not included in the list of those invited to the session today. He has opened his own headquarters in the Hotel La Salle and there today will begin the work of completing his county organization.

In addition to Caldwell, the governorship candidates invited to speak at noon are State Representative Elmer T. Schnackenberg and Ald. John A. Massen, both of Chicago; John G. Oglesby of Elkhart, former lieutenant governor; State Senator Earl B. Searcy of Springfield, J. Paul Kuhn of Batavia, Oscar E. Carlstrom of Aledo, former attorney general; State Senator Thomas P. Gunning of Princeton, County Judge Win G. Knoch of Naperville, and George A. Barr of Joliet, a trustee of the University of Illinois. As in the case of Brooks, Len Small of Kankakee and George W. Dowell of Duquoin were omitted from the invitation.

The possible senatorial candidates are Charles S. Deneen, former senator, and Chauncey McCormick, both of Chicago; Otis F. Glenn of Murphysboro, former senator; Oscar Nelson of Batavia, former state auditor, and William E. Hull of Peoria, former congressman.

HOPE TO WIND UP EXTRA SESSIONS BY END OF WEEK

Adjournment Depends on Relief Solution.

BY STANLEY ARMSTRONG.

Chicago members of the state legislature expressed hope yesterday that the two concurrent special sessions might end this week. The adjournment would depend on quick action on the Illinois Emergency Relief commission's request for $7,500,000 to carry state relief until May 1.

The house meets at 8 p. m. tonight and the senate at the same hour tomorrow night. Leo M. Lyons, executive secretary of the IERC, will be in Springfield today to impress on officials the need for relief funds. The legislators are told that relief stations will be forced to close Feb. 15 unless additional money is voted.

Only One Bill Fits Situation.

There are several bills pending to raise funds to supplement the two millions derived monthly for relief from the state sales tax. Only one, it is believed, would yield immediately the necessary additional amount requested by the commission. This is the bill of Senator Harold G. Ward [Dem., Chicago] to appropriate $7,500,000 from the state's general revenue fund.

Another measure would give the IERC an additional million dollars monthly from the sales tax, which is less than the commission's request. Farm bloc bills would tax Chicago seven millions annually for relief, but none of this money would be available, it has been pointed out, for the period up to May 1.

The second special session was called to consider the relief problem alone, and could be adjourned this week, according to the legislators, if the IERC request is met. It was conceded, however, that a fight over the method of raising relief funds or over efforts to abolish the IERC would entail further meetings of the second special session.

Pension Legislation Up.

Final passage of house bill No. 8, which would give the Cook county bureau of public welfare the same powers and duties in administering the old age pension as the other counties have, under house bill No. 32 is scheduled for passage this week in the first special session.

The house also has yet to concur in an amendment to the pension appropriation bill, which would complete action on the pension. With the pension legislation enacted, there is no major reason why the first special session should not adjourn, according to the members, although there is some prospect for a fight on a bill proposing regulation over trucks.

After all of the old age pension bills are finally adopted, work will be started in Cook and other counties to set up the machinery to dispense the pensions. Clayton F. Smith, president of the Cook county board, said yesterday that he would call a meeting of persons interested to discuss a system.

"There may be as many as 30,000 Cook county applicants for the pension as soon as it is in force," said Mr. Smith. "It will take considerable investigation to check on the applicants. Whatever system we decide upon, I want it to be nonpartisan and as economical as possible."

LONG MACHINE STILL IS RULER IN LOUISIANA

Baton Rouge, La., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Official returns compiled by Secretary of State E. A. Conway today showed candidates of the late Huey P. Long's state political machine had won last week's Democratic primary election by majorities of from 183,000 to 208,000 votes.

Harry D. Wilson, running for reelection as commissioner of agriculture, topped the state ticket with a lead of 206,771, while Earl K. Long, brother of the slain senator, nominated lieutenant governor, trailed the list with a lead of 183,972 votes.

United States senator [short term]: Oscar K. Allen [Long], 365,268; Frank J. Looney [anti-Long], 159,447; Irving Wardsteinman, 6,933.

United States senator [long term]: Allen J. Ellender [Long], 362,094; John N. Sandlin [anti-Long], 166,308; Irving Wardsteinman, 4,110.

Governor: Cleveland Dear [anti-Long], 174,915; Richard W. Leche [Long], 358,709; Mason Spencer, 1,709.

Lieutenant governor: Earl K. Long [Long], 358,199; Clement Moss [anti-Long], 175,227.

FORM "MINUTE MEN" TO GUARD CONSTITUTION

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Twenty-two business and civic leaders today announced formation of the "Missouri Minute Men of the United States Constitution," an organization dedicated to preservation of the constitution in its "original purity."

Col. James W. Byrnes, executive secretary, said 2,000 men in 75 counties are working with the association.

The organization condemns dictatorships, Fascism, sovietism, Socialism, and communism. The Minute Men are pledged to "hold fast to the constitution, the heritage of all citizens, and the protection of the Supreme court as the safeguard of American liberties."

They are opposed to undue taxation and "to the subversion of individual incentive and private enterprise through government ownership or burocratic control."

Byrnes was an unsuccessful candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States senator in 1932.

"The Newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and lead public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."—Chicago Tribune.

THE ISSUE BEFORE US.

Last week closed with two notable appeals to the sober thinking of the American people. They were especially notable and, we trust, momentous, not merely for the clarity and force with which they presented fundamental issues, but for the character of the speakers. Both Mr. Davis and Mr. Smith had been candidates of the Democratic party for the highest office in the nation. Both have been in the highest counsels of that party and may safely be presumed still to speak in its honorable tradition and for such of its membership as cherished its principles and wished it to be a faithful agency for the application of those principles in government.

The situation of these two eminent men in the present campaign is that of every member of their party whose affiliation is based upon its principles and not merely upon the desire for office or other personal profit. It is a situation, or shall we say a predicament, so plain as hardly needs statement. It compels a choice between principles and their repudiation. What choice is made will have an important, perhaps a decisive, effect on the election of next November. Men of the character and caliber of Mr. Smith and Mr. Davis could be in no doubt of their duty as principled Democrats and as loyal Americans.

But their appeals are on a higher plane than partisanship, as the issue of this campaign transcends party fortunes. The issue, as both Mr. Davis and Mr. Smith make clear, is whether we are to preserve the American form of government and the order of life which has developed under it. The issue is whether the American people shall abandon a form of government under which the powers of government are expressly limited by fundamental law or adopt a system which under pretense of the general welfare discards the restraints upon political authority ordained by the American nation at its birth.

Of Mr. Davis' and Mr. Smith's searching discussion of this issue we shall have more to say. But it is of first moment that the issue itself should be set before the American citizenry, and the gist of it is whether the American people shall govern themselves or surrender their liberties to the self-alleged benignancy and all-absorbing power of unlimited political government. In spite of protestations and evasions, this transformation is the purpose and the persistent effort of the régime of Franklin Roosevelt. It represents a tendency widely revealed elsewhere in the world, but its fruits are not such as commend it to any liberty loving people. As Mr. Davis says: "Surely the idea that nothing can go well unless government has a hand in it is one of the most insane delusions that has ever vexed the mind of man." Never, indeed, in history has the fallacy of that idea appeared in more unmistakable and compelling events than in the world today, and Americans have only to observe the scene before them to conclude with Mr. Davis that "the distress tormenting the whole round world today is due more to the folly of governments than to any and all other causes combined."

It was, in fact, in this conviction that the political genius of the American people established the restraints upon government which the New Deal would remove from the path of its ambition and the impatience of reckless discontent would destroy as a check upon its momentary impulse. But Americans aware of their welfare as freemen are asking themselves "why must the American government be equipped with new and greater powers in order to enlarge upon the blunders into which others have fallen?" For surely "there is nothing in their example to tempt us to throw away those checks and balances, those limitations on authority, that jealousy of power, that scrupulous regard for the individual which we have so long boasted to the world as our unique contribution to the science of free government."

With characteristic candor and deep feeling Mr. Smith rebuked the administration's repudiation of solemn party pledges and its betrayal of party principles. It is obvious to any one who understands the procedure of American political action that the callous repudiation by Mr. Roosevelt of his own solemn and explicit promise to support the party platform on which he was elected strikes at the heart of responsible government. Either a party platform is a contract with the people to be fulfilled or it is a fraud. Either party pledges and principles are to be respected or there is no party, in the American sense of party; there is nothing but an organization for spoils and power.

Fidelity to party pledges, fidelity to party principles, fidelity to oath of office, fidelity to the institutions and principles which the office-holder is sworn to uphold, these are the essentials of popular government. They have all been betrayed by Franklin Roosevelt and the men who have supported him. This Mr. Smith and Mr. Davis have made abundantly plain, and the issues they have presented the American people must now confront and decide. They have spoken as Democrats loyal to their party. They have spoken as Americans loyal to their country and its institutions. They have performed the highest service a citizen can render his fellow citizens in this hour of trial.

THE LANDING PROBLEM.

Whatever the investigation into the recent air disaster at Goodwin, Ark., reveals, the incident serves to emphasize the greatest of drawbacks to aerial navigation—the impossibility of landing vertically or at much reduced speeds. While it is true that modern planes drop to airports at speeds something less than one-third the cruising velocity, fifty to sixty miles per hour is still a high rate of speed for the light construction of the body. At that figure the hazards have not been appreciably minimized.

Certain special type ships have been devised to explore the possibilities of this practically undeveloped field, but they have never been able to combine the unique with the commercially practical. To the nation that solves this problem will go the air supremacy of the world and a fortune awaits the manufacturer or individual who finds the answer.

A WELCOME ALLY.

In its recent yearly review the New York Sun published a very constructive article on the railway situation from the pen of Thomas F. Woodlock, former interstate commerce commissioner. The summary offered a five plank national transportation platform with which THE TRIBUNE can readily agree.

First, Mr. Woodlock recommended consolidation of our railways into territorial systems to eliminate wastful duplication of service that is masquerading under the guise of competition. Second, he favored a more liberal regulatory policy that would permit the railways to make freight rates on a contract and trainload basis. Third, he supported the Pettengill bill, now before congress, which would enable the railways to compete for the hauling of transcontinental trafic with steamship lines operating through the Panama canal. Fourth, he recommended the simplification of the present classification by means of which the railroads undertake to distribute the freight burden of the country among commodities in accordance with a code that considers value, luxury, and other items not directly related to transportation. Finally he stated that railways should be permitted to own and operate trucks as well as water craft to round out the most economical system of transportation and to effect coördination under a single ownership, the only way in which that much desired goal can be attained.

Within the scope of this program is included the basis of THE TRIBUNE'S plan for the rejuvenation of the railways, but we must disagree with Mr. Woodlock that its consummation is either politically or economically imposible. If a few more journals like the Sun would demand from the demagogs a respite from railway baiting and a moratorium on burocratic domination the public would lose its present suspicious attitude toward railways. After all, that distrust has been principally developed by the ranting of self-seeking politicians and does not arise from personal experience.

Editorial of the Day

IN THE MATTER OF ADVERTISING AND MR. TUGWELL.

[Janesville, Wis., Gazette.]

Mr. Tugwell [everybody genuflex] says advertising is a sinful waste of money. Joel Cheek died Friday, down in Jacksonville, Fla. His home was in Nashville. He started life, as Bill Nye used to say, with "one suspender and a sore toe." He was a grocery clerk. Soon he owned the business. He made coffee, put it in cans ready to serve. It was an idea. It was his idea. He advertised. He put millions of dollars into advertising. Nobody paid any more for his coffee than they did for coffee that wasn't advertised. Millions of people bought it because they liked the idea. It has been repeated and repeated since by other coffee merchants. Joel Cheek and his partner sold out for 40 millions of dollars.

There are two kinds of values—that which is inherent in the article and the mind value. That is peculiar to the customer. Mind value is the thing that makes two women argue over the respective merits of cheese, fur coats, or flowers. Advertising impresses on the mind the certain things in life that may please. There would be no national distribution of a thousand items of merchandise if it were not for advertising—that is, if those things that one thinks about once in a while were not continually impressed upon one by the repetition of the advertising. Dr. Tugwell says advertising adds to consumer cost. It is exactly the other way around.

Advertising took oatmeal out of the barrel in which mice slept and placed it in clean packages. So it did to prunes and pickles. It took the orange from the toe of the Christmas stocking and made it a nation's fruit food. It made the public finicky about the kind of bread it bought. It put dresses on the market and took away the uncertainty of what to wear. Advertising raised the standard of living in millions of homes.

The smart Mr. Tugwell is ignorant of human beings, human behavior, and of the ordinary commonplaces of life when he says it increases costs. Bacon was once a chunk of hog meat. It was glorified into something else by the pictured beauty of a slab of this food; that, too, is the story of ham and a hundred other foods. Advertising has and will continue to increase consumption and lower prices.

What made a nation drink tomato juice and ask for canned pineapple? What made the people want canned soups and freshly baked crackers and cookies in packages? Surely not by making better cakes, cookies, and crackers than any one else, but by first making good foods and then telling the astigmatic world about it in type and picture.

Long before Christ preached his sermon on the Mount or told his disciples to go out into the world and tell every one about the new plan of salvation the Chinese were putting printed placards on the walls and movable types were used to advertise the ukases of Chinese rulers.

Tugwell does actually believe in advertising. Let all the newspapers of the nation, all the magazines, and all the publications—radio and all channels for the dissemination of information—be closed against Mr. Tugwell and he would last about as long as the more or less celebrated feather in hell.

Tugwell lives on publicity. It took him out of his natural obscurity and gave him a place in the sun. Otherwise he would have been neither asset nor liability—a nonentity. That is advertising. He would die like any other microbe if there was nothing on which to feed. His feed is the beating of the tom-toms advertising his exploits. He belies his own attitude in advertising.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

Please Return Herewith.

"I return herewith, without my approval, H. R. bill 9870, entitled 'an act to provide for the immediate payment of world war adjusted service certificates.'"—President Roosevelt.

Well, Mr. President,
While you're returning things
Herewith
Would you mind
Returning a few arms and legs that Were forcibly removed from
Some friends of mine at St. Mihiel?
It's immaterial whether you return the Legs and arms with your Approval or disapproval,
Those fellows would be glad to Get 'em back any way at all.

And while the war was
A long, long time ago there
Are former soldiers still lying
Racked with pain in hospitals.
Would you be so good as to return
Herewith
Their health?
Never mind endorsing it,

And many American doughboys and gunners
Swallowed a lot of gas—chlorine
And mustard and so on—
Which ate out parts of their Lungs, and while many of them
Went west toot sweet,
As we used to say
In France,
A good many are still hanging on Trying to live with as much Lung
As the gas didn't eat out.
Would you please return herewith
To them
Their lungs?
Good, sound lungs that they Can breathe with
And not suffer.
Return their lungs herewith and
Never mind putting your Approval on 'em.
Just return their lungs
Herewith.

And under the mantling snow
Are thousands of boys
Once gay and light hearted
Who answered their country's call.
Some died from shot and shell
On the battlefields of France;
And others died in their Homeland,
Yet far away from home,
Of influenza and deadly torturing
Fever.
Is it too much, Mr. President,
To ask of you
To return those lives
Herewith.

ONE MORE SPEECH such as he made in New York last Friday and John W. Davis is going to find himself the nominee of an old party or a new party or a first party or a second party or a third party for the office of President of these United States. Watch your step, John W. Davis, watch your step.

THE WEATHER MAN and everybody else are terribly mystified because the below zero weather remained so long. Very simple, very simple indeed. The blizzard remained so long because it was so cold it froze in its tracks and consequently couldn't move until warm winds came up from the south and thawed it out.

SONG FOR CORRINNE.

("L'Amitié est l'amour sans ailes.")

In April, when your name was new,
Hand in hand I walked with you,
And lest our golden friendship end
I never called you more than friend.

Now restless April nears again,
And still we walk and laugh as then,
For though a dozen loves have died
The year has kept us side by side.

Many another lad, no doubt,
Has loved, and led your arm about,
But oh, a lengthy year has passed
And love was never made to last;

Many a girl has had my heart,
And deep I loved her at the start,
But soon my wit came back to me
And back my heart came, utterly.

The girls that were my friends before,
After love were friends no more,
For pride in fragile hearts is great
And love can only turn to hate.

If lads would have a friendship stay
They would not give their hearts away,
For when their love must come to end
They will also lose a friend—

And caring for you as I do
I dare not fall in love with you;
Your face is fair, but praising it
Would be a travesty of wit,

For then I would be moved to trade
A friendship that can never fade
For love, whose life is told in days
And only lives as long as praise.

Live you long, and long will I,
And many a love will dim and die,
But under other April skies
Hand in hand will walk the wise.

WHY PREVENT WHOOPING COUGH?

LAST week we discussed some of the dangers of scarlet fever and its complications. We come now to another disease that shows itself in childhood particularly, although adults may contract the infection. Whooping cough may be a killer, as it often brings about such a severe lowering of resistance that other infections may gain a firm foothold. It may be followed by bronchitis, pneumonia, tuberculosis, or trouble in the digestive tract. Very young children cannot withstand these complications easily. In fact, between the ages of two and three, whooping cough ranks third among the causes of death. The older the child the better the outlook, but a case in an older youngster in the home usually means that the germs will be communicated to all the other non-immune children.

Every one is familiar with the general manifestation of this disease and its widespread epidemic character. While the infection is more common in the spring it exists in most communities the year round and, strangely enough, it is more prevalent proportionately in the rural districts than in cities.

How is it spread? Within recent years the cause—the organism—has been discovered and it has been shown that the contagion is passed readily from one person to another through the secretions from the mouth and the nose. Coughing, sneezing, the use of the same towel by several children, common drinking glasses or cups, are favorite modes of transferring the bacteria.

Approximately one-half the cases are due to direct contact. This does not mean that children must kiss each other, for a coughing child can expel enough bacteria laden spray to give the disease to every one within several feet.

When is it contagious? It is believed that until the symptoms fully develop there is no possibility of spread, although infection may be conveyed from one person to another before the characteristic whoop is noticed.

Prevention is always far more important than cure in any condition and particularly so in whooping cough. It is now possible to make a vaccine that may render an individual immune, but it must be given several months before exposure in order to secure protection. While this method will not protect every child, it will be of value in a large percentage if the material [vaccine] is prepared by a reliable laboratory. Of course, we must understand that no living organisms exist in the vaccine. They are all killed by heat or by some chemical agent.

The early symptoms are quite like those of the ordinary cold. First, there is a nasal discharge [running nose], slight cough, and sometimes a temperature. Many infections begin in this manner, but if whooping cough is in the making the supposed cold not only hangs on but increases in severity until the whoop appears; that machinegunlike repetition that deprives the child of breath so that when air is drawn into the lungs there is a shrill, high pitched, sirenlike cry.

Once whooping cough has developed the child should be provided with plenty of fresh air and every effort should be made to maintain nutrition. As coughing increases, vomiting will occur—not due to a digestive upset, but to the severity of the paroxysm. If the patient is old enough he can be taught to hold a paper handkerchief over the nose and mouth during a coughing spell. This should be deposited in a paper bag and later burned. Remember that the discharges contain the bacilli and can infect others.

Parents must understand that the disease is a long-drawn out affair and, on the average, eight weeks should elapse before a victim of whooping cough is permitted to mingle with other children.

ARTHRITIS.

N. writes: Some time ago you discussed the use of colloidal sulphur for the treatment of arthritis. Is this plan still used with advantage?

REPLY.

Yes.

A recent report by an eminent British authority indicates that the use of sulphur in arthritis is followed by considerable improvement in a high percentage of cases. There is, however, a tendency to relapse if the infection causing the arthritis is not eradicated. Apparently sulphur increases the number of leucocytes [white blood cells] and in this way provides more fighting power on the part of the body. Pain, tenderness, stiffness, and swelling are temporarily increased. As they recede, however, movement without pain is frequently possible. Most authors state that the sulphur treatment should not be employed during the acute stage of the disease.

ULTRAVIOLET.

Mrs. D. H. writes:

1. My 4 year old daughter has bronchitis. She has been getting twenty minutes a day under a mercury lamp. Is this the right type of lamp to use in this condition?

2. Does she need cod liver oil when receiving these treatments?

REPLY.

1. Ultraviolet is used to raise resistance and should be of value during the winter months. Be sure that the dose is not excessive. The child's body should be at least thirty inches distant from the light. If reddening of the skin lasts for four hours the dose is too large.

2. Yes, I would use it.

HEART MURMUR.

W. A. D. writes: What is meant by a "double heart murmur"? Can it be treated? Is it curable?

REPLY.

A double murmur occurs when there is incomplete opening and closing of a heart valve. The condition sets up a double murmur, the first being heard as the blood is forced through the [narrowed] valve in one direction, and the second when the blood resurgitates, or leaks backward.

The structural defect in the valve can never be cured. However, the heart muscle can carry on the extra work imposed on it with practically normal efficiency. One must learn to live within the capacity of the heart muscle.

ERYSIPELAS.

A. F. W. describes his experience with erysipelas. After trying many other plans without success his physician painted the inflamed skin with collodion. Recovery with relief of pain followed.

REPLY.

Flexible collodion has been used for many years in the treatment of erysipelas and is of value.

From Across the Sea

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAN JUAN, P. R.—The Monroe Doctrin and the new policy on intervention are much discussed by former members of the family of the late Senator Juan Vicente Gomez and others en route from Venezuela, where disorder continues to be prevalent.

The situation in Venezuela is complicated by the fact that the former dictator encouraged the investment of foreign capital. Holdings, now that the republic is torn by revolt, are jeopardized, and it is feared that foreign protests will be made.

Foreigners who have visited Venezuela in recent years, and especially since the death of Gomez, are dubious about prospects for internal peace for months, if not years. They are inclined to believe that violence and factional strife will become more widespread and they compare the South American republic with Cuba, where the abdication of Gerardo Machado plunged the country into political uncertainty that is not yet fully cleared.

Venezuela, observers believe, will be subjected to greater violence and bloodshed will be more general. The people of the South American nation, unlike those of Cuba, do not feel the restraint of foreign influence. In other words, rebellious leaders in Venezuela are not inclined to visit the United States minister before testing their strength, and when they have taken the field there are no uneasy days while awaiting word of the reaction in Washington.

There are, in addition, geographical and industrial conditions in Venezuela that favor an individualistic approach on the part of "patriots." The states have much the racial and geographical identity of separate republics, and although Gomez maintained complete unity by careful selection of provincial legislators and governors, these officials now are jealous of one another and of "reform" groups.

A typical provincial governor is Perez Soto, one of the late dictator's most trusted lieutenants. He has complete charge in the very zone where continuation of the eruption is almost certain to bring the demand for intervention.

His province is the center of the oil industry and the oil industry is in the hands of foreign capital. Perez Soto has threatened to create a separate republic of his province, but as it is the center of by far the greatest field of national wealth and the one province whose governor has every opportunity to add greatly to his own wealth the government at Caracas is not expected to permit secession.

Col. Gonzalo Gomez, one of the favored sons of the former dictator, who is now a self-exile in Porto Rico, believes the government will be able to pacify Perez Soto. Col. Gomez, to whom his father gave the lottery and racing concessions of the republic, is a close friend of the new president and is anxious to see a settlement of the Zulu province issue.

He refuses to comment upon a contradictory story to the effect that Perez Soto and President Lopez are secretly in accord and waiting until peace is restored to strike a bargain.

On the other hand is the belief that Perez Soto intends becoming the president of Zulu with the long range plan of later annexing Venezuela. Officials of foreign concessions are hoping that the army of the republic will not march against him.

That would mean war—and war over oil! And with the first threat of the growth of localized street fighting expanded to the proportions of civil war, repetition of the foreign protests of the reign of Cipriano Castro is feared by friends of the country. At that time the Dutch sank the Venezuelan fleet. Battleships from other nations entered the harbor and in the end the Monroe Doctrin compelled the United States to serve for all nations in straightening out the tangle.

This time the oil business is expected to be productive of sharp notes of protest, and observers are inclined to think if Venezuela shows no signs of being able to speedily straighten things out that a committee will again expect Uncle Sam to protect their interests, while safeguarding the Monroe Doctrin.

SUIT FOR DAMAGES.

Chicago, Jan. 18.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have been served with a summons to appear for the setting of trial in a lawsuit for damages sustained by a tenant while I was doing minor repairs in my rooming house. 1. The plaintiff was not working for me but voluntarily helped when he saw something was about to happen. The plaintiff is suing me along with the rich property owners. 2. Would it be possible to take my rooming house, which is worth at the most $500, if I lose the suit? I have an automobile which is mortgaged. 3. Must I engage a lawyer? G. A.

1. We could advise to better advantage if you had stated the facts more concretely.

2. Yes, in the sense that the exemption to a person who is head of a family is only $400 worth.

3. We advise you not to permit the case to go against you by default, if that is what you mean to ask. It might be possible to engage the attorney who is representing "the rich property owner" to represent you also for a small additional fee.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

ADOPTION PROCEEDINGS.

Chicago, Jan. 16.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Will you please tell me [1] the proper procedure for legally adopting one's stepchild? 2. How and where can one secure papers, etc.? W. L. W.

1. Proceedings outlined in the adoption chapter in the Revised Statutes should be carried through in the county court.

2. You can obtain some of the forms and examine the files of similar proceedings in the office of the clerk of that court, but ordinarily it is advisable to employ an attorney. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

CORRECTING CITIZENSHIP PAPERS.

Chicago, Jan. 17.—[Friend of the People.]—In 1915 I received my citizenship papers and recently through an error I discovered that the citizenship papers showed my age to be six years younger than my correct age. What steps must I go through to have this mistake corrected, or can it be corrected? M. G.

It is suggested that the inquirer call at this office with his certificate of citizenship in order that he may be appropriately advised. FRED J. SCHLOTFELDT,

A DOCTOR ON THE TICKET.

Paxton, Ill., Jan. 18.—I see where some of your readers are kicking because the Kelly-Nash faction chose Bundesen, a doctor, as a candidate for governor instead of selecting a business man. From the present outlook it seems like a wise choice as more and more it looks like the Democrats are going to need a doctor next November. I suggest that they select a coroner for one of the other offices, as all indications are that it is going to be too late for the doctor to do any good.

A. C.

DR. BUNDESEN'S TALENTS.

Chicago, Jan. 16.—Is it necessary for a man to be a banker, broker, storekeeper or manufacturing executive to acquire business ability? If F. B. F. of Glen Ellyn will pay a visit to Chicago's health department he will see a business organization second to none. That organization was assembled and trained by Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, who has shown keen business ability in all of his endeavors. Had Dr. Bundesen chosen a business career he would have, without a doubt, become very famous and wealthy. He chose a profession whereby he could best serve humanity and give real service instead of accumulating wealth. His life has been dedicated to the relief of the suffering [especially of our babies] and service to the masses.

WILLIAM B. REYNOLDS.

EXPLAINING A BREACH OF FAITH.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 22.—Why should A. F. D., a recent correspondent in this column, complain of what he alleges are promises in Democratic national platform of 1932 broken by President Roosevelt, when A. F. D. did not vote for Roosevelt? The economic situation in the United States, while very bad in June, 1932, was worse than ever in March, 1933, when A. F. D.'s beloved Hoover tossed the wreck into the hands of Roosevelt. The situation on March 4, 1933, required immediate action—"balancing budget" notwithstanding—and while a couple of the major acts in the administration's plan for recovery have been declared by the Supreme court to be unconstitutional—a power not given to the court by the same constitution—the steps taken by the administration have advanced the general welfare of the common people, but probably not the general welfare of the millionaires.

That the voters approved the administration's efforts was shown in the congressional elections of 1934, wherein an increased number of Democratic congressmen were elected. President Roosevelt has done a good job for us and will be reëlected as a matter of course.

W. F. JAMES.

SEEMS UNLIKELY.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 18.—I have long noted that the stations broadcasting Republican speeches are seldom, if ever, as clear as are these same stations when New Dealers are talking. It has also been frequently noted that stations muddled during a Republican talk return to a condition of clarity immediately following the broadcast. Can it be possible that New Deal operators are at the radio control boards from the point of broadcast? JOHN B. FIELD.

ILLITERACY AND THE NEW DEAL.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 20.—Apropos the Literary Digest poll, do you suppose there is any connection between the percentage of illiteracy of the south and the percentage by which the south is upholding the New Deal? It is suspicious, to say the least. J. KYLE FOSTER.

SEMPER FIDELIS.

Chicago, Jan. 23.—There's no better motto than that of the marines [semper fidelis], and knowing that Mr. C. W. Brooks was once a marine, I'm sure he will be our next governor and will keep that motto in mind. J. IVAN HANSEN.

IT'S O. K. WITH US.

Chicago, Jan. 23.—Several daily papers recently indulged in a review of all the marriageable princesses in Europe who might be regarded as a possibility for a spouse of the new bachelor ruler of Great Britain. In the list of suitable companions of royal blood is also included Princess Juliana of Holland, the only child of the reigning Queen Wilhelmina. It is out of the question that this young lady could accept a marriage proposal from King Edward. Princess Juliana will be the successor on the throne of her mother; furthermore the stern jonkheers of the parliament and the counselors of state would see that her wedding to a ruler would not take place.

There is another possibility. The grand duchy of Luxemberg has been overlooked. The reigning grand duchess, Charlotte, married to Prince Felix of Bourbon and Parma, has five lovely sisters; the oldest one, Grand Duchess Adelaide, unfortunate ruler during the world war, died Jan. 24, 1924, at the chateau of Hohenburg in Bavaria. All are married with the exception of Princess Elizabeth Marie Wilhelmina, born March 7, 1901. She was married on Nov. 14, 1922, to Prince Philippe de Thurn and Taxis. He died April 22, 1933, at Niederalchbach. Princess Elizabeth of Luxemburg is now a charming young widow, this being no obstacle for a British king in choosing her, a noble scion of the Portuguese house of Braganza, to share his throne.

J. B. MERKELS,
Ex-Vice Consul of Luxemburg.

NEWS STAND REGULATION.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—"Tobacco Road" was closed; "The Children's Hour" was all but banned; and now we are threatened with the enforcement of city ordinance 990, which, in part, will eliminate from all news stands any magazine and newspaper not published in Chicago. These actions, although perhaps not connected, seem strangely like a concerted attempt to keep our city not only clean but sterile.

One feels, somehow, that elimination will be directed not against those publications which are full of sweetness and light, but rather against those all too few publications, which, like "Tobacco Road," seek to enlighten us as to the economic morass in which we, the people, are wallowing.

It seems, in fact, a very definite threat against our own freedom of the press, since a very logical further step would be the banning of such Chicago papers as were not sympathetic to the city council or the administration.

LOUISE TAYLOR.

CONTRIBUTIONS TO THE G. O. P.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Jan. 17.—It occurs to me that many people, including myself, would be glad to know to whom and where contributions may be sent for the use of the Republican national committee. The individual amounts contributed would not necessarily be large, but I do believe that many people have the feeling, as have I, that not only the welfare of the country but its very existence as a nation of free people is, this year, at stake, and would consider it not only a duty but a privilege to contribute to the coming campaign.

A HOPEFUL VIEW.

Chicago, Jan. 21.—News item states that three hours and twenty minutes after his birth a baby boy was enrolled as a member of the State League of Young Democrats.

Why worry about that? By the time he votes he will have cut his wisdom teeth and the Young Demoreds will have lost another vote. W. EMPY.

VENIZELISTS WIN GREEK ELECTION; KING 'TOLERATED'

Athens Expects Return of Exiled Statesman.

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

ATHENS, Jan. 26.—On a platform of toleration of King George II, the Venizelists, or Liberals, defeated Field Marshal George Kondylis today in a perfectly orderly and honestly conducted election, thereby making probable an early return of former Premier Eleutherios Venizelos to Greece.

Gen. Kondylis, however, by an amazing spurt outran former Premier Panayoti Tsaldaris and made himself the strongest leader of the anti-Venizelists. He will command in parliament a fighting majority which will support his existing control of army officers.

Republican Leaders Beaten.

Tsaldaris paid the penalty for vacillating over the question of the restoration of the throne and the Venizelist question by heavy losses throughout the country. Many Republican leaders were annihilated. Gen. John Metaxas lost heavily to Kondylis and the communists lost strength to Venizelos, who has been living in Paris in exile since his ill-fated revolt.

The Venizelists obtained 80 per cent of the vote in Macedonia and even more in Crete. Gen. Kondylis' unexpected strength may presage parliamentary opposition to King George's military alliance with Great Britain, for Kondylis hitherto has done his utmost in Italy's interests on every occasion.

Venizelos' private agreement with King George II. for mutual toleration was made with the object of keeping Greece within the British camp, and the former premier therefore may be publicly invited by King George to return home as early as possible as an offset to Kondylis' strength.

List 135 Seats for Venizelists.

The latest returns indicated the Venizelists would get 135 seats of the 300 in parliament; the parties of Kondylis and Tsaldaris, 125; the communists, 14; the Republicans, 8; the party of Gen. Metaxas, 9, and the Independents, 9.

The returns in Athens are nearly complete and may be taken as roughly corresponding to those which the national vote will show. They are as follows:

Venizelists, 37,000; Kondylists, 21,000; Tsaldarists, 15,000; communists, 7,000; Republican front [of minor republican leaders], 3,000; Metaxas party, 2,500, and independents, 2,500.

Venizelos' photograph on the Liberal ballots drew a blast from Kondylis, whose coup made possible the return of King George two months ago.

"My opposition is not against the Liberals as a party but against Venizelos personally, who must never be allowed to return to the nation that he disgraced by the March revolution."

The election was called to replace the stop-gap régime of Premier Constantine Bemerdjis.

A decree giving to King George an annual salary of 24,000,000 drachmas [about $228,000 at the current exchange] and to Prince Paul 4,000,000 was published in the official gazette today. Paul is the king's brother. An additional 10,000,000 drachmas was voted to King George for expenses in connection with the renovation of the palace.

Prince Andrew's degradation from the rank of general of cavalry as a result of the 1922 defeat in Asia Minor was canceled. This is considered a preliminary to his recall to Greece.

ROCHELLE HUDSON OF MOVIES IS BURIED BY MAN-MADE SNOWSLIDE

Truckee, Cal., Jan. 26.—(AP)—A man-made snowslide buried Rochelle Hudson, screen actress, during the filming of a picture in the High Sierras today. She was unconscious when the movie crew dug her out three minutes later, but revived quickly and was sent to bed.

Company physicians said she would be "all right" tomorrow.

The avalanche, staged for a scene in "The Country Beyond," failed to keep its prescribed course.

The setting is north of Lake Tahoe on the California-Nevada border where the snow is six feet deep in places.

Recently an avalanche only a few miles from the movie location crushed the steel car of a transcontinental passenger train, injuring thirteen persons.

OPEN CATHOLIC CONFERENCE ON INDUSTRY TODAY

The Rev. John J. Doody, pastor of Queen of Angels Catholic church, announced last night that all plans are now complete for the opening today of the Catholic Conference on Industrial Problems at the Palmer house. Father Doody is the chairman of the conference which will close tomorrow night. Bishop Bernard J. Sheil is honorary chairman.

It was stated that the Chicago conference, one of the regional groups which are meeting at various centers throughout the country, takes on an added significance due to its origin at Loyola university in 1922. The six sessions will be featured by speakers who represent leadership in their respective fields. These include the Rt. Rev. Msgr. John A. Ryan of Washington, D. C.; Thomas J. Norton, noted constitutional lawyer, and E. J. Marron, president of the National Catholic Alumni federation. The conference will close with a dinner tomorrow night.

Barber Found Dead from Gas in Chair in His Shop

Michael Reiter, 55 years old, 2421 Foster avenue, was found asphyxiated in a barber chair in his shop at 5104 North Western avenue last night. A gas jet of a hot water heater had been opened and the room was full of gas when Joseph Reiter, 5715 North Keystone avenue, went to the shop in search of his father, who had left home early in the afternoon to start a fire in the furnace of the shop. Police were unable to determine whether Reiter's death was accidental.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

By Frank Ridgway

Mule-Minded

January, 26, 1936.

IN becoming "mule-minded" workers at the Tribune experimental farm are falling in line with the interests of farmers throughout the country who are again turning to mules as a source of farm power. The revived interest in mule raising has started breeders scouring the country for good jacks. Some are even going abroad and importing jacks. One of the largest mule dealers and breeders in the Lexington, Ky., territory recently returned from Spain with 25 jacks.

According to information received by the Horse and Mule Association of America, jacks capable of producing good mules are not only hard to find, but are demanding high prices. It is not uncommon for breeders to pay from $500 to $1,500 a head for jacks to replace those that were either destroyed outright or sold for hog feed a few years ago when there was no demand for them.

Some breeders kept their jacks and jennets for years at a dead expense, hoping for a revival of interest in mule breeding, but became discouraged and disposed of them before the revival came. This unfortunate situation is an indication of the difficulty met with in attempting to foretell future trends of an industry.

The chief users of mules in this country—the cotton farmers of the far south—have never raised their own mules. They have always bought them as mature animals from states farther north.

The mule breeding industry first thrived in Kentucky, Tennessee, and Missouri. Long before the civil war days the great mule caravans, led by a faithful slave riding a white horse, became familiar sights as they moved south each spring out of Kentucky and Tennessee into the cotton plantations of Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, and the Carolinas. Most of the Missouri mules were shipped down the Mississippi on steam boats.

In more recent years the breeding ground has been extended until it includes Oklahoma, the southern halves of Iowa, Illinois, and Indiana, and eastern Kansas and Nebraska. Some mules are raised from range mares in western Texas and a few are produced in Colorado, Oregon, Utah, and Mississippi.

The blue grass regions of central Tennessee have long served as a sort of intermediate training ground for many of the mules that were finally sold to the plantation owners farther south for use in the cotton fields. Farmers in this Tennessee area buy mule colts at weaning time in the states to the north and west and raise them to maturity. When the mules are four to six years old and well broken to work they are ready for market in the cotton states.

Some animal husbandry authorities are of the opinion that the present interest in mule breeding may extend to states that did not formerly raise mules. They explained that in the past the cotton belt states have afforded an annual market for about 275,000 mules and that the south has potential possibilities for growing many of its own mules once the practice is started.

In the fall of 1934 the University of Georgia, in coöperation with the United States department of agriculture, started a project to determine the advisability of raising mules in that state. At the present time this Georgia breeding program is being carried on with 27 Morgan and Standard-bred mares and two 1,200 pound jacks. According to present plans a few draft mares will be added so that comparisons may be made of the mule colts produced from different sized mares.

Georgia farmers now buy annually about 20,000 horses and mules [mostly mules]. For the last five year the state has produced less than 500 foals annually. The production record of many of the other cotton states is similar to that of Georgia.

ORDER TEST MADE OF RIGHT TURN ON RED ARROW LIGHT

Lincoln-Foster Trial May Lead to Adoption.

BY HAL FOUST.

Leslie J. Sorenson, city trafic engineer, has ordered the installation of a flashing red arrow in the light signal system at Foster and Lincoln avenues. It will be an experiment in an original control of a right turn movement after a vehicle has stopped for a red light.

The experiment is expected to grow into a widespread use in Chicago of this novel signal to authorize a right turn concurrent with moving cross trafic.

Plan Succeeds Elsewhere.

There has been agitation here for almost a year to give motorists in this city the convenience of a right turn on a red light such as has been operating successfully in New York, Detroit, Los Angeles, and a number of other cities.

Mr. Sorenson and Otto K. Jelinek, trafic engineer for the Chicago park district, have studied this operation in other cities and have agreed that the maneuver is beneficial from the standpoint of both convenience and safety, but that such regulation is not applicable advantageously to all intersections. The red flashing arrow was devised to designate where the turn is to be permitted and to control the movement.

Check on 200 Corners.

Relief labor was used last year to survey vehicular and pedestrian movements at 200 intersections that might benefit from operation of the red flashing arrow signal. There are 460 light controled intersections outside the loop. These field studies will be analyzed while experimenting with the mechanical equipment at Foster and Lincoln avenues.

The red flashing arrow, in so far as is known here, is not in trafic use in any part of the world. Yet it does not violate standard practices. A flashing red light, under standard practice, directs a motorist to stop and then to procede with caution. By having the light shaped like an arrow, the signal will indicate the direction of travel. Its meaning will differ from green arrows, introduced to trafic control a few years ago, in that the green does not call for a preliminary stop.

Old Theater's Corner Stone to Unfold an Epoch of Drama

BY KAY HALL.

The theater of the past and the theater of the future will be discussed this week with the opening of the cornerstone of the Illinois theater, 61-65 East Jackson boulevard, which was laid on May 22, 1900. The building is being wrecked to make way for a parking lot.

When the corner stone is opened Harry J. Powers, who has been one of the owners of the playhouse since it was built, will carry the contents, including a box of historical papers and photographs and a bottle of Kentucky bourbon, to the Union League club. The papers and photographs will be offered to the Chicago Historical society, said Mr. Powers, but the whisky will be drunk at an informal luncheon in the club which will be attended by Mr. Powers and the other two liquidating trustees of the property, Martin F. Colby and R. A. Mowat.

Spans Rich Epoch of Drama.

The theater in its 35 years spanned a rich epoch of the American stage.

Its dedicatory performance on Oct. 15, 1900, was a civic occasion. Its stage was the largest of any legitimate theater at the time it was built and the auditorium seated 1,400 persons. Mr. Powers characterized it as "of classical architecture and rococo decorations, not the extreme gaudiness of de luxe music houses of today."

For the opening Charles Frohman presented Julia Marlowe in "Barbara Fritchie" with Katherine Wilson, Norah Lamison, Ellen Rowland, Bruce McRae, Charles Harbury, Donald MacLaren, C. F. Gibney and other notable players. James O'Donnell Bennett, for many years a TRIBUNE writer, was the business manager of the company.

Sarah Bernhardt played the theater many times, outstandingly in "L'Aiglon." "Toward the end she was very feeble and got around by pushing a chair, but her voice was as beautiful as ever," Mr. Powers recalled yesterday.

Long List of Famed Stars.

Famous stars from England who trod the Illinois boards included Henry Irving, Ellen Terry, Sir Herbert Tree, G. P. Huntley and the Lyceum theater company from London. "Ziegfeld's Follies" came regularly to the Jackson boulevard house.

The most spectacular offering was the first Chicago presentation of "Ben Hur" when real horses appeared on the stage on a treadmill for the chariot race. The stage had to be extended into the alley south of the building, Mr. Powers recalled.

"Green Pastures" in 1931 was the last play and its long run reflected some of the past glories of the Illinois stage. It was followed in 1932 by "The Band Wagon," the last major presentation and a sample of the current hilarity of musical comedy.

ASSAILS JUDGE WHO WON JOB FOR MEYERING

Chamberlin Hits Kelly's Probation Record.

The attack on the appointment of former Sheriff William D. Meyering to the post of chief probation officer for Cook county was turned yesterday on his sponsor, Superior Judge James J. Kelly. Judge Kelly's handling of probation cases was criticized by Col. Henry Barrett Chamberlin, operating director of the Chicago Crime commission.

John W. Houston, who has been probation chief since 1910, resigned on Jan. 16. The next day, about 25 judges of the Superior, Circuit, and Municipal courts chose Meyering as his successor, on nomination of Judge Kelly. The appointment is effective next Saturday. Since 85 judges have a statutory right to a voice in manning the office, opponents of Meyering charged that the meeting which chose him lacked a quorum.

Charges of Commission.

His friends began circulating a petition to get additional judges' signatures and thus to overcome the quorum objection.

Meanwhile the crime commission cited Meyering's record as sheriff as proof of his inefficiency as an administrator. Yesterday, Col. Chamberlin questioned the propriety of Judge Kelly's sponsorship of a friend and political ally to succeed Houston.

"Judge Kelly," Col. Chamberlin declared, "is a soft hearted judge. He sat in the Criminal court in 1931 and 1932 and in his 18 months' service there he granted probation to more than 200 criminals. The crime commission had many occasions to protest against Judge Kelly's leniency.

Criticizes Use of Discretion.

"Many of Judge Kelly's probationers committed new and more vicious crimes within a few days or weeks after Judge Kelly set them free. The state's attorney was forced to contest several of Judge Kelly's actions and all law enforcing agencies sighed with relief when Judge Kelly went back to the civil courts.

"Now Judge Kelly who—shall we say?—erred on the side of mercy, wishes to place his friend Meyering, whose lax discipline, inattention to duty, and general inefficiency resulted in many jail scandals, in charge of supervision of criminals who are given another chance to rob and slay. The other judges should take steps this week to revoke the Meyering appointment."

HUNT WEEK-END BURGLAR ABOUT 60 STORY TOWER

New York, Jan. 26.—(AP)—The towering Woolworth building was a besieged castle tonight in one of the strangest manhunts of Manhattan.

Sought somewhere in the underground sub-floors, or through the hundreds of offices making a city of many turnings for 60 stories, was a burglar and gunman.

Shortly after noon the burglar beat and shot Tony Petrone, 61 year old watchman, who surprised him on the seventh floor.

After nightfall the first search of the building was finally completed, and a second floor by floor hunt began. Sixty policemen, one on each floor, and 25 detectives, were posted for an all night vigil.

Search of offices indicated many had been rifled and that the burglar was making a leisurely week-end job of it. A lunch was found on one of the floors.

Parts of Woman's Body Found on Rubbish Pile

Cleveland, O., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Dismembered parts of the body of a white woman, probably between 30 and 35 years of age, were found today on a rubbish pile in the colored section of the east side.

DEMAND INQUIRY INTO SHOOTING OF PRISONER

Birmingham, Ala., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Hundreds of protests were received today by Alabama authorities from individuals and organizations against the wounding of a colored defendant in the Scottsboro case during an encounter with a deputy sherif.

One telegram was signed by Representative Arthur Mitchell of Illinois, only colored member of congress, expressing hope for a "thorough" investigation of the affair in which Ozie Powell was shot in his head and Deputy Edgar Blalock knifed in his neck.

Telegrams to Gov. Bibb Graves demanded impeachment of Judge W. W. Callahan, presiding at the latest proceedings in the case at Decatur, Ala., and Sherif J. Street Sandlin who fired a bullet into Powell's brain after he allegedly slashed Blalock.

Powell is in a serious condition at the county hospital here and Blalock is at his home with a six inch cut across his throat. They were wounded Friday as the nine defendants were being transferred here from Decatur pending resumption of their trials on charges of having raped two white women.

$75,000 OF DRAKE DONATIONS TO BE IN COURT TODAY

Money which promoters dispatched for England ostensibly for use in recovering the fabulous estate of Sir Francis Drake, but which was seized and impounded by government officials, will be produced in the federal court today on orders of Judge Philip L. Sullivan as the Drake mail fraud hearing is resumed. The money, totaling $75,000, was included in several express shipments from various parts of the country.

Defense Attorneys Edward J. Hess and George M. Crane announced they would seek an order from Judge Sullivan to release the impounded money to the owners. They declare that twenty Drake estate defendants who were discharged by the court last week own a part of the money.

Twenty-one other defendants remain on trial, including Oscar M. Hartzell, central figure in the Drake estate case, who was sent to the federal penitentiary for ten years on similar fraud charges. The defense witnesses are expected to occupy the stand throughout the week.

The Revival of an American Tradition

★ Americans are home-seekers. Down through the years—the early colonists, the pioneers trekking across the western prairies, even the development of our modern metropolitan centers—always the establishment of a home has been an ultimate objective. It has become an American tradition.

An impulse so deep-set in the heart of the American family as is the desire for a home, cannot long be checked by even a great economic upheaval. A business depression, no matter how severe, is only a momentary interruption in the American procession toward the comfort and security of home life.

Today all over this country the procession has started again, after almost a decade of interruption. The hearthstones now being laid throughout Chicagoland not only typify this native desire to create a home, but also indicate the diversity of this great residential area where desirable living conditions and attractive homesites of all sorts can be found.

For the metropolitan Chicago area holds everything the home-maker is looking for. Whether a suburban city close to Chicago's business center, a countryside community more removed from the city but with all the city's conveniences—whether a country estate, a farm under cultivation, or a home in one of the thriving downstate communities—whatever the ideal in the home-seeker's mind, it is to be found here.

Having served much of this widespread homeland with electricity and gas for a quarter of a century, our Company takes a natural interest in the home development that has only lately been resumed. This interest is obviously based both on the prospect of serving an increasing number of customers, and on a desire to assist in bringing to the attention of home-builders something of the new comforts and conveniences which modern science and engineering have developed while building, itself, has been dormant.

If you are contemplating a home in the attractive residential area served by this Company, give us a chance to help you in planning for your electric or gas service requirements. We can also give you practical cost estimates—perhaps helpful ideas—on other features of modern homes: automatic heating—insulation—air conditioning—electric kitchens—modern laundries and basement recreation rooms—latest lighting and wiring improvements and other conveniences that increase the comfort of living. We will be glad to consult with you, your architect or your contractor. Inquire at any of our offices, or write—

Winter Club's Ice Carnival Next Saturday

150 Lake Forest Children Prepare to Compete.

BY JUDITH CASS.

WHATEVER their elders may think about the cold weather, Lake Forest boys and girls are hoping that the mercury will remain down around zero at least until after this coming Saturday, for the annual carnival is being held that afternoon at the Winter club.

Most of the 150 children who will take part will be busy all week getting ready their costumes for the event, if possible making their own in order to be eligible for one of the dozen ribbon awards to be given for the most original.

The more adept of the young skaters are looking forward to figure skating contests which will bring loving cups to the best junior skater, not older than 9 years, and the best skater aged 10 to 13. Donald B. Douglas and Laurence B. Robbins, members of the Winter club's skating committee and themselves expert skaters, will judge the events with Mrs. John F. Jelke, one of the best women skaters at the club.

Chariot Race to Be Grand Finale of Carnival.

There will be ten race events each for boys and girls of various ages, culminating in the chariot race, the traditional grand finale of all carnivals at the Winter club.

Around the 220 yard oval course will speed the Mickey Mouse chariot, the Minnie Mouse chariot, and the Claribelle Cow chariot, each pulled by two of the best older boy skaters, with a girl driver. Dick Mechem, Wilson Jacques, Douglas Blossom, George Isham, Donald Cottrell, and Dickie Stevenson will be the Arabian steeds, and Ann Carpenter, Betsy Cowles, and Debby Smith the charioteers.

By the time the hour and a half carnival is over the children and the hundreds of parents, who always are spectators, will be more than ready for the hot chocolate and wafers that Harold Sweeney, the club director, always provides on these occasions. He and David Jungberg, the skating professional, are running off the carnival with Mr. Douglas and Mr. Robbins.

Jane Lucey Engaged to Wed Philadelphian.

Several interesting engagements were made known over the week-end. The guests who assembled for luncheon Saturday in the apartment of Mrs. John J. Schreiner, the former Mary MacCaughey, heard with pleasure that Miss Jane Lucey, for whom Mrs. Schreiner was entertaining, is engaged to John B. Daily of Philadelphia. Mr. Daily, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. N. Daily of Philadelphia, came to Chicago to spend the week-end as a guest of his fiancée and her mother, Mrs. John J. Lucey of 3100 Sheridan road.

Miss Lucey attended the Girls' Latin school and the University School for Girls and has been an active member of the Service club. She was elected a member of the board of that organization at a recent meeting. Mr. Daily is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania. He and Miss Lucey became acquainted when she was visiting in Philadelphia last June, and before June comes around again Miss Lucey will be at home in Philadelphia as Mrs. Daily. The wedding will take place soon after Easter.

At another luncheon Saturday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Percy H. Myers in Evanston, other guests heard with interest the announcement that Mr. and Mrs. Myers made of the engagement of their daughter, Ruth, to Richard W. Branigar, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey W. Branigar of Highland Park.

Miss Dorothy Jane Orr and her fiance, Elmer Horace Cook II.

MR. AND MRS. CAREY ORR announced Saturday night the engagement of their daughter, Dorothy Jane, to Elmer Horace Cook II., son of Mrs. Elmer Horace Cook of Cheyenne, Wyo. The announcement was made at a dinner party in the Orrs' home at 225 Woodbine avenue, Wilmette, Ill. It came as a surprise to the young guests assembled, for the party supposedly was being given for Miss Sunny Vilas of Cleveland, O., Miss Orr's house-guest. Miss Vilas and Miss Orr were graduated last June from the Ogontz school.

Mr. Cook attended Dartmouth college and the University of Colorado, and now is in his senior year at the Northwestern School of Commerce. He is a member of the Phi Kappa Psi fraternity. The wedding will take place in the summer.

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

A MAN named Charles Netzorg bought a pair of earmuffs when the cold snap looked as if it were going to last awhile. That evening about 6:30 after the stores were closed he was approached by a young fellow outside the Stevens hotel who tried to buy them—right off his ears. First he offered 50 cents. Then he upped it to a dollar. Mr. Netzorg would not sell, although they had cost him only 35 cents. The other fellow was from Texas.

* *

IT is pretty exciting—if you can get your mind off the suffering the cold weather has been causing, to realize that in these effete times, in a big city, the temperature still has the guts to go to twenty below zero. Makes you feel like a pioneer, or even a little savage. As if you could gnaw on a big bone, if you wanted to, or carry somebody off, or go about in skins with a club in your hand.

* *

MENTION of pioneers brings to mind that an item coming up in the Chicago Book and Art Auctions sale tomorrow and Wednesday evenings is a letter written by John Kinzie, Feb. 24, 1821. His letter is in ink, and on the back of the same page is one written in pencil by Mrs. Kinzie. They are to their nephew, Thomas Forsythe in Fort Wayne, and refer to the marriage of their cousin Maria to Mr. Kercheval.

"The number of marriages that have taken place lately has turned the heads of all our bachelors of this place," the letter reads. "Two or three propose to go on to Detroit by Fort Wayne to try their luck. Young ladies are a scarce article here and none to be found. . . . My stock of sheep is increasing fast and we have industrious people here, but cannot work for lack of tools."

* *

AND now, as February, 1936, approaches, some 115 years later, there are plenty of tools, but a shortage of work, and the newspapers are making public count of the few bachelors. How incredulous Mr. Kinzie would have been had he been told a time would come when farmers would be paid for not growing grain and not raising live stock.

* *

A WHEATON lady commented to her Dodsworth last Sunday morning at breakfast that she guessed she would go to see Nazimova in "Ghosts" this weekend, before it closed.

"Is it a good mystery play? If it is I'll go with you," he replied, looking up from his paper.

Gaar Williams' Cartoons Best of Hoosier Art

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The twelfth annual Hoosier salon opens today in the Marshall Field galleries. The most interesting feature of the exhibition is the room devoted to the cartoons of Gaar Williams, TRIBUNE cartoonist, whose sudden death last June lost the country one of its most brilliant and popular artists. The group of cartoons shown was chosen from an enormous total; Mr. Williams' genius was as prolific as it was unique.

One finds many old friends among the sketches, and welcomes Mort Green and his spouse, the bridge ladies, the dancing and swimming couples of 1900 and countless escapades in which youth has age at its mercy. Nor do modern inventions find themselves in the cold. One of the cleverest pictures shows a stout woman doing her exercises to radio and snapping at her husband, still buried in blankets, "Was that you laughing?" when, one conjectures, static upset the rhythm of the announcer's smooth commands.

There are many paintings in the Hoosier salon, but for some reason the show leaves one cold. It lacks fire and sparkle. Are the painters in a rut or do we expect more than they can give? The average is fair of pleasant canvases, but if you want more than mediocre painting you will have to go elsewhere. Nothing great storms your senses. Nothing unusual plunges you into enthusiasm.

Among the attractive canvases are "A Seattle Dock," by Edgar Forkner, "Wintry Road," by Dale Bessire, "Betty," by Othmar Hoffler, "The Alley," by Lucie Hartrath, "Run-away Brook," by Georges LaChance, "Morning Light," by Edward K. Williams and "A Dune Meadow," by Frank V. Dudley.

Marques Reitzel shows a vigorous scene of horses plowing in "Behind the Loaf" and "Salt of the Earth," by Robert R. Fink, is entertaining in much the same manner that Grant Wood's "American Gothic" entertains. A little group of three paintings by William Forsyth was invited and is hung in a tiny room apart. The death of Mr. Forsyth this year gives the group a sentimental value. Mention should be made of the canvas by L. O. Griffith, "Drifting Leaves," decorative and fine. The etchings by Lee Sturges are of importance and there are several colorful and attractive water colors. C. Warner Williams and David Brcin contribute interesting sculpture. The prizes were wisely distributed.

The exhibition will continue to Feb. 8.

And Now the Music Will Go Around and 'Round in a Movie

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—The "fish horn" which came out of a Brooklyn pawn shop to tickle the musical imagination of the nation arrived here today with its owners to fulfill a film contract.

The pair expressed apprehension over the effect of California climate on the horn and its celebrated valves.

The composers and their Onyx club orchestra will immediately start work on the film "The Music Goes Round" for Columbia, which will star Harry Richman and Rochelle Hudson.

Linda Terry of Chicago arrived here today in search of a screen career. Already an experienced stage actress, she will spend several months under the coaching of Mrs. Patrick Campbell before she attempts a film rôle. Miss Terry played lead rôles at the Minturn and Goodman theaters in Chicago.

When the "Miss Model America" contest is held here this week under the auspices of a national manufacturing association, Chicago will be represented by Miss Marjorie Stanley. She arrived here today and will compete with five other regional winners for the title. Chief prize to be awarded is a Twentieth Century-Fox film contract.

Dinner Clothes the Smartest in Many a Moon

Ensembles Are Tailored, Sleek Affairs.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Down to dinner dressed in real honest-to-goodness dinner clothes, costumes and ensembles that are just as sleek and tailored as the kind your big brother wears when he sallies forth at night to conquer and impress.

These dinner clothes are the most exciting new way of being different as well as on dress parade that has been thought of in years. Long skirts that cling and slither round your ankles and then slit for freedom when you dance . . . absurdly short, but O, so smart, fitted jackets that just reach the hipline, having long fitted sleeves or a collar line exactly copied from a man's dinner jacket.

What fun to wear these distinguished looking costumes. They make you fresh, young, and dashing. You'll find deep midnight blue affairs cut superbly, with high front necklines to the dress, with sharply cut and gouged out backlines, with a simple skirtline, some of them frosted with bits of spanking white, others all in the dark with just the long beautiful tailored streamlines to make all turn and admire.

The jacket racket is really going good, and when you top such a stunning dress with any of the fitted perky jackets you'll be as well turned out as your escort.

Dull crêpe and dull sheened satin are the best buys so far, but any one with half a gift of second sight can imagine what fun we'll have with similar dinner tailleurs in net, starched lace, and other filmy fabrics in the summer to come.

White piqué still is a stunning contrast for these black and midnight blue outfits, fashioning the swanky tailored neck bow in front and dashing down the back in a pair of pointed revers. White soutache braid makes big flowers for a front line jabot in another. But hustle down to town and look them over before the big rush!

Woman's Club Hears Federation Leaders on Welfare Today

The Chicago Woman's club will hold an all day open forum on public welfare today in Zeisler hall of the club, 72 East 11th street. Speakers at the morning session, beginning at 11 o'clock, will include Mrs. Willis Graham, Mrs. E. E. Byerrum, Mrs. Morey Roberts, Mrs. Clifton K. Timmons, respectively chairmen of public safety, civil service, public welfare and law observance of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Mabel Reinecke, a member of the board of election commissioners of the city, and Mrs. Wilbur E. Fribley, president of the Housewives' league. After luncheon Mrs. Walter W. Seymour, second vice president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, will talk on "The Lights Along the Shore."

Flattering New Bonnet

From a Chicago collection of new hats—the most flattering of new models, the softly draped corded silk pulled 'way down over the eye and then trimmed with a many colored wreath of spring flowers. It is gay, flattering, and kind to any facelines.

Good Morning!

Bebe Daniels and Ben Lyon are the bright spot on the Oriental's current bill. It's Mr. Collins' business to write about the people on the stage, so I'll let him talk to you about the activities of the visiting Hollywood couple. Anyway, they ARE the bright spot . . .!

The picture isn't much.

You will find "Stars Over Broadway" a hybrid "musical." It has a grand opera nose, night club eyes, tin pan alley forehead, a weak little radio chin, and a scenario body that suffers from rickets, bespeaking indecision and unoriginality.

The players are able ones. If you want a good look at the popular radio stars, Jane Froman and James Melton, these handsome young people are much in evidence, rendering melodiously the unremarkable numbers that fall to their lot. Mr. Melton sings a couple of operatic selections in a manner I feel sure Mr. Barry would approve of.

The picture may not be awfully long, but the fact that it seems that way makes it so. Doesn't it?

Famed Colored Singer Charms Audience Here

Marian Anderson Brings Drama to Auditorium.

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The old Auditorium saw drama last night as intense in its way as any that filled the stage in the days of its operatic glory.

About 8:40 a Chicago that had never seen Marian Anderson before watched the curtain rise to reveal a gracious young Negress standing beside the grand piano. A few moments later a voice that ranks with the first of the world broke the theater's excited and expectant hush.

Too many people have ruinously depleted their store of adjectives trying to describe Marian Anderson. Therefore the following paragraphs will attempt as calmly as possible to suggest the reasons behind her immense European [and more recently, American] triumphs.

Her voice has a dark splendor about it, a quality of artless strength and depth. Its production is easy and relaxed for the most part, except where the dramatic qualities of a song call for other treatment.

Miss Anderson classifies as a contralto, but she invades the territory of the mezzo without difficulty. The timbre of her voice is as she wills, for the variety of coloring should amaze the most hardened concertgoer.

The voice is extremely flexible, capable of sustained power one moment, daintiness and delicacy the next. There are sincerity and selflessness in her interpretation, that rare ability to live for the while in music, to be the "I" of the song rather than a mere narrator or impersonator.

Miss Anderson's manner before her audience is charming. Despite four years of adulation in Europe and two successful recitals in New York she is still able to take girlish and surprised delight in the idea that her efforts to please have been successful. If this impression that she gives is not genuine then Marian Anderson is as great an actress as she is a singer.

The Schubert group included the light and delicate "Liebesbotschaft," sung with finish and restrained humor, and the dignity and confidence of the Ave Maria. In very serious music Miss Anderson has the faculty of including herself and her hearers in an aura of rapture and mysticism. Other examples of the same kind came in the group of Negro spirituals further down.

A bravo to Northwestern university for the brilliant idea of bringing her here to close [and in a sense, climax] its long series of downtown concerts and recitals in the "History and Enjoyment of Music" course.

Josef Hofmann played a program of generous length at the Studebaker theater yesterday afternoon, and presented in its course two standard works of considerable size and importance. One was the Sonata in A-flat major, opus 110, of Beethoven; the other the complete set of Chopin Preludes, opus 28.

First rate pianists have sprung up luxuriantly in the soil of post-war Europe, but one wonders whether the interpretation of this particular sonata could be bettered by any living man. Twenty years ago—even

I'll Never Tell

By Roy Vickers

SYNOPSIS.

Torrance Radale, young Englishwoman, asks her American employer, Haviland Massiter, to give Gerald Saranack, her childhood sweetheart, an engineering job in Mexico. Then Torrance learns that Gerald has married an English girl in Spain. She secretly gains entrance to Hillfoot, the home of Gerald's Uncle Julius, to retrieve a letter. She hears voices, hides, and watches as a girl secretes some jewels behind a brick in the fireplace. When the girl and her companion leave Torrance calls the police, then leaves, not wishing to explain her presence. When Gerald brings his bride to see her next day she recognizes Annabelle, his wife, as the same girl she had seen in Uncle Julius' house and at the hour it was later discovered Uncle Julius was murdered, though Annabelle and Gerald were supposed to have been in Paris. Gerald confesses to Torrance he still loves her, but he thinks Annabelle needs his protection. Torrance confides in Massiter, who unearths a motive for the crime. In his youth Julius Saranack befriended John Allister. Later Allister grew enormously wealthy through Mexican mines and made a will leaving everything to Uncle Julius. Massiter and Torrance fly to Paris, where Allister resides. There Torrance is followed by a rat-faced man with a falsetto voice and huge hands. They discover Allister has also been murdered. Torrance rushes back to warn Gerald who is next in line to inherit the fortune. She accepts an invitation to stay at Hillfoot.

INSTALMENT XIX.

BAD LUCK!

"I'm ignoring all personal considerations," Gerald said slowly and then chuckled. "I'm ready to assume, for the sake of argument, that Annabelle is—anything you like. But for this little horror—the timing is all wrong."

"You mean Paris—?"

"I mean Spain. An elaborate job like that—you couldn't fix it all in a few days. It would mean weeks, months, quite possibly years of preparation. And on top of it you have the amazing coincidence of Annabelle happening to run across me in Spain."

"But did it happen? How do you know she didn't trail you?"

"I know she didn't. I know she'd been governess to an American family. When I met her she was almost on her beam ends. She had walked out on them after they had insulted her or something."

"That's what she told you."

"I verified it. O, I fell flat for Annabelle—but I knew I was falling flat! And I was a bit careful. She had left behind an album of photographs with the Vanderlems. I went to dig it out for her. I saw Mrs. Vanderlem—he was out—she was rather common but very nice. She was sorry Annabelle had walked out and told me all about her. There was some money due to her, which she made me accept. Mrs. Vanderlem had been an Englishwoman. They were going to London in a few days, she told me. And

I promised to ring them up and bring Annabelle along and make friends. And I shall have to do it, too. So much, my dear, for the elaborate plot!"

"You don't believe a word of it!" she murmured.

"Exactly!"

She had no proof. To tell him that she thought she saw Annabelle from behind the curtain and adding that she was no longer sure would merely exasperate him.

"We've got to watch ourselves, Torrance. When you began to tell me that yarn I admit that for a moment I hoped to heaven you were right. It may be pretty base but there you are. If Annabelle were a crook there would be no need for us to consider her. You and I could elope."

Annabelle had the unexpected gift of being bright at breakfast. She was chirping away to Torrance when Gerald came in late and, with a grumpy apology, tackled his letters.

"Any bad news, Gerald darling?" asked Annabelle.

"Not bad news," he said presently and passed the letter to Annabelle. "You'd better read it aloud, dear, for Torrance's benefit."

Torrance did not listen, because already she knew what the letter contained. There was mention of Prof. Ardus Ellister having died in Paris and a vague phrase about an estate of considerable magnitude which might or might not eventually become part of Gerald's inheritance.

"Then I congratulate you both," said Torrance and felt that she said it very badly. Annabelle, who was so good at this kind of thing, would probably detect the amateurishness.

"O, don't—it's bad luck!" protested Annabelle. "It isn't certain yet, you see. He only says it may be. But how wonderful if a lot of money were to come to us, Gerald! We'd take Torrance round the world, wouldn't we darling?"

Torrance felt Gerald's eyes on her but would not meet his.

"That's counting the chickens. I think I'd better go and see Vackery this afternoon about this."

"I'll come up with you," said Annabelle. "I must buy a few clothes and have my hair done if Torrance doesn't mind. I shan't be able to get that letter out of my head all day. It must be so wonderful to be rich. But I do think they might have kept it quiet until they were quite certain. We'll go after lunch and be back to dinner."

There was nothing amateurish about that—just the right note of excitement. Or a half-refusal to take the good news seriously. Or was it perfectly genuine? Torrance asked herself.

"I'm simply determined to put the whole thing out of my mind," sighed Annabelle. "And you two must do the same. I must remember to tell cook we shall be out for tea."

"Why not let me take over the housekeeping while I'm here?" suggested Torrance. She was glad when Annabelle agreed for she was afraid that her pretence of helping might wear thin.

Torrance began upon her self-imposed duties at once. She went to the kitchen and had a chat with the cook. Ending up in the scullery, she stepped into the garden. Gerald was on the other side of the lawn waiting for her.

They strolled through the kitchen garden.

"That letter from Vackery this morning—it has happened pretty quickly, hasn't it!" he remarked.

Torrance was on guard.

"Doesn't it seem to give a little background to what I said last night?"

"I didn't doubt that part of it."

"I suppose those marriage settlements are water-tight, Gerald?" she asked.

"I'll ask Vackery. But I'm pretty sure they are. You see, they definitly speak of any money that either of us may inherit."

"Then as it stands you and she together have the interest on all the money that will come through Prof. Ellister. And if you were to die she would have the lot—and control of the capital?"

"Yes—but look here, Torrance! I spent the greater part of the night thinking it out. It's just impossible to link Annabelle up with any kind of plot. Don't forget the Vanderlems."

"I haven't forgotten them. But they may have gone back to America by now."

"O rot! They told me they would stay at the Burlington Palace and made me write it down. There's nothing fishy about them."

She turned away from him. There was the housework to be supervised.

They had an early lunch and by two o'clock Torrance was alone. She found herself roaming over the house. She stood alone in the room where Uncle Julius had been killed. She stared hard at his chair, seemed to see him bending over the uncut stones. Then a quick movement behind the curtain as the rat-faced man emerged.

She shut the door and slammed it violently. She went downstairs—instinctively groping—as Annabelle must have groped that night, with the rat-faced man behind her.

Then Torrance slipped into the dining room.

"I couldn't have seen clearly from behind the curtains. Besides I was excited. It must have been any slender, smallish woman with nice hands and a general girlishness. And, of course, the next morning, seeing a slender, smallish woman with nice hands, and wanting to think the worst of the woman who had married Gerald, I thought it was Annabelle."

Also in Evanston on Saturday at a small luncheon party in their home, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Carter Walker announced the engagement of their daughter, Elisabeth, to Allan Wylie Walter, son of Mrs. Hart Edgar Walter of Evanston. Miss Walker is a graduate of Wells college, and her fiancé is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin and of the Harvard School of Business Administration.

Yet another engagement announced over the week-end is that of Miss Eleanor Berger, the well known figure skater, daughter of Robert O. Berger of Kenilworth, who will marry Eduardo Hellmund of Kansas City, grandson of Gen. Paez, first president of Venezuela.

Miss Berger is a graduate of the Knox school in Cooperstown, N. Y. Her fiancé, who was born in Venezuela, was educated at the Sorbonne and at Oxford university.

The excitement of a first winter out with all of its parties and gayeties has not been enough for one of the past season's debutantes, Miss Patricia Forsyth Kelly, who is going on to things even more exciting. Miss Kelly, daughter of the George Arthur Kellys, went down to Daytona Beach, Fla., shortly after Jan. 1, supposedly for a rest, but word has come from our Daytona Beach correspondent that she has made a debut again, this time as a blues singer. She sang for the first time professionally last Friday night in the Jungle room of the Clarendon hotel at Daytona Beach. After a limited engagement at the Clarendon Miss Kelly is going to New York to appear at several cafés. Miss Kelly is with her mother in Florida.

Spring Ball to Aid Infant Welfare.

"The golden goose that laid the golden egg for infant welfare" has lent its name to the Kenwood Social Service club's annual spring benefit for the Infant Welfare Society of Chicago, which will be held at the Palmer house on April 18, and which will be called "The Golden Goose ball." The Golden Goose is the new name for the club's thrift shop at 1465 East 55th street, which is an all year round source of income for the club and the infant welfare station it supports.

"The Golden Goose ball" comes on the first Saturday after Easter and consequently will be one of the first charitable affairs of the spring season, for there usually are no large parties during Lent. Mrs. Frederick Herendeen is chairman of the benefit, which is to be a supper dance, and members of the club's junior auxiliary will take part in a fashion show which is to be one feature of the evening's entertainment.

The Oak Park junior board of the Northwestern university settlement has made plans to give a benefit dinner-dance on Saturday night, Feb. 15, at the Monte Cristo restaurant. Mrs. James Carey is chairman of the dance committee. Assisting her are Mrs. Frank Raff, president of the junior board; Mrs. Charles E. Cessna Jr., Mrs. Irvin Houck, Mrs. David Rees Jones, and Mrs. J. J. Flynn.

Woman's Athletic Club to Have Musical Program.

The Woman's Athletic club quite often is treated to a musical program by a member for there are a great many talented musicians in the membership. Mrs. William Sherman Hay is the latest to be announced as an artist at one of the Thursday morning programs and next week she will play first violin in a program to be presented by a quintet that will include Mrs. Raymond Cook at the piano, Herman Felber Jr., playing second violin; Armand Roth, the viola, and Theodore du Moulin, the 'cello. The program will start at 11 o'clock and each member may invite three guests.

Mrs. C. Frederick Childs, Mrs. Paul Walker and Mrs. Frederic W. Upham will be among the interested members in the audience when Dr. Nathan S. Davis III., addresses the central council for nursing education this afternoon at its annual meeting at the Cook County School of Nursing. Dr. Davis' topic will be "The Cook County School of Nursing—Its Organization and Control." Tea will be served afterward.

Equestrian Association Plans Large Party.

The largest party to be given on the evening of the Yale-Army polo game, which will be played here on Thursday, will be one at the Hotel Sherman, where the Chicago Equestrian association will take over the College Inn for a Plush Horse party. The association has been rather quiet during the depression years, but until a few years ago it gave several gay affairs each year.

The Plush Horse party is to be a dinner-dance with dancing throughout the evening, and about 200 reservations are expected. The guests who will want to attend the polo game will leave the Sherman in time to go to the 124th Field Artillery armory, where the match is to be played, and then return later to the party. The officers who will play against Yale also are expected at the Plush Horse party.

Frank Bering is chairman of the committee in charge of the party, with Frank J. Fox, the new president of the association; Charles B. Goes Jr., Herbert J. Lorber, and Isaac Stiefel assisting him. The inn will be decorated with saddles, bridles, blankets, and other horsy equipment.

BY MARY MEADE.

Although 1936 marks the centenary of their independence from Mexico, Texans never have succeeded in emancipating themselves from its culinary influence. They don't want to! Centennial visitors will be pretty certain to understand what enslaves them so happily—it's chili!

We needn't tell you that chili con carne has invaded the no'th. Now that it's available in homemade or canned form, maybe we'll learn to make it a main dish, as it deserves to be.

Here's another idea for the Mexican born meal—a boiled dinner! This combination is one you're going to warm to as much for its esthetic possibilities as for its just-fiery-enough taste.

Mexican Boiled Dinner.

[Serves Four.]

4 small carrots
4 medium onions
1 small cauliflower
Salt, bacon drippings
Green pepper
Tomato slices
1 No. 2 can chili con carne

Cook the vegetables in boiling water until tender. Season with bacon drippings [or butter] and salt. Arrange, garnished with sliced tomatoes and green pepper rings, around the outside of a hot platter. Pour the heated chili con carne into the center—and you have a whole meal on one plate!

"Chili mac" is a hashhouse specialty that might well be elevated to anybody's home dining table. A half package of macaroni for this [call it Macarron y Chili Con Carne if that increases its charm] to start. Cook the macaroni in boiling salted water until tender, rinse it under hot water, drain well, and turn onto a hot platter. Pour a No. 2 can of heated chili con carne over the top and sprinkle with about a fourth cup of grated cheese.

Friendship Daisy.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Like "Friendship Ring," "Friendship Dahlia," and various other friendship blocks, "Friendship Daisy" is composed of a variety of prints. In days of old, the prints were exchanged, hence the name "friendship" given to the block. Modern quilt makers do not depend upon their neighbors but rather upon their storekeepers for the entire selection of prints. The border of "Friendship Daisy" is in a solid color, surrounded by a narrower border of figured daisy petals.

For a limited period Nancy Cabot offers 10 quilt patterns of her own choice at a price of 10 cents for the group (12 cents by mail). Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices: One South Dearborn street, or Tribune Tower.

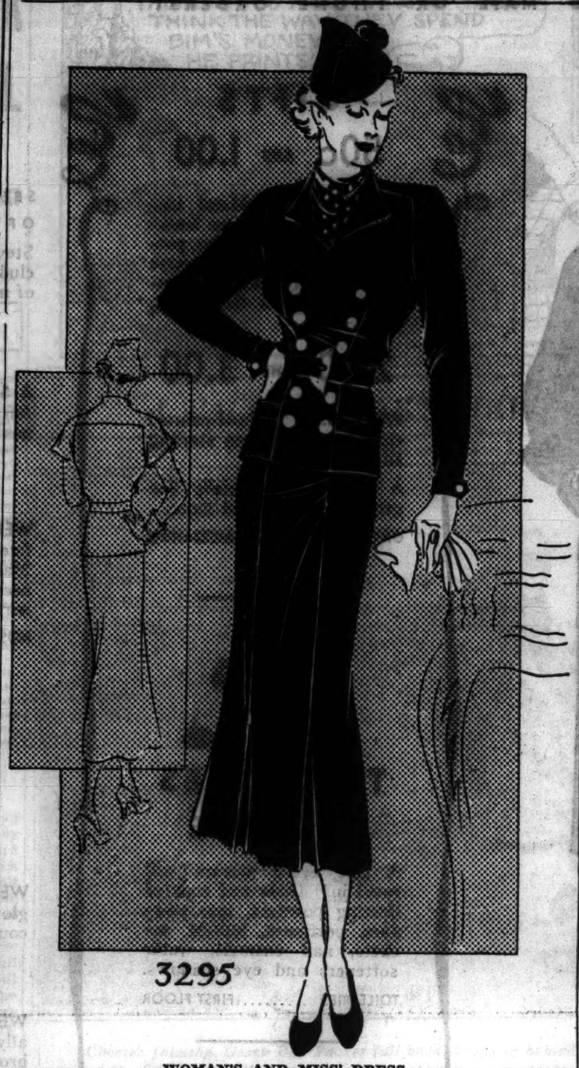
Frock with Lines of Suit



WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

This youthful two piece frock has the appearance of a suit and much of its utility. It's an ideal fashion for spring, and one which may be worn now under your heavy coat. It lends itself to a variety of fabrics, your choice depending upon the season during which you wish to wear it most. Its boxy lines are decidedly military. The shoulders are the distinctive and flattering saddle type.

The original of this frock is created in postman blue fabric. Nickle buttons parade in double-breasted effect down the front. A gay scarf lends charm to the neckline with pert revers.

Sheer woolen in dark shades would be ideal for late winter and early spring. For warmer weather you may wish to make this frock of crêpe silk print, with short sleeves.

Pattern No. 3295 is designed for sizes 14, 16, and 18 years, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 4⅛ yards of 39 inch material.

forty years ago—Hofmann was dazzling audiences with the cleanness and finish of his playing. Now, with a technique as reliable as ever, he may prefer to leave bravura to men less tired of its sparkle and explore a lonely path through the half-lit world of Beethoven's third period.

It is an austere world, all gray and dull gold. There is a secret and incommunicable confidence in its serenity, a sense of wide vistas dark to young eyes in its rare merriment. If Beethoven saw peace and order and hope in the blackness about him, the knowledge he wrested from his bitter world lies hidden in the cabala of his last works.

Hofmann played the magnificent sonata quietly, letting Beethoven speak directly across a hundred years of time to those who through age or experience could meet him on common ground. For the rest it was excellent music and distinguished interpretation.

In the twenty-four vignettes which Chopin [in despair for a name probably] called preludes, the pianist did not unbend as completely as he might easily have done. He deliberately eschews one opportunity after another for extremely voluptuous effects.

There is much to be said for a school of pianism whose first care is to bring to a listener a composer as he is and his music as he wrote it. Hofmann's austerity extends even to Chopin. He made of none of the preludes an exhibition of sheer virtuosity, not even the tempting one in B-flat minor which has been played with more brilliance but not more expressiveness from that very stage. Neither did he sentimentalize the B-flat major, although the urge to make of this late chapter a little rest period must be an overwhelming one in a lesser pianist.

The Civic orchestra of Chicago played the first concert of its seventeenth season at Orchestra hall yesterday. This is the organization which is maintained in connection with the Chicago Symphony orchestra and which is under the direct tutelage of its associate conductor, Eric DeLamarter. It is a remarkable training ground for young men who later take their place in the ranks of many of the prominent orchestras of the country—but more about this soon on the music page of the Sunday paper.

Eric DeLamarter conducted only the first number yesterday. Albert Goldberg took the Schumann Symphony, George Henry his own creditable Toccata and Fugue, and Clarence Evans the remainder of the program. Mr. Evans is assistant to Mr. DeLamarter, who has just recovered from a long and severe illness.

Altrusa, Quota and Zonta Clubs to Meet Together

The Altrusa, Quota and Zonta clubs will hold their first joint meeting at 6:30 o'clock tomorrow evening at the Medinah club, 505 North Michigan avenue. After dinner Philip C. Lovejoy, first assistant secretary of Rotary International, will speak on "Dawn or Sunset."

According to CULBERTSON

REBIDS BY THE OPENING BIDDER.

If, in response to your opening one bid in a suit, your partner has bid only one no trump, you must remember that he may hold as little as one honor trick. With a minimum hand you usually should pass. With some added values you may rebid a rebiddable suit, or show a new biddable suit.

With a strong hand, or with 7 or 8 honor cards, you may raise your partner to two no trump if you have four honor tricks; with fewer playing tricks, you should have at least 4½ honor tricks. A raise by you to three no trump requires five honor tricks with 7 to 8 honor cards or with a strong suit; again, fewer playing tricks raise this requirement to 5½ honor tricks.

You have bid one heart; your partner's response was one no trump. If you hold the following hands, you should now:

Pass	Bid two hearts
♠ 5 2	♠ K 5
♥ A K 6 5 3	♥ A 10 8 7 5 2
♦ 8 7 4	♦ K J 10
♣ K 10 6	♣ 6 3
Bid two clubs	Bid two no trump
♠ 10 3	♠ K 6
♥ A Q 7 4	♥ A Q 10 7
♦ A J 4	♦ A J 4
♣ K J 8 5	♣ K J 8 5

A two no trump response by your partner is game forcing. You should rebid a rebiddable suit, or show a new biddable suit; failing these possibilities, you simply should raise to three no trump.

A Difficult Grand Slam Bid.

Intelligent use of the void-showing convention, coupled with shrewd calculation of percentages, enabled North and South to arrive at a virtually "cold" grand slam contract, unbiddable by any other method.

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 Club	Pass	3 Spades [1]	Pass
3 No trump [2]	Pass	4 Diamonds	Pass
4 Hearts [3]	Pass	6 Clubs	Pass
7 Clubs [4] [final bid].

Monday is Student day in Ely Culbertson's column. Write your bridge troubles and questions to him, care of The Tribune. Remember to inclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

[1] With a good fit in clubs and 2½ honor tricks, North makes the conventional void-showing bid—two more than necessary, in a new suit.

[2] South is embarrassed in finding the best response. He cannot rebid his four card club suit, and to bid hearts at the four level would require a biddable suit. He chooses the temporizing bid of three no trump.

[3] Showing the ace of hearts and inferring a singleton or the king of diamonds.

[4] Since North is void in spades, South can be sure that North holds a real diamond suit, most likely at least five long. South, therefore, can reasonably count on being able to discard his losing hearts.

The play of the hand was, of course, elementary. Three rounds of clubs disposed of the adverse trumps, and after the six diamonds were cashed, and the ace and king of hearts, South had a trump left with which to ruff North's only losing trick, the small heart.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: When a player redoubles a doubled bid, does it ever mean that he wants his partner to take him out?

Answer: No. Until 1935, a player who was doubled at one no trump could redouble, which meant that he wanted his partner to "rescue" him in a suit, but this proved an unsatisfactory method, and now when a player redoubles it means simply that he thinks he can make his bid.

Tomorrow's Hand

When Sisters Fall in Love with Him Young Man Faces Problem

BY DORIS BLAKE.

It's fairly tough on the young man when two girls in the family become interested in him and he knows which one he prefers. It happens frequently. Perhaps the young man will have met the older sister first. Then, when he claps eyes on a younger one, the latter is the one he likes. But extricating himself from association from the older sister calls for diplomacy of the first water in order that he may remain on friendly terms with number one.

We know of one solution managed by a boy. He had a friend to whom he introduced the older sister, eulogizing her to the skies beforehand and hinting just enough of his own interest in her to intrigue the man. This program went off with great success. But the plan may not work in every case. There may be no second man available to take care of the sister, or there may be one who does not fall for the girl.

Bitter enmity has been known to result from the younger sister's stealing the beau on the scene. But usually the bad feeling gets smoothed out in time. If the older sister is smart she will take it with grace and the understanding that love can't be ruled. Then, she'll be in a better frame of mind for the beau who is bound to come along, providing she entices with an amiable disposition.

The more diplomacy a young man can press into the decision the more amicable will be the girls' relations one toward the other.

Child Reflects the Attitude of His Parents

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Do your children respect your possessions and your feelings?

Do they ask before they take your special fountain pen or some of your formal stationery or read a letter obviously from some near relative? Do they respect the way you feel about certain things even though they may feel otherwise?

They probably do if you respect their possessions and their feelings. "What did Bob have to say in his letter?" or "Will you let me use your chair for a few days, sonny—mine's broken," or a complete silence after a disappointing telephone call will tend to make the children considerate toward your feelings and your possessions.

Perhaps, though, you don't show respect toward your children's possessions and toward them as people.

Perhaps you treat the beloved little truck as if it were nothing but a piece of molded steel.

If you sense the deep affection a child has for his possessions and treat them accordingly, you will find that his attitude is colored by yours.

And this applies equally to the more intangible things of life. Children's opinions, their likes, their dislikes, their feelings—everything that has importance to them or that they feel deeply should be treated with respect.

Besides its immediate value, this attitude on your part has the effect of giving children confidence in themselves in the early years when a laugh, a lack of consideration, or a condescending smile can make them wabble in their hardly-built-up confidence in themselves.

"Helping Your Child to Be Orderly" is the name of a fully written booklet, which is sent out on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Older Women Should Avoid False Lashes

Artifices Usually Ugly on Withered Lids.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Bringing up mamma in the beauty artifices sometimes has dangerous moments for mamma. Daughter, 16 years old, or thereabouts, appoints herself the well known critic, but not always the best friend. She is more apt to see with the eyes of youth what rightfully belongs to youth.

In certain ways it is good for the older woman to have this eagle eyed miss prodding mother into smartening up. But when daughter goes into her own field to gather the smartening props, daughter may be the wrong one. I speak particularly of false eyelashes, because of one mamma's capitulating to them at her young daughter's solicitation. Mamma is not the type for long streamers waving from the eyelids. Mamma couldn't be anything but the forthright person, no matter how she tried. Her eyes have the great beauty of fineness with character and sweetness filmed therein.

Many women have found these aids to sparsely furnished eyelids a blessing, and we're for them where they belong. But, as said, they do not belong on every eyelid. Indeed, a number of the women entitled to wear them because of their own scant endowment would do better not to try to emulate the screen star length. The lashes may be shortened to suit better the dignity of the wearer.

To answer a correspondent on this subject: The artificial eyelashes may be had in boxes of individual hairs to be put on one by one with tweezers. Also they may be had in rows the length of the eyelid with an invisible bit of material ready to be pasted on.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

We had a facial the other day that you might like to investigate for yourself, especially if you've reached the age when the neck isn't the firm white column the poets rave about nor the eyes the deep pools set in smooth, unwrinkled flesh.

In this facial—given at a Chicago salon—they concentrate on those two tell tale areas. First the skin of the neck is stimulated—a process most necks profit by since the flesh there is apt to get sluggish, then flabby and finally, to your undying sorrow, completely wrinkled and weary. After stimulation comes massage with a special cream for the neck—extremely rich—in which the skilful hands of the operator really get at the creepy throat situation. When she's finished with this you can feel pretty certain that that neckline of yours is closer to sculptured perfection than it's been since you were a babe in arms.

There is general facial massage, of course, with emphasis on the places where wrinkles are most apt to spring up or have already done their horrid blooming. But the eyes come in for wonderful attention—first with a special eye cream fingerprinted in below and across the lids and then with a gently stimulating device that "exercises" the flesh. This is excellent where the flesh is flabby.

As a final touch this facial ends with a spraying of a special gentle astringent—cool and fresh as mist. It tops your treatment off to perfection. You pay your money and depart with the comfortable assurance that you've done good guardianship duty to your contours and that you look swell.

What to Eat to Get Strength-Building Iodine Into Blood and Glands

Science Says Regular Ration of NATURAL IODINE Is Needed To Build Up Weak, Rundown, Skinny Folks—Give Them New Energy, Endurance and Pep!

If you are weak, skinny and rundown—if you go around always tired, nervous, irritable, easily upset, the chances are your blood is thin, pale and watery and lacks the nourishment needed to build up your strength, endurance and the solid pounds of new flesh you need to feel right. Science has at last got right down to the real trouble with these conditions and explains a new, quick way to correct them.

Food and medicines can't help you much. The average person usually eats enough of the right kind of food to sustain the body. The real trouble is assimilation, the body's process of converting digested food into firm flesh, pep and energy. Tiny hidden glands control this body building process—glands which require a regular ration of NATURAL IODINE (not the ordinary toxic chemical iodine, but the iodine that is found in tiny quantities in spinach, lettuce, etc.).

The simplest and quickest way to get this precious needed substance is Kelpamalt, the astonishing new mineral concentrate from the sea. Kelpamalt is 1300 times richer in iodine than oysters, hitherto considered the best source. With Kelpamalt's iodine, you quickly normalize your weight and strength building glands, promote assimilation, enrich the blood and build up a source of enduring strength. Kelpamalt, too, contains twelve other precious, vitally needed body minerals without which good digestion is impossible.

Try Kelpamalt for a single week. Notice how much better you feel, how well you sleep, how your appetite improves, color comes back into your cheeks. And if it doesn't add 5 lbs. of good solid flesh the first week, the trial is free. Kelpamalt costs but little.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 26.—Scoring on an 84 yard touchdown run by Full Back Ace Gutowsky in the third quarter and a dropkick by Dutch Clark in the fourth, the Detroit Lions, professional football champion, defeated the Green Bay Packers, 10 to 3, today.

The victory annexed the Pacific coast winter circuit to the football realm ruled by the Lions, who will represent their league against the College All-Stars under the auspices of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE at Soldiers' field in Chicago next September.

A capacity crowd of 22,000 saw the game on the powdery, sunburned turf of Gilmore stadium. The game was played in weather near 70 degrees and under a bright sun. Many of the spectators were in shirt sleeves.

Green Bay held a half time lead of 3 to 0 on Ad Schwammel's placement kick from the 30 yard line. Schwammel's field goal featured two quarters of fiercely fought line play in which the Packers capitalized on their closest approach to the champions' goal.

Penalty Helps Packers.

The Packers were aided in acquiring their 3 points by a penalty for interference on Frank Christensen when Alfred Rose, Green Bay end, tried to cut across the width of the gridiron to get in position for a pass. Ernie Caddel of Detroit intercepted the pass, but the penalty gave the ball to the Packers on Detroit's 28 yard line. Clark Hinkle went to the 18 yard line on two plays, but was thrown for a loss on the 23 yard line when John Schneller, Lions' end, broke through on the next play. Monnett also was stopped, then Schwammel kicked, with Joe Laws holding.

Detroit failed in its only scoring chance in the first half when Glenn Presnell tried a place kick from the 41 yard line. It fell short and Herber, Green Bay half back, ran it out to the 18 yard line after catching it on the goal line.

Ace Breaks Away.

Gutowsky made his run on the fifth play of the second half to give the titleholders a 7 to 3 lead. Dutch Clark drop kicked the extra point. Gutowsky took the ball on a reverse, circled his own left end behind G. Christensen, and outran Buckets Goldenberg, the Packers' safety man, to the goal.

Gutowsky made his dash on the first play after Caddel intercepted one of Herber's long passes from Green Bay's 45 yard line and was dumped heavily on his own 16 yard line.

The Lions threatened five minutes after Gutowsky's touchdown as Hinkle fumbled when hit by George Christianson on the Packers 21 yard line. G. Christensen recovered. Clark was stopped by Ernie Smith at the line. On the next play Clark tried a short forward pass over the line to Klewicki, which grounded. Caddel then tried to pass to Klewicki, but the ball bounced out of the end's hands on the one yard line into those of Grove, who ran it back to the 21 yard line. Neither team threatened during the remainder of the quarter.

Dutch Boots One.

Toward the close of the fourth quarter, Dutch Clark drop kicked a field goal from the 30 yard line on a Lion march of ten plays which covered 50 yards. The Lions took the ball when Frank Christensen intercepted Monnett's pass and ran it eight yards to the 35 yard line. Four first downs followed, featured by Clark's forward pass, from a dead run, to Ernie Caddel, for sixteen yards to the Packers' 15 yard line. Bruder, Michalske, and Schwammel smeared the next three plays for a loss of six yards, and Clark kicked on fourth down with sixteen to go.

Norway Takes Europe's Speed Skating Title

BY O'NEIL FARRELL.
[Coach of U. S. Olympics Skating Team.]
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OSLO, Norway, Jan. 26.—Ivar Ballangrud of Norway today won the European speed skating championship as he led his team to victory by a wide margin over the Japanese and United States Olympic entries and the pick of European stars.

It was Ballangrud's fourth championship and in achieving the feat he won two of the four races and finished well up in the 500 and 5,000 meter contests. Ballangrud scored a total of 189.956 points to take the individual title. Eddie Schroeder of Chicago, leading American skater, had a point total of 193.483 to finish seventh. The low score is adjudged the best.

Norwegians Fear Staleness.

The Norwegian team is at its peak, and with the Olympics still three weeks away fears it may go stale. The Americans are all bettering their performances every time they race.

The Oslo stadium was packed for the fourth time today to see the Americans. The ice proved good, but the weather was too cold for record time.

In today's two events, the 1,500 and 5,000 meter races, Schroeder was distanced, but led the American team. Ballangrud took the 1,500 meter in 2 minutes 19 seconds, while Schroeder finished in 2:22.

Steipl Wins 5,000 Meter Event.

Max Stiepl of Austria won the 5,000 meter event in the fast time of 8:20.7 while Schroder was seventh in 8:37.

Second in the 1,500 meter was Charles Mathiesen of Norway in 2:19.5 and Hans Engestangen, fourth, in 2:20. Stiepl was timed in 2:21.2.

Five Norwegian skaters trailed Stiepl in the 5,000 meter race, Edward Wangberg timed in 8:21.8; Mathiesen, 8:28; Ballanungrud, 8:28.9; Michael Staksrud, 8:36.4, and Haraldsen, 8:36.5. The Japanese skaters did not take part in this event.

Leo Freisinger, another Chicagoan, finished tenth in the 1,500 meter race in the time of 2:22.5; Bob Peterson of Milwaukee was 14th at 2:24.3; Delbert Lamb of Milwaukee was 16th in 2:26.6, and Allan Potts of Brooklyn was 17th in 2:26.9.

The other Americans finished far behind in the 5,000 meters. Lamb came in 15th in 8:54.5; Peterson, 17th, in 8:58.3, and Freisinger, 19th, in 9:00.

Freisinge was second among the Americans in point total with 196.133; Lamb's figure was 197.434, and Peterson's, 198.030.

INDIANS GET OUT WAR PAINT FOR GOLDEN GLOVES

Two Bands Will Fight in Sioux City Tourney.

BY FRENCH LANE.

It was bound to come sooner or later—Golden Gloves statistics being what they are—and here it is. Two bands of American Indians will fight in the sectional tournament at Sioux City, Ia., which opens on Feb. 4.

One of these teams comes from Winnebago, Neb., and the other from Flandreau, S. D.

"On the Indian team from South Dakota is a heavyweight that is exceptionally good" writes Dan Desmond, sports editor of the Sioux City Journal. "I really don't know his real name. Everybody in that part of the country calls him "Chief Hit 'Em On The Chin." All the chief said when he entered the tournament was 'Ugh.' So you can see that verbally he is a quiet fellow but listically he is very talkative."

He Likes to Work.

There are two fast and clever boys on the Winnebago team. They are Freddy Merrick, featherweight and Henry Mell Rice who fights in the welterweight division.

Rice seems to be a horse when it comes to work. At the time he finished second in the Sioux City lightweight division last year his week's schedule was about as stiff as any undergone by a Golden Glover. On three nights he played basketball with the Winnebago high school team. On the other three nights he fought his way through to the finals in the Sioux City Golden Gloves meet.

Desmond is certain that at least two or three of the Indians will be members of the Sioux City team when it invades Chicago for the tournament of champions at the Chicago Stadium on Feb. 24.

Sioux City Tourney Draws 150.

The Sioux City tournament has attracted about 150 boxers from 40 towns and villages in northwest Iowa, northeast Nebraska, southeastern South Dakota and southwestern Minnesota. An unusual phase of the tournament is that the heavyweight division has drawn as many entries as any other weight class.

The World-Herald's tournament this year has been designated as the midwestern Amateur Athletic union title meet so that the eight champions will be sent to the National A. A. U. meet at Cleveland as well as to THE TRIBUNE'S tournament of champions.

Hartnek Is Omaha Star.

Paul Hartnek, Creighton university football star, who reached the tournament of champions heavyweight finals last year only to forget to duck when Lorenzo Pack shot a hard right in his direction is expected to be the star of the Omaha team this year.

Student Body Divided.

The Creighton student body has divided into Hartnek and Vinciquerra factions, and some of the boys and girls are reported to have wagered their February allowance money on the outcome of this scrap.

Slightly more than 225 boys will fight in the Omaha tournament. Sectional tournaments are being conducted at Norfolk, Grand Island, Kearney, Lincoln and Blair, Neb. In all, about 40 towns will be represented in the Omaha tournament.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

RACING PUBLICITY.

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 26.—Hialeah, the most beautiful race track in America from a landscaping viewpoints, is not exactly jealous of Santa Anita near Los Angeles, which opened last winter to enthusiastic popular patronage. Yet Hialeah's sponsors recognize the tremendous publicity value of the Santa Anita $100,000 handicap which returned $108,400, the largest first money in world racing, to F. M. Alger Jr. of Detroit, owner of the winning Azucar a year ago.

Hence it is not surprising that added money of the Widener Challenge cup, whose inaugural will be run here Feb. 29, will be increased from $10,000 to $50,000 in 1937. That will tend to make it a lure for owners and trainers of older horses now casting eyes only at Santa Anita.

Presence of Discovery, handicap champion of 1935; Cavalcade, which went wrong in training a year ago but now seeks to establish the supremacy he had over Discovery as a 3 year old; Top Row, Azucar and other high grade handicap horses on the Pacific coast furnish interest and stories from now until the race is run a month hence.

In the matter of 2 year olds and 3 year olds, Hialeah will compare favorably, perhaps exceed in class, the caliber of youngsters running in the far west. But it is less easy to talk of form among the juveniles, especially so early in the year. The older horses offer more opportunities for conversation. There are many good handicappers here, but they do not compare with the Santa Anita aged division in conversational persiflage.

With so many eastern owners of prominence and with Florida so much nearer to New York than California, Hialeah could hardly be expected to allow its natural advantage of proximity to be nullified by an added value stake which took all the play. Hialeah, like Santa Anita, is liberal in its purse and stake offerings.

These two stakes of important money value, augmented by others of desirable emolument, with corresponding features for 2 year olds and 3 year olds, are changing the American racing picture. Once it was not uncommon to refer to winter racers as "plugs." With a few notable exceptions like Black Gold in 1924, they seldom figured largely after real racing got under way in the middle west and east.

Now purses and stakes are so valuable at the winter tracks of Hialeah and Santa Anita that a trainer who is trying to make his racing string pay out for his employer must survey his charges carefully to see whether he has anything available for the early earnings period.

YOUTH FOR AGE IS HAWKS' ANGLE IN HOCKY TRADE

Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, owner of the Blackhawks, last night announced the completion of the deal which started on Jan. 21, when the Hawks obtained defense man Earl Seibert from the New York Rangers in exchange for defense man Art Coulter. Last night's instalment brought Glenn Brydson, 24 year old right winger, to the Hawks in exchange for 33 year old Howie Morenz, forward, who was once one of hocky's leading scorers, but a player who has slowed up considerably since joining the Hawks at the outset of the 1934-35 season.

Get Choice of Five.

Maj. McLaughlin said that when the Seibert-Coulter instalment was completed arrangement were made for the Hawks to obtain the choice of one of five players nominated by Manager Patrick of the Rangers. The deal was completed secretly upon the arrival of the Rangers here, but announcement was withheld because the Rangers desired to and did play Brydson in last night's game.

Brydson, despite his comparative youth, is in his sixth season as a major league hocky player, having broken in with the Montreal Maroons in 1930-'31, though he played scarcely any his first year up. He remained four years with the Maroons, then was sent to St. Louis last year when the National league put a team in that city.

Brother of Shamrock Captain.

Following are the records of the two players involved in the transaction:

GLENN BRYDSON—Born Swansea, Ont., Nov. 7, 1911—24 years old. Right wing; weight, 165 pounds; height, 5 feet 9 inches. Last amateur club, Montreal Amateur Athletic association, 1929-30.

Karakas	9	4	6—19
Kerr	18	11	15—44

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Blackhawks kept right on going last night and advanced to within a half game of the league-leading Detroit Red Wings when for the second time in a week they slapped down the New York Rangers. The score was 2 to 1, Doc Romnes and Johnny Gottselig doing the Chicago scoring in the first half of the second period while the Rangers waited until the last 35 seconds of play before Frank Boucher got through for a solo tabulation.

The victory was the Hawks' third in four games since Earl Seibert joined the team and bolstered the defense. The other game was a tie, their last time out prior to last night, after they had led over the Canadiens. If they had made that one stick these Chicagoans, who were in a pitiful slump in mid-January, this morning would be in a tie for the league lead.

The Faithful Are Faithful.

More than 12,000 witnessed the lively affray, a total amazing even to Canadians supposed to think nothing of sub-zero weather. The Rangers set National league season attendance records when they played to more than 15,000 in each of their earlier appearances here, but in view of weather conditions last night the Hawk management had not anticipated more than 5,000 or 6,000 customers.

The first period saw Goalie Kerr making 18 stops and Goalie Karakas 9 as substantial contributions to the scoreless tie which prevailed as the period ended. Kerr had an especially lively time in the 16th minute when Romnes and Thompson gave him two merry workouts and March followed up with a jig-provoking sally.

Hawks Perk Up.

It was in the second period that the Hawks busted through with as much precision as they have exhibited all season. In the sixth minute of the period Thompson, with March keeping him company, took the puck into the Ranger defense zone. Defense men Ching Johnson and Art Coulter apparently had Thompson pinned in the corner but somehow Paul wriggled free to pass to the mouth of the cage where Romnes was waiting. Romnes caught the pass perfectly and rammed it home without giving Kerr much chance to continue his series of saves executed so agilely in the first period. March was given an assist.

Gottselig rang up what proved to be the winning counter three minutes and 25 seconds after the Romnes Thompson success. Marty Burke got the puck off his left boards deep in the Hawk defense zone and promptly skated out to middle ice, where he was flanked by Gottselig and Larochelle. The trio crossed the New York blue line abreast and four feet inside the line Burke passed to Gottselig. Johnny made a perfect pickup and fired forthwith. It was a high, speedy whack that blinded Kerr.

Boucher Gets One.

Frank Boucher made the lone New York counter when the game was 35 seconds from the end. It was one of those drives with everybody skating hither and thither. Boucher made a solo dash that no one feared much until he got through the Hawk defense on top of Karakas, whom he beat on a nice shot.

Adrian Iselin II. Wins Star Class Bacardi Cup

HAVANA, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Adrian Iselin II., sailing the Western Long Island Sound fleet's entry, won the Bacardi cup series in the international star class winter regatta today, although he finished sixth in the third and final race. Iselin's two victories yesterday gave him a final one point margin over the Cuban yacht Jupiter, sailed by G. Carricaburo, which won the final event.

MORE BOUTS THAN EVER BEFORE IN GOLDEN GLOVES

Three Sectionals Run on Same Night.

During the thirteen nights of Chicago's Golden Gloves sectionals hundreds of bouts will be held. In the nine years of Golden Gloves amateur boxing no program ever has been arranged which equals this for entries, number of contests, or the number of nights when tournaments will be in progress simultaneously. The Chicago sectionals have no match in any city in the world.

The west side trials begin Feb. 10. On Feb. 20 the finals of the North section trials will conclude the round-the-town program which will have qualified thirty-two Novice boxers for the semi-finals at the Stadium and thirty-two Open division boxers to compete against the champions from forty-three cities and the Catholic Youth organization.

Three at Once.

On three nights two of the Chicago sectionals will be held simultaneously, while on Feb. 18, the opening night at Loyola university, the west and south side meets also will be in progress. This is a tremendous task, and only the coöperation of the members of The Tribune A. A. backed by their years of experience will make the program possible.

Nine men are numbered in the list of referees. Several of these have been active since the founding of Golden Gloves in 1928. Only one change in personnel has been made since 1931. All are licensed by the Illinois athletic commission and the Central association of the A. A. U. The finest tribute that can be paid to their work is the fact that year after year they have satisfied the coaches of the contending teams in the Tournament of Champions. The list of referees follows:

Examinations on Wednesday.

Entries will close for this year's Chicago sectionals at midnight Jan. 30. No boxer will be accepted after that date.

The third of the physical examinations for Golden Gloves boxers is scheduled for Wednesday night at the Catholic Young organization center, 31 East Congress street. This examination will be held from 6:30 to 8 o'clock and is limited to C. Y. O. boxers. On Thursday night, between 6 and 8 p. m., the examinations at Trafton's gymnasium, 180 West Randolph street, will be resumed.

Hunters Like 30.06 Gun for Bear Shooting

BY BOB BECKER.

Although big game hunters who travel into the far north to hunt moose, sheep, caribou, brown bear and other big game in Alaska's wilderness use many different kinds of rifles, Charles Madsen, field manager of the Kodiak Guides' association, tells us that American sportsmen seem to lean toward rifles of 30.06 caliber when it comes time to draw a bead on a good trophy.

Mr. Madsen has been in Chicago several days meeting sportsmen interested in big game hunting. When we met him the other day we asked him about the bore of rifles recommended by himself and his guides, especially for Kodiak bears.

Tells of Favorite Rifle.

He said:

"Most sportsmen and our guides favor the 30.06 caliber gun, taking either the 180 or the 220 grain ammunition, for not only bears but most of the other big game that we have in Alaska. Of course, a hunter up there can use any big game rifle he chooses. Some sportsmen prefer a .35 caliber. The point is that one must hit a big bear in a vital spot to make him stay down. There are rifles of several different calibers that will do the trick, but I have noticed that there is a strong trend toward ammunition of the 30.06 caliber."

This was an interesting point to us because on our Alaska and Yukon Territory trip we banked on guns of two different calibers. We took along a Mauser 30.06 bolt action rifle and also a Mannlicher .256, which we found to be a dandy gun for mountain sheep.

Large Specimens Mounted.

Mr. Madsen arrived in Chicago in time to see two large specimens of Kodiak bears go on exhibition in the loop. One measures 10 feet 4 inches and the other 11 feet 3 inches. Both were killed by J. Bruce Allen, a Chicago sportsman, who was on Kodiak Island in the spring of 1935. These bears, mounted in an upright position, are on exhibition in the men's store of Marshall Field and company, the larger of the two being on the fifth floor. Until you see the 11 footer you do not realize the length and bulk of the big browns that live on Kodiak Island off the coast of Alaska. Incidentally both of these animals were dropped with 30.06 ammunition.

Bath Backers Hold Delay Is Help to Him

Hank Bath, young Fort Morgan, Colo., heavyweight hope, concluded training yesterday at Trafton's gymnasium for his ten round elimination match with Billy Treest, 1934 Chicago Golden Gloves champion, at Chicago Stadium tomorrow night. Treest will finish working out this afternoon at Madison Square loop gymnasium.

The bout, the most important in the career of either fighter, was postponed from Friday because of subzero weather.

Although the general opinion is that no boxer gets an edge over his opponent when a postponement occurs, Bath's handlers hold that the new date will be to Hank's advantage.

"The three days of extra training have helped Hank considerably," Ralph Volke, his trainer, said yesterday. "He weighs around 182½ pounds, the weight at which we want him to be against Treest. Therefore, he will be given a rest today."

Backers point out that this poundage is two more than what Bath scaled for his technical knockout triumph over Babe Davis earlier in the month. They contend that it will add power to Hank's wallops. On the other hand Treest has remained at 177 pounds, about the same as he weighed while knocking out his last three heavyweight foes.

Oimen Finishes Second in Austrian Ski Tourney

KITZBUEHEL, Austria, Jan. 26.—(AP)—The Norwegian ski jumper, Karlsen Bjarne, won an international meet here today with a jump of 63.5 meters [207 ft. 6 in.]. Casper Oimen, United States Olympic team member from Canton, S. D., placed second, and James Hendrickson of Canton, S. D., another Olympic team member, was sixth.

Salvatore and Zivic Meet in Marigold Bout

Geno Salvatore, Golden Gloves product from La Salle, Ill., tonight will attempt to take a step closer to a lightweight title bout with Champion Tony Canzoneri at the expense of Eddie Zivic, Pittsburgh, Pa. They will meet in a ten round bout which heads the boxing show at Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street.

Six months ago Salvatore held Zivic to an eight round draw. This was quite an achievement at the time, and great accomplishments were expected from Geno as a result. These failed to materialize. The La Salle youngster, in his very next start at Pittsburgh a few weeks later, suffered his first knockout at the hands of Zivic.

In subsequent appearances Salvatore gave Davey Day, Illinois' No. 1 challenger, a close call at Marigold, and held to a draw Eddie Cool, Philadelphia, at the Stadium. Geno showed improvement in each of these bouts and if he flashes the same skill tonight he might avenge the Pittsburgh unpleasantness.

Inasmuch as Zivic already has met Canzoneri, much to his regret, Salvatore must score a decisive victory over his Pittsburgh rival.

Tony Capone, Freeport, Ill., junior welterweight, and John Popjoy will make their Chicago debuts in a four round preliminary affair. Other matches at this distance involve Ben Irving and Willie Ross, and Tony Michaels and Davey White, all lightweights. Tommy Howell, Danville, Ill., will meet Sammy Verse in a five round semi-final if Verse' shoulder, which he threw out of place Saturday, has been repaired without any undue effects.

Jim Londos, former heavyweight wrestling champion, intends to train daily this week at Madison Square loop gymnasium in contemplation of making a comeback. . . . Sam De Pasquale, west side featherweight, will oppose Billy Ritchie in a four round preliminary to the Gorilla Jones-Tait Littman headliner at Milwaukee tonight. . . . De Pasquale also anticipates a supporting rôle on the Harry Dublinsky-Billy Celebron card at Cicero stadium Friday against Joe Wiley. . . . Dublinsky will resume drills this afternoon after taking a rest yesterday for the impending match, a twelve round welterweight elimination battle. . . . He expects to weigh 143 pounds Friday, four pounds less than the division limit. . . . The fourth annual amateur boxing show, sponsored by St. Malachy parish, will be held tonight at St. Malachy auditorium, Washington and Oakley boulevards. There will be eight matches between representatives of the Catholic Youth organization. F. M.

ALF ENGEN WINS SKI TITLE WITH LEAP OF 191 FEET

Canton, S. D., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Alf Engen of the Utah Ski club, Salt Lake City, leaped 191 and scored 151.1 points against a cold north wind that held the cercury at 15 below zero today to win the Central Ski association's tournament.

Engen's leap, only three feet short of the Hill record, was five feet farther than the best effort of George Kotlarek, Duluth, Minn., Ski club, who sailed 186 feet on his second jump. Kotlarek took second with 148 points. Sverre Engen, brother of Alf, was third in class A with a jump of 175 feet and 140.8 points.

Paul Bietila, 17 year old Ishpeming, Mich., youth, leaped 184 feet to win the Class C title. His effort was 84 feet father than his nearest class C competitor, Bob Leslie of Milwaukee. Russell Vastine of Chicago's North Shore Ski club, was third with a leap of 78 feet.

Billy Anderson, Chicago North Shore, cleared 164 feet to win class B. Martin Wingsness of the same club, was second with leaps of 152 and 156 feet. Trygve Stone, Fargo-Moorhead Ski club, Fargo, N. D., was third with leaps of 145-149 feet.

Thompson Backs Move.

The purpose of the organization to bring about a commission type of conservation department for the state—received implied endorsement from C. F. Muskegon Six Whips C.Y.O. Again, 3 to 2

The Muskegon Reds Hocky club defeated the C. Y. O. Shamrocks, 3 to 2, yesterday at Chicago Stadium before 15,000. It was the second time in a week that the Shamrocks have lost to the Michigan sextet.

Muskegon's star wing, Mike Kuzma, started the rally, driving the puck between the Shamrock goalie's legs in 1 minute 23 seconds of the first period. Wilbur Savela made both Shamrock goals. He evened the score in 4:30 of the first period only to see Lorey of Muskegon give the Reds the lead again in 17:38.

The third and winning goal for Muskegon came in the second period when Ray Shoberg scored in 18:45 assisted by Art Ericksen. Savela made his second goal in the third period in 16:25.

MICHIGAN MEETS CHICAGO IN ONLY BIG TEN BATTLE

Big Ten Standing

	W.	L.	TP.	OP.
Indiana	5	0	152	136
Purdue	3	0	121	80
Northwestern	3	2	180	136
Ohio State	3	2	146	123
Michigan	3	3	205	193
Wisconsin	2	3	139	156
Iowa	2	3	126	141
Illinois	2	3	138	131
Minnesota	2	4	163	213
Chicago	0	5	147	208

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Michigan's basketball quintet, dropped to fifth place in the Big Ten by the revived and surprising Minnesota Gophers, tonight will face Chicago at the Midway. Undoubtedly the Wolverines are hoping to salvage one victory from their western trip at the expense of the hapless Maroons just as Northwestern Saturday night, after losing to Minnesota, rallied at the expense of one more defeat for Chicago.

The Michigan-Chicago contest is the only conference game booked tonight, and there is only one more this week. Chicago is party to this, a game at Lafayette which brings Purdue, one of the undefeated conference leaders, back to the basketball wars.

Indiana Just Warms Up.

Indiana, the other conference leader, warms up with Louisville Friday and a week from tonight meets Minnesota at Bloomington. Indiana will have advantage of its home court and this may be needed inasmuch as the Hoosiers nosed out Minnesota by only 33 to 31 at Minneapolis.

Michigan's visit to the Chicago fieldhouse will furnish the city's basketball fans their first opportunity to see the Wolverines this season. The Townsend brothers from Indianapolis, and in particular John Townsend who holds second place in the individual scoring with 54 points, will be an attraction. Comparison will follow, of course, between Townsend and Capt. Bill Haarlow, who has scored 65 points in five games.

Vance Does Good Job.

Haarlow dropped in ten points Saturday night at Northwestern, three field goals and four free throws in eight penalty attempts, to retain his Big Ten scoring lead with 65 points. Capt. Duke Vance of Northwestern turned in a fine game defensively against Haarlow. Two of Bill's shots were one hand tosses from the corner. The other was a long distance looping throw from near center.

Defensively Haarlow had plenty of work in the second half for Vance twice got away under the backboard on sudden reverses which sent Haarlow skidding out of bounds. These two shots scored and Vance had another goal in the first half.

Maroons Keep Threatening.

Chicago, although defeated five times in conference play, has threatened twice this season to get into the victory column. Wisconsin whipped the Maroons 38 to 36 in an overtime battle which opened Chicago's Big Ten season. After losing to Purdue, 44 to 21, in which game Haarlow was held to one field goal, the Maroons lost to Indiana, 33 to 30, at Bloomington. Michigan took the first game of the series with Chicago, 51 to 33, and Northwestern won Saturday night, 42 to 27. Michigan's total is the single game high for the winter.

St. Leo Quintet Wins, 23-12, in C. Y. O. League

St. Leo's heavyweight team defeated St. Joachim's, 23 to 12, yesterday in the C. Y. O. basketball league to gain a tie for first place in the divisional standings. Each team has won five games and lost one. The contest was played at Leo High school gymnasium before a capacity crowd.

HUNTER BEATS WOOD ON 19TH; ENTERS FINALS

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Rallying after being three down, Willie Hunter of Los Angeles defeated Craig Wood of New York on the 19th hole today to enter the finals of the San Francisco match play open tournament.

Hunter, one time British amateur title holder, will meet Willie Goggin of San Francisco in tomorrow's 36 hole match. Goggin entered the finals by a 3 and 1 victory over Ray Mangrum of Los Angeles.

Wood Starts Well.

Goggin completed his semi-final round three under par, largely through a spectacular double eagle 2 on the 465 yard 10th hole, where he dropped his 200 yard iron shot. He was 2 up at the 9th, with a 34, one under par, to Mangrum's 36.

Wood, winner of the tournament in 1933, started out as though prepared to make a walkaway of his match with the veteran Hunter. Although his play was below his average, Wood's 36 for the first nine gave him a 2 up lead over Hunter, who had taken 38 strokes. At the 11th, Wood increased his advantage to 3 up and held it through the next hole.

Hunter won the next two, lost the 15th, and took the next one. The 17th was halved and Hunter squared the match on the 18th when Wood missed a three foot putt.

Wood Is Upset.

The incident unnerved the blond easterner and on the extra hole he pulled his second shot into a bank, muffed his third and overshot the green on his fourth. Meanwhile Hunter was down in par 5 to take the match.

In the quarter finals this morning Jimmy Thomson, from Ridgewood, N. J., Horton Smith and Ky Laffoon, stars from Chicago, were eliminated. Thomson lost to Goggin, 2 and 1; Mangrum beat Smith, 3 and 2, and Hunter disposed of Laffoon, 2 and 1. Wood defeated Benny Coltrin, San Francisco, 3 and 1.

OWENS IS RATED AMERICA'S NO. 1 TRACK ATHLETE

New York, Jan. 26.—(AP)—With his world record performances outweighing national championship defeats, Jesse Owens, Ohio State's famous colored athlete, today gained the distinction of being awarded three places on the 1935 All-American track and field team.

The selections, compiled by Daniel J. Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the Amateur Athletic union, list Owens for the 200 meter dash, the 200 meter low hurdles, and the running broad jump. Owens shattered world marks in the yardage equivalent of the two track events and broad jumped 26 feet 8¼ inches, all on a single afternoon in the Big Ten meet last spring.

Four places were awarded to Owens on the all-college team, also selected by Ferris. The Ohio State star was named for both sprints, as well as the low hurdles and broad jump in collegiate company. The effect of the Ferris list is to establish Owens as America's No. 1 track and field athlete for the new Olympic year.

JENNINGS WINS FIRST NET TITLE ON ICE SKATES

Although subzero temperatures made prolonged competition difficult, Chicago's top ranking tennis stars competed in the first tennis tournament on ice skates in Chicago.

Playing on the ice covered courts of the Edgewater Beach hotel, George Jennings, four time national public parks champion, advanced through early round matches with ease and then defeated Thane Halstead, Illinois state champion, 6-4, 6-4, to win the men's singles title.

In the doubles, conceded by experts to be the most practical of the competition on ice, Halstead paired with George O'Connell to beat Jennings and Gordon Braudt, 6-3, 6-4, and win the Dewey cup, emblematic of the championship.

GEO. BALL WINS FIRST MATCH OF WESTERN TENNIS

In the women's division, the No. 2 seeded player, Yolanda Mentes of Chicago, was eliminated in the first round by Mitzi Radek, Chicago, 8-6, 6-8, 6-3.

Bruins Defeat Americans 2-1 in Last Period

New York, Jan. 26.—(AP)—The Boston Bruins climbed a step nearer third place in the United States division of the National Hocky league tonight by defeating the New York Americans, 2-1, before 12,000.

A scoring splurge in the final period enlivened an otherwise dull game. The Americans took a lead of 1-0 at 3:02 of the last period. Nels Stewart, an ex-Bruin, took a pass from Joe Jerwa, also a former Bostonian, to score a goal.

However, Manager Frank Patrick sent in pesky little Peggy O'Neil whose persistent chasing of the puck seemed to disorganize the Americans. The Bruins quickly rammed in a pair of goals. Sid Cowley scored the first at 8:51 when he sent the puck into the Americans' cage on a low, hard pass from Graham. Lorne Duguid hung up the next at 9:52 when he stickhandled through a bewildered New York defense to score after picking up Cowley's well executed pass.

Before the start of the game the garden lights were dimmed, with the teams lined up on their respective blue lines, a bugler sounded taps in memory of the late King George.

The lineups:

A. GORDON, COAST RACE DRIVER, DIES FOLLOWING CRASH

Gordon's car, carrying his mechanic Spider Matlock, blew a tire and went into a spin as he was driving desperately to make up lost distance.

Gordon had escaped death many times in a brilliant racing career. He entered the national automobile races at Indianapolis twice, and was involved in spills both times. Only last week he announced plans to enter the big race again.

Sonja Henie Wins European Skating Title

BERLIN, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Sonja Henie of Norway, who has been rated as the world's leading woman figure skater for nearly a decade, won the European women's figure skating title today after facing the closest competition of her career.

The 24 year old Norwegian girl, defending the championship for what she said would be the last time, barely outscored Cecelia Colledge, English Olympic hope, in the Sports-Palast before a big crowd which included Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, reich minister of propaganda and public enlightenment; Air Minister Herman Wilhelm Goering, Hans von Tschammer-Osten, reich sports leader, and other Nazi leaders.

The tall English girl earned second place, only a few points behind Miss Henie, by flawless performance in today's free skating figures. This, with her excellent composition and the difficult feats she chose to perform, enabled the 15 year old Miss Colledge to overcome most of the advantage Miss Henie had gained in the compulsory school figures yesterday. The Norwegian girl's perfect performance of the required turns was all that enabled her to win the title for the ninth time.

Miss Henie's performance was scored by the judges at 434.6 points, while Miss Colledge received 417.2. Another English skater, Megan Taylor, also was close to the leader with 413.9 points. Liselotte Landbeck, former Austrian skater, now a Belgian citizen by marriage, took fourth place with 403.6 points, while Vivi-Ann Hulten of Sweden, runnerup to Miss Henie last year, finished fifth with 400.2 points.

Ronchetti Wins Western Skate Championship

Vic Ronchetti, 4347 North Cicero avenue, Chicago, won the Western outdoor skating championship at Aurora yesterday with a total of 70 points. Wallace Fee Jr., who froze both feet, tied with Al Kucera of Chicago for second place. Eleanor Thiel won the women's title in a skate off with Elaine Bogda and Ann Vitaska of Chicago.

Wallac Fee, president of the Western Skating association, called a special meeting after the meet to announce Chicago city races at Humboldt Park next Sunday. No Chicago skaters will be given permission to enter any other sanctioned meet, Fee announced.

OLYMPIC BELL RECEIVED WITH POMP IN BERLIN

BERLIN, Jan. 26.—The Olympic bell, which was cast especially to "call the youth of the world together to the Olympic games in Berlin," was received with a solemn ceremony in Berlin today and carried in a triumphal procession along the broad avenue stretching from the ex-kaiser's palace to Olympic field, which also will be the setting for welcomig parades for foreign delegations and teams next summer.

Special masts have been erected along the road to carry the Olympic banners and to increase the general air of festivities.

BRADDOCK SAYS LOUIS IS ABOUT READY TO SLIP

Miami Beach, Fla., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Heavyweight Champion James J. Braddock said today he believed Joe Louis, whose sensational victories have made him chief challenger for Braddock's crown, is at his peak now.

"He'll be easier to take when we meet than he would be today or yesterday," Braddock said.

Braddock thinks that in the months elapsing before his first title defense he will become stronger, bigger and better able to handle the former Chicago Golden Gloves champion. He already has gained 18 pounds.

Perhaps the condition which is causing your loss of hair may not be as serious as was Mr. Beckmann's. Regardless as to what the cause may be, it will surely lead you to baldness unless you promptly take proper steps to overcome it. Dandruff, for example, is the most common and most deadly enemy of hair health. Thomas treatment effectively overcomes dandruff, stops falling hair, itching scalp and promotes hair growth on thin and bald spots. In fact, The Thomas' successfully treat all of the 14 local scalp disorders which are responsible for 90% of all baldness.

Come in today and have a talk with a Thomas expert. No charge is made for a complete scalp examination nor for consultation. (Scalp examination, consultation, and treatment are always in private.)

The funeral of Mrs. Rosella Bartley Sheil, mother of the Most Rev. Bernard J. Sheil, senior auxiliary bishop of the Catholic archdiocese of Chicago, who died early yesterday of a heart trouble aggravated by pneumonia, will be held Wednesday, it was announced last night.

Services will be at St. Columbkille church, 1648 West Grand avenue, where, at 10 o'clock, Bishop Sheil will celebrate solemn pontifical high mass. Burial will be in All Saints' cemetery, where Mrs. Sheil's husband, James B. Sheil, former Chicago real estate broker, is buried.

Seriously Ill Since Monday.

Mrs. Sheil became seriously ill last Monday. Acute complications of an old heart ailment, later aggravated by pneumonia, weakened her condition and resulted in death, physicians said. A year ago she recovered from an illness of the same nature after a siege which necessitated use of an oxygen tank. Her heart had been growing weaker for several weeks before the attack.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Hal Kemp, for whom King Edward VIII. once played the drums, has just been proclaimed the favorite dance orchestra leader of the nation. Kemp was the winner in the third annual poll just completed by the National Institute of Social Dancing. More than 1,100 dancing academies throughout the United States participated in the balloting, according to Arthur Murray, president of the institute.

HAL KEMP.

Kemp, who rose to popularity in Chicago, is now playing at the Manhattan room of Hotel Pennsylvania, New York, whence his programs are aired over W-G-N and the Mutual network. Kemp just nosed out Guy Lombardo for first place, 3,463 to 3,379. Third place went to Eddy Duchin with 2,776 votes. In fourth place was Glen Gray's Casa Loma orchestra, and then followed, in order, Wayne King, Ray Noble, Emil Coleman, Horace Heidt, Ted Fio-Rito and Jan Garber.

Mr. Murray explained that the poll was taken to ascertain what band has the most distinctive and enjoyable dance rhythm. Thus such bands as Fred Waring's, Paul Whiteman's, who specialize in concert arrangements, giving secondary consideration to dance tempo, were not among the first ten.

Kemp has an unusually distinctive style, emphasizing rhythm rather than melody. He organized his band while an undergraduate at North Carolina university and soon after graduation headed for Europe where he became a favorite both in England and France before he achieved a national reputation at home. Edward VIII., then the prince of Wales, often came to dance at the club where Kemp played. Later by chance Kemp and the prince returned to America on the same liner. It was during this voyage that the prince asked to relieve Hal's drummer, Skinnay Ennis. The request was granted and the prince banged away through many a number.

In addition to Kemp, Wayne King, Horace Heidt, Ted Fio-Rito and Jan Garber are heard over W-G-N—MBS or were last year. Lombardo will join this coterie at the Palmer House in May.

Though Lombardo outstripped Kemp in the New England states Kemp's popularity in the midwest and the south made him the winner, Murray explained.

"Of the ten bands, only three, Wayne King, Horace Heidt and Emil Coleman, do not make phonograph recordings. Thus their popularity is due mainly to their broadcasting activities."

"All dancing academies have noted a marked new interest since the success of pictures featuring Fred Astaire, Eleanor Powell and Bill Robinson," he explained. "Thanks to his revival, 3,000 more dancing teachers voted this year than participated in last year's balloting."

It was noted that the waltz had declined somewhat in favor but that tangoes had become more popular.

WHEAT PRICES INDICATE HOPE FOR GOOD CROP

U. S. May Regain Its Export Markets.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The price relationship now existing in the Chicago grain market between new and old crop wheat futures illustrates the market's appraisal of the new crop prospects. The May wheat future, calling for delivery of wheat before the new crop is harvested is currently quoted at $1.01¾ a bushel. The July wheat contract, a new crop future, is selling at 89⅝ cents, a discount of more than 12 cents a bushel as compared with the May price.

The chances for a good harvest of winter wheat are considered favorable. The domestic supply of wheat on which the country will draw on between now and July, however, is small enough to hold the price of the May future above the dollar mark. The new crop futures are selling below European prices and the United States is nearer an export basis than it has been for several years.

Canada Exporting Wheat Surplus.

Meanwhile, Canada is conducting an active export business because of the willingness of the new dominion wheat board to sell at prices considered reasonable by European buyers.

Assuming a good wheat harvest this season in the United States, there is the possibility that this country will again become a factor in the export market. In the last few years of short harvests and scarcity economics, the recapture of foreign markets was not seriously considered by those seeking promotion of the farmers' welfare. Present conditions suggest, however, that the opening up of foreign outlets for American agricultural products may yet prove the real farm relief that has been sought so industriously by professional planners.

Canada's Action Offers Lesson.

The experience of the Canadian wheat board has a good deal of significance for this country. Price pegging was a popular poitical pastime for several years in the dominion. The last election, however, returned to power a party that had pledged itself specifically to liquidation, as rapidly as possible, of the government's accumulated wheat surplus. That program is being carried out.

In this country the Supreme court has disposed of the triple A and while congress is grabbing wildly at new plans for agricultural relief, the fashion in such matters appears to be changing. Now appears the prospect that the United States may regain markets for her farm products without benefit of government aid through opening up of foreign markets.

Currenty speculative sentiment in the market appears fairly evenly balanced. That loosely worded market influence, inflation, appeared to bring a little buying into the market late last week.

Bonus and Margins Significant.

The passage of the bonus over the presidential veto by the house and the hoisting of a warning signal by a reserve board in boosting stock market margin requirements, were seen as significant signs of the times. The volume of trading in the grain market, however, was light and when the week closed the principal wheat futures were selling a cent a bushel above the quotations prevailing a week earlier.

Federal Test of Credit Curb Is Developing

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26.—(AP)—A test of federal controls over the flow of credit into speculation is in the making.

Three moves indicating federal authorities fear another speculative boom, fed by the great supply of idle bank funds, have come to light. They are:

1. Announcement of an increase in margin requirements for brokers against stocks, effective Feb. 1.
2. Preparations for issuing long delayed rules for banks on stock loans.
3. Coöperation between the treasury and the federal reserve board to check expansion in surplus bank funds by holding a large proportion of the treasury's heavy cash balances in the reserve instead of commercial banks.

Reserve Board Changes.

But, from all indications, the virtually new board will take office Feb. 1 with its major monetary controls untouched. They consist chiefly of the powers, considerably strengthened in the 1935 bank bill, to change reserve requirements for member banks, to exercise the controling voice in open market purchase and sale of government securities by the reserve banks and to manipulate the rediscount rate as a means of influencing interest rates generally.

In resorting to its authority to regulate margin requirements under the securities and exchange act, the reserve board last week utilized what some financial experts regard as its most flexible and effective means of reaching stock market speculation without at the same time directly touching business credit needs or putting obstacles in the way of government borrowing.

May Divert Speculation.

There are some who believe clamping the lid on stock market credit merely would divert speculation into commodities and real estate. Ultimately, they hold, Washington would have to call upon its major controls to prevent an inflationary boom from getting out of hand, once it got going.

But in its power to change margin requirements the board has a new weapon which has not been blunted by use. Some officials say it already has proven its worth, pointing out the advance of the share market last year took place with little expansion in security loans because as stocks rose margins increased under the system of optional requirements laid down in 1934.

Tentative margin regulations for banks have been sent to bankers for study. They are expected to be put in force soon in conformance with the percentages prescribed for brokers.

Recently there have been signs of a turn toward expansion in direct bank loans against securities as well as in brokers' loans. They are believed to have hastened action.

UNION PACIFIC TO RESTORE FAST PORTLAND RUN

The City of Portland, Diesel electric powered streamlined train of the Union Pacific, will resume service between Chicago and Portland, Ore., Thursday, Feb. 6, on a 39¾ hour schedule, the road announced yesterday. This crack train, after a series of tests conducted yesterday at the Pullman car works here, will leave Chicago tomorrow morning preparatory to going back into regular service via the North Western and Union Pacific.

The train was taken out of service last year for repairs and for the installation of improvements.

At the same time the road announced a new development in interior car design for its other streamliners which are now being built in the Pullman shops. The work of Sterling B. McDonald, Chicago specialist in transportation design, the interiors of all the cars in the new transcontinental streamliners will be finished in wood veneer in combination aluminum. At the ends of the dining cars will be bars with etched copper and blue mirrors, lighted by illuminated tubes in the background.

RAILWAYS, FARM MACHINE FIRMS BUY MORE STEEL

Minimize Auto Sag; Rate Now 50 Pct.

Railroads and makers of agricultural implements are offsetting to a considerable extent the decline in steel orders from the automobile industry, says the magazine Steel in its current issue. For this reason the decline in operating rates last week was held to 2½ points, the average for the country being 50 per cent of capacity.

Heavy tonnages have been placed already by the carriers for cars and car repair material, the journal relates in its weekly review of the industry. Last week the inquiries for steel to be used in rails and equipment were 46 per cent above any week in the last twelve months.

While most districts were reporting operating losses last week, Chicago advanced ½ point to 53 per cent of mill capacity, Wheeling gained 2 points to 70 per cent and Birmingham was up 10 points to 51 per cent.

Other Districts Show Declines.

Declines for the week included 3½ points to 37½ per cent at Pittsburgh, 15 points to 30 per cent at Buffalo, ½ point to 36½ per cent in eastern Pennsylvania, 10 points to 83 per cent in New England and 3 points to 51 per cent at Youngstown. Other districts were unchanged.

The railroads' contribution to keeping the steel mills operating at relatively high levels has been growing steadily. The Pennsylvania has allocated most of the 115,000 tons for its new car and rebuilding program, and the Chesapeake and Ohio has awarded 7,000 tons for car repairs.

The Burlington has started work on rehabilitating a second group of 500 freight cars. It also has placed an order for two or more 10-car Zephyr trains, taking 300 tons of stainless steel sheets, one of the largest single orders for this material. Plans are being formulated by the Erie railroad for early purchase of 500 to 1,000 freight cars and 18,000 tons of rails. The Pacific Fruit Express is inquiring for 3,000 refrigerator cars.

Railroads Get Federal Loans.

In addition to these awards and prospective orders, the interstate commerce commission has approved federal loans for some of the carriers, including one to purchase 35,000 tons of rails by the New York Central and authorization for the Missouri Pacific to spend $6,000,000 on rails and equipment.

Agricultural equipment makers are reported to be increasing production schedules in order to fill orders from dealers, who wish to be well stocked for the spring trade, and steel demand from machine tool makers is well sustained. Road builders are counting on a billion-dollar expenditure for highway improvements.

Scrap prices are again rising, an advance of 4 cents last week placing the magazine's steel scrap composite at $13.21 a ton. The iron and steel composite also rose 4 cents to $33.38 a ton but the finished steel index remained at $53.70 a ton.

COLD WEATHER CHECKS RETAIL TRADE IN CHICAGO

Retail trade slumped sharply in Chicago last week as the result of cold weather, but public utilities, coal dealers and taxi companies profited by the abnormal drop in temperatures, the Chicago Association of Commerce reported yesterday.

Wholesalers were not adversely affected, as the presence of thousands of retailers and out of town merchants in the city for conventions and trade exhibits tended to keep up demands. Total sales of both divisions, however, were somewhat below the preceding week.

The industrial trend was slightly upward. General opinion indicates that early spring will witness another spurt in durable goods and allied lines, the association says. Executives at current trade shows report greater interest and sales in new equipment.

HART-SCHAFFNER CO. REPORTS 1935 PROFIT AGAINST LOSS IN 1934

Net profit of Hart, Schaffner & Marx for the fiscal year ended Nov. 30, 1935, amounted to $273,825, Mark W. Cresap, president, disclosed yesterday in his annual report to stockholders. This was equal to $1.82 a share on 150,000 $20 par capital shares, and compares with a loss of $668,259 in the preceding year.

Cresap said the parent company showed a profit of $188,110 and subsidiaries $85,714. Earned surplus was boosted from $422,806 on Nov. 30, 1934, to $2,603,668 a year later, the bulk of which was represented in a transfer of $1,500,000 in contingent reserves to surplus.

In his report, which does not contain an income account, Cresap said sales increased substantially and expenses were reduced. The tone of business is healthier, he added, and with the increase in advance orders thus far received for the spring season, further improvement should occur.

He said the company is using moderate amounts of borrowed money, due in part to larger inventories. The total on Jan. 27 was $300,000. Current assets on Nov. 30 stood at $6,292,831, of which $423,291 was in cash, against current liabilities of $1,005,422.

GENERAL MOTORS "SCIENCE CIRCUS" TO GO ON TOUR

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 26.—(AP)—A "circus of science," housed in 28 motor vehicles, and sponsored by General Motors corporation, will roll southward from Detroit tomorrow, Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president of the company, said the purpose of the exhibit will be "to foster a better understanding of how industry and science work together even during depressions for new advances."

A large housing exhibit, showing the "home of yesterday," and "the home of today," is included in the caravan, demonstrating the use of steel in structural and interior uses. Another exhibit shows experimental procedure of a modern industrial research laboratory. Progress in transportation and highway safety also are included.

The "circus" will travel 20,000 miles during 1936, officials said. In transit, it is two miles long.

J. T. PIRIE ENDS LONG SERVICE AS CHAIRMAN OF COMMERCE GROUP

John T. Pirie Sr., prominent Chicago merchant, has resigned as active chairman of the transportation committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce after eleven years of continuous service. He has been succeeded by William D. Dean, president of Sprague, Warner & Co., but will remain with the committee as honorary chairman.

The most recent accomplishment of the committee under Pirie's leadership was the successful culmination of long negotiations with the railroads to give Chicago free storedoor pickup and delivery service on shipments to the south, west and southwest. This service will be available to local manufacturers and distributors over an area taking in nearly 50 per cent of the country and consequently consolidates the position of Chicago as wholesale center of the nation.

Another notable feat of the committee was the establishment of a freight rate adjustment into the area beyond the Ohio river, placing Chicago on a parity with the Atlantic seaboard in trade relations with states in the southeast and Mississippi valley.

The committee has also urged the railroads to make fast package car service from Chicago to the Pacific coast and other distant points.

M. S. SZYMCZAK LIKELY TO HOLD RESERVE POST

When President Roosevelt submits his appointments to the new federal reserve board to the senate today, M. S. Szymczak, a Chicagoan, is expected to be included in the list. Szymczak, former city controler of Chicago, was appointed to the present board by the President in June, 1933. He has been the youngest member of the present board, being only 38 when appointed. Czymczak was born in Chicago, Aug. 15, 1894. In addition to being on the staf of the college of commerce of De Paul university, he was an official of several building and loan associations and served as a bank official.

Auto Buying Slackens, but Tops Year Ago

Retail automobile sales in the seventh federal reserve district were down substantially in December, compared with November, although more than double figures for the final month of 1934, the Chicago Federal Reserve bank said last night in its report on business conditions. The district covers major parts of Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, Indiana, and Michigan.

Wholesale sales were down only 1.7 per cent and were actually up 0.4 per cent in value from November. They were 176.8 per cent greater in number and 217 per cent greater in value than during December, 1934. For all last year 66.4 per cent more cars of 61.3 per cent more value were distributed.

Retail Auto Sales Compared.

The decline in retail volume was 18.8 per cent in number and 16.9 per cent in value from November, but sales were up 167.9 per cent in number and 125.5 per cent in value from December, 1934. Sales for all of 1935 were up 30.6 per cent in number and 28.5 per cent in value from 1934.

Stocks of new cars at the end of December were up 19 per cent in number and 16.9 per cent in value from November and 180 per cent in number and 188.5 per cent in value from a year before. The entire year produced a rise of 8.7 per cent in number and 14.1 per cent in value.

Used car sales were off 4.7 per cent from November, up 43.4 per cent from December, 1934, and up 20.1 for 1935 over 1934. Stocks were up 10.1 per cent in number and 4.8 per cent in value from November, 53 per cent in number and 47.2 per cent in value from the preceding December, and 50.3 in number and 50 per cent in value from the close of 1934.

December Output Sets Record.

Automobile production of 344,613 passenger cars set a new record for the month, exceeded the previous December by 210 per cent, and compared with 338,425 in November. The year's total of 3,285,836 was 51 per cent over 1934 and the largest since 1929, which it failed to equal by 29 per cent.

The furniture industry had its best volume since 1930. Shipments and orders during each month were sharply over corresponding 1934 figures. December showed a seasonal decline of 34 per cent from November in orders booked and a less than normal recession of 7 per cent in shipments. Compared with December, 1934, orders were up 25 per cent, shipments were up 55 per cent, and unfilled orders up 60 per cent. Operations at 67 per cent of capacity were 4 points under November but 19 above December, 1934.

Industry Moves Faster.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Industrial production in December reached the highest peak since the spring of 1930, the federal reserve board reported tonight in its monthly summary of business and financial conditions.

The board's seasonally adjusted index, which takes account of the seasonal decline that usually occurs in December, advanced from 98 per cent of the 1923-'25 average in November to 103 per cent in December.

"As in other months during the last half of 1935" the report said, "the rise in the index was due in large part to increases in output of durable manufactures, particularly iron and steel and automobiles."

During the first half of January, production of steel and automobiles increased somewhat, following declines in the holiday period, the report said. Output at mines also was larger in December than in November.

INFLATION TALK PUTS NEW LIFE IN STOCK MART

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 26.—Inflationary winds once more are fanning the smoldering embers of speculative enthusiasm on the stock exchange. A buying movement, set in motion by the soldier bonus legislation and stimulated by rumors of further dollar debasement and a fresh "revaluation" of silver so as to raise its gold ratio to the ancient 16 to 1, carried the market averages up nearly 2½ points in the last three trading sessions of last week, the index on fifty representative issues reaching the highest level since September, 1931.

Trading volume picked up briskly with turnover running to around 3,000,000 shares on Thursday, 2,540,000 on Friday, and 1,656,700 shares for the two hour week-end session yesterday.

Brake on Market.

The new margin requirements imposed by the federal reserve board—presumably as a "gesture" against a possible "runaway" market—had the effect of slowing up speculation for the rise for a while in the early dealings yesterday, but a fresh crop of inflation talk was opportunely forthcoming to turn the tide to the bull side once more when foreign speculators launched another attack on the dollar on the foreign exchanges and the market finished the week with an appropriate 'ittle flourish of activity and higher prices.

Official denials of the new currency expansion rumors had no appreciable effect on the course of market operations. Brokers agreed that much of the buying in the new upturn, as in the five months advance last year, was "outright" rather than margin purchases, indicating that a goodly element of the speculative community is sold on the idea that the market is "out of the woods" and that further recovery may be looked for.

Retail Sales Retarded.

Trade reports continue to favor the rise, although retail sales over a good part of the country were retarded to some extent by the cold wave. However, Dun and Bradstreet reported a broadening of buying on winter reorders and spring commitments.

Their weekly review of business conditions stated, however, that volume for the country as a whole held to from 3 to 6 per cent above 1935 levels. Brisk business was done in men's and women's apparel, furniture and house furnishings.

Railroad carloadings for the third week of January exceeded last year by 8% per cent, and were again the largest of the period since 1931. Steel production for the week was for the first time in many weeks below that of the corresponding period of 1935.

ONE IN 10 CLOSED BANKS REFUNDS MORE DEPOSITS

State Auditor Reports on Their Condition.

The Columbia Trust and Savings bank was the only one to yield a further return to depositors during the final quarter of 1935 among the ten closed banks for which State Auditor Edward J. Barrett last night issued statements of condition as of Dec. 31, 1935.

The Cragin State bank is the only one of the group expected to make a payment during the first quarter of this year. The Congress Trust and Savings bank already has paid depositors in full. Two banks in this group still have returned nothing—the Commonwealth Trust and Savings and the Cosmopolitan State.

Release of 40 per cent of deposits of the Cosmopolitan State is awaiting only the signature of waivers. Jacob R. Darmstadt, chairman of the organization committee, said yesterday that 90 per cent of the required amount of deposits has been waived, including practically all large accounts.

Can't Locate Depositors.

Darmstadt said difficulty has been encountered in locating a number of depositors who have moved, but expressed hope that the plan will be ready for final approval of the state auditor soon. The plan involves a loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation, formation of a new national bank, and purchase by the latter of some of the holdings of the old bank.

Individual analyses of the ten banks follow. These contain best available information on prospects for future returns to depositors, as well as showing the progress of liquidation and distribution of receipts to date and for the final quarter of 1935. Figures used apply to the entire receivership unless otherswise stated.

Cash in reserve, $69,500.

CORPORATE BOND MARKET STRONG; U. S. LIENS WEAK

Low Priced Railway Issues Most Active for Week.

New York, Jan. 26.—(AP)—The corporate bond market retained a marked degree of composure last week in spite of developments of far-reaching importance in the political sphere and some nervousness in international affairs.

Large scale accumulation of low priced railroad issues, many of which established new highs for 5 years or more, was the feature. Industrials and utilities of the better classifications were not as popular in speculative quarters, but institutional buying kept the averages of these two groups bumping against the 1935-36 peak. Foreign bonds, especially the South and Central American loans, were in good demand.

Federal Bonds Lower.

United States government securities spent the week in a declining curve. Passage of the bonus bill by both houses of the congress, its veto by the President, and its prompt reenactment by the house of representatives, was the most important development of the week affecting government finance.

Other news centered around a sharp shakeup in international dollar rates, which carried the British pound sterling to its highest level in more than a year and sent some of the gold currencies close to the point at which it would be profitable to ship gold to Europe. The movement was preceded by a flurry of rumors in European centers that some change might be made in the monetary policies of the United States government. These rumors were officially denied in Washington.

Foreign Issues Are Strong.

The Associated Press averages of 10 foreign bonds established new 1935-36 highs four days in succession, largely as a result of steady improvement in loans of the Central and South American governments. The averages of the four domestic groups held firmly around recently established highs, with the best showing made by rails.

Money market conditions remained extremely easy throughout the week.

GENL. ELECTRIC ORDERS INCREASE 18% LAST YEAR

Orders received by the General Electric company during 1935 amounted to $217,361,587, compared with $183,660,303 in 1934, an increase of 18 per cent, according to President Gerard Swope.

Orders for the quarter ended Dec. 31 amounted to $58,417,822, against $51,046,760 for the last quarter of 1934, a rise of 14 per cent.

Sales billed and earnings for the year 1935 are not yet available. A complete annual report will be issued in March, Swope said.

Volume of sales billed in 1935 by the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company was the best since 1930 and an increase of approximately 35 per cent over 1934, according to A. E. Allen, vice president. The merchandising division, he said, enjoyed about the same measure of gain. Sales of refrigerators rose 46 per cent, while sales of electric ranges expanded 49 per cent.

Holland Furnace Planning Increase in Capitalization

Holland Furnace company has notified the New York Stock exchange that it proposes to create 32,000 shares of convertible preferred stock of no par value and increase the authorized common stock from 500,000 shares to 600,000 shares.

BANK SEES HIGH TAXES AS BRAKE ON PRODUCTION

Calls U. S. Policy Obstacle to Efficiency.

Business faces a tax burden which may impair the efficiency of the productive system unless governmental policy is changed sharply or some of the recent legislation is declared unconstitutional, the Guaranty Trust company of New York said last night in the current issue of the Guaranty Survey, its monthly review of business and financial conditions.

"If it could be assumed that the tax burden on business would decline to something approximating the predepression average as recovery progresses, the figures for the last few years would afford less ground for concern," the review said. "Unfortunately, no such assumption can be made. The depression years have witnessed further extension of governmental activity into new fields, with rising tax rates and with rapid growth of public debts.

Heavier Taxes Foreseen.

"Both the new activities and the larger debts will require greater tax revenues than in the past. This would be true even if the extension of public activities and the increase of debts had been halted. Both processes are still going on and no definite end is in sight."

State and local governments show the same tendencies as the federal government, the Survey said, and the only reason the rising expenditures have not been felt more severely is that a large part of them has been financed by borrowing.

Explaining that the tax burden is measured by the ratio of taxes to income, the rise has occurred because of sharply decreased income rather than increased payments. The burden on business has been heaviest, amounting to 201 per cent of profits in 1933, the bulletin said.

Sees Incentive Lessened.

"As long as business concerns are under the necessity of earning profits in order to survive," the survey continues, "a charge against these profits, for purposes however beneficial, constitutes a danger to the individual enterprise and dimunition of incentive to production for the industrial system as a whole.

"There exists, therefore, a real danger that extension of governmental activities and increase in public debts may result in a tax burden that will seriously and permanently impair the productive efficiency of our industrial system.

"Another consideration that is important is that there cannot be adequate taxation unless there are profits to be taxed. Recent legislation has tended to subject business management to an increasing degree of regulation and to make it increasingly difficult to control costs.

Raps Government Competition.

"At the same time, government competition with private business has been increased and carried into new fields, levying on business what amounts to an indirect tax. In so far as earning position is impaired by regulation and competition the tax burden will be increased and the ability of business to support governments correspondingly decreased.

"Even under most favorable suppositions, it is impossible to escape conclusion that business faces the prospect of a heavier tax burden than it has ever experienced over a sustained period."

GLASS WORKERS CALL OFF STRIKE; GET WAGE RAISE

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Union officials and glass company representatives reached an agreement today on a strike which halted employment of 5,000 workers more than three weeks.

Glen W. McCabe, head of the Federation of Flat Glass Workers of America, ordered pickets withdrawn from plants of the independent Fourcault Window Glass manufacturers and instructed all workers to return to their jobs.

McCabe and William L. Monro, of Pittsburgh, representing the manufacturers, announced the strike settlement. Their statement added:

"The agreement provides for a 5 per cent increase in present [wage] rates, a 50 cents [per hour] minimum, and other provisions mutually satisfactory to both workers and manufacturers."

AIR CONDITIONING SHOW WILL OPEN AT YARDS TODAY

Two Conventions Will View Devices.

Modern scientific advances in air conditioning for homes, industry and transport will be shown at the International amphitheater, Halsted and 42d streets, with the opening of the fourth International Heating and Ventilating exposition today.

The exposition is primarily for the benefit of more than 10,000 delegates from 40 states and 5 Canadian provinces who are expected to attend the forty-second convention of the American Society of Heating and Ventilating Engineers, which opens a four day session at the Palmer house today, and for several hundred members of the National Warm Air Heating and Air Conditioning association, who will hold their midwinter meeting at the Stevens hotel Wednesday and Thursday.

Invite 150,000 to Exhibit.

Nevertheless, home owners, industrialists and builders who realize the benefits and the need of air conditioning, have been invited to the exposition, which is to end Friday. Admittance is by invitation. More than 150,000 persons have received invitations to view the 300 displays.

Among exhibits of interest to home owners are disclosed by a preview yesterday is the latest design of home heating, air conditioning and hot water supply plant. It is in one compact unit the size of a furnace. It consumes oil as fuel and is said to be wholly automatic. Clocks, thermostats and motors form the mechanical brain of this unit.

A hot water plant for homes and apartment buildings which seeks economy through use of oil such as is used by Diesel engines, is a part of another exhibit at the exposition.

A Mechanical Weather Man.

Man's age-old interest in weather is met with a device on exhibition which gives temperature and humidity conditions, and which is said even to give accurate forecasts of changes in the local weather. Ideal regulation of temperature and humidity for the sake of health is possible in office or home through use of another device on display.

The exposition hall is on the second floor of the amphitheater so as not to interefere with the holding of the President's ball on the main floor Thursday night.

Kelly to Open Session Today.

Today's session of the heating and ventilating engineers will be opened by Mayor Kelly with an address of welcome. At the annual banquet to be held Thursday Dr. A. C. Willard, president of the University of Illinois will be presented with F. Paul Anderson medal in recognition of notable achievements in the industry.

Marshall, Montgomery Ward & Co.

Poll Shows 112 of 113 Illinois Cities Opposed to New Deal

Only one of 113 cities with populations of 5,000 or more in Illinois voted in favor of the New Deal in the Literary Digest national poll of sentiment, according to a tabulation made public yesterday by the magazine. The one pro-New Deal city, according to the poll, is Madison, population 7,661, on the Mississippi river near East St. Louis. The tabulation follows, showing the recently completed 1935-'36 poll and the 1934 poll, comparison of which shows a heavy swing against the administration. The yes columns indicate those who favor continuation of New Deal policies, and no columns those against them:

How to Become a BEAUTY EXPERT

What are your ambitions to be? An "ordinary" mediocre beauty operator trained to work only in the "cheapest" shops at minimum wages? Or—wouldn't you rather be a genuine beauty expert with sufficient training, practical experience and technical knowledge to qualify you for a good paying position in a high class shop?

Unquestionally you want to be an expert and earn more money. DeLEE trains its students to be real experts.
